—GOOD FARMING — An evidence of good farming in the good old district of Grand River is given in the annual report of the Department of Agriculture when the name of Mr. Alphonsus McLellan, Arlington, appears prominently in several places for grain. Mr. McLellan had the highest combined score for grain in the three counties (95.6) and also had the highest score for Barley in Prince County.

—RETURN HOME — Mr. E. H. Monkley, with his Counsel, Mr. C. D. McCallum have returned home from Moncton, N. B., where they spent the past week attending Supreme Court there. Mr. Monkley, was plaintiff in an action against a party in New Brunswick for breach of contract on the purchase and sale of a number of foxes. Mr. J. Edgar Milligan, Northam, of the firm of Milligan & Morrison was also in attendance as a witness. The case was tried before Judge Crockett of Fredericton, and the decision has been reserved.

IN MEMORIAM

THE LATE JOSEPH PRAUGHT.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Joseph Praught of Beech Hill, Queen's County. He passed away at his home there Monday evening.

He was a well known farmer and much respected throughout that section of the country, and beyond its borders. He was a devout member of St. Joachim's Church at Vernon River, and was a man of strong religious convictions. For nearly fifty years he was a valued member of the choir, and he ever delighted in taking part in religious exercises.

He leaves to mourn a widow, three sons, Albenies, a telegraph operator on the N. Y., N. H. and Hartford Railway, James at Vernon River and Galueses on the homestead, also one daughter, Mrs Pearle J. Brothers of Elliotvale.

To the bereaved the sympathy of all will go forth.

MR. DANIEL MacQUARRIE.

The death occurred at his home in Roseneath, at six o'clock Monday evening after a month's illness of Mr. Daniel MacQuarrie, a well-known and highly respected farmer.

He was the son of the late Neil MacQuarrie and Elizabeth Stewart and was born at Georgetown. After his father's death, his mother married the late Henry Gordon of Brudenell River, and here Mr. MacQuarrie resided until removing many years ago to Roseneath, where he engaged in farming, achieving by his industry and intelligence a large measure of success.

Mr. MacQuarrie was a man of splendid character, and greatly esteemed by a wide circle of friends.

He leaves to mourn a widow, three sons, Charles on the homestead; Lloyd in Alberta; Willard in Saskatchewan; two daughters, both at present at home, Ethel, trained nurse at New York, who was in constant attendance on her father during his last illness, and Florence, wife of Mr. Mont. Wright of Alberta.

One brother, Judge Neil MacQuarrie of Summerside and three half brothers, Henry, Oswald and Fred, Gordon, residing abroad, also survive him.

The funeral takes place today at 2 p. m. to Montague Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev C. E. Armstrong of the Church of Christ.

To the bereaved relatives the Guardian extends its sincere sympathy.

held this position of popularity in sales for the past nine consecutive years, so that it would seem to be an almost indisputable fact that any one who invests money in such an automobile is receiving the greatest value that is presented in the market today for the money expended.

Mr. Myers then proceeded to give a brief talk in the General Motors' latest product—the Pontiac Motor Car. This is a six cylinder car, built along lines, in so far as quality of material and workmanship is concerned, comparable with autos which sell for 3 or 400 dollars more in price. This car posseses such features as torque-tube drive, all metal universal joint, low centre of gravity, a particularly stong and rugged motor and a frame that can stand any road conditions. On January 1st, 1926 the first Pontiac car was sold to the public. A year later, January 1927, car number 76,542, was assembled. Looking back over the annals of the automobile industry, this record is double that of any product of any another new make of car ever introduced. The Pontiac Automobile Mr. Myers said in concluding is a quality car sold to the public at a price very little in excess of what they have been accustomed to pay for a four cylinder. The advantage and of favorable comparison of this car to six cylinder cars in regard to riding, driving and all conditions is obvious to all.

Annual Meeting of Anchor Ball Club

The annual meeting of the Anchor Baseball Club was held in the Board of Trade Rooms last evening and was largely attended.

Secretary Treasurer, Mr. Edward Nicholson after presenting his report, briefly reviewed the activities of the past two years saying that although he thought the Anchors had a better year of baseball in 1925 the year of 1926 added greatly to the prestige of the "Down Westers" who demonstrated their ability as ball players of no mean calibre, and added that only the breaks went against them the championship, in all probability would be resting in the western end of the city.

The Secretary's report wa adopted as read.

Mr. Byron Brown, the retiring President spoke in glowing terms of the wonderful strides made in baseball in this city. He cited the different performances of the Anchors, and in passing remarked that more or less hard luck kep the Anchors from the City League Championship. Mr. Brown suggested that the boys get together, good and strong, for the best interests of the Club, for only by perfect harmony and co-operation can any athletic organization prosper.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Edward Nicholson
Vice Pres.—George Francis
Secy Treas.—Harold McLean
Executive Committee — James Heron, John Saunders, Spurgeon Diamond.

It was moved and seconded that two delegates be appointed to attend the annual meeting of the City League which is to be held in the near future.

Votes of Thanks

It was moved and seconded that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Nicholson for his painstaking and splendid efforts as Secretary Treasurer during the past year.

Moved and seconded that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Byron Brown, retiring president for his zeal and interest in the Club's activities and in his capacity as President, which he ably took care of.

Moved and seconded that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. George Tull, Anchor collector for 1926, for the efficient manner in which he conducted his duties.

The above gentlemen made suitable replies.

Messrs Norman Lowther and Lyman Davidson addressed the meeting, offering numerous and helpful suggestions whereby the Club may add to the already fine reputation which it enjoys today.

The Markets

MONTREAL, Que., April 12. — The foreign demand for grain in the Montreal market today showed some improvement and a moderate amount of business was done in wheat and low grade oats with the continent. The only business of importance in the domestic market was the purchase of several loads of No. 1 Northern wheat at 17 3-4 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg May option CIF Montreal for loading at opening of May. The trade in coarse grains was quiet, the demand being only for odd cars and prices were unchanged. There was some demand from foreign for spring wheat grades of flour and some business was worked for nearby shipment, but apart from this the market was quiet and steady. The trade in winter wheat grades was quiet but firm. A fair trade was again done in all lines of millfeed and values were unchanged. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices ruled steady. Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 4,025 cases. The weakness that developed in the local butter situation on Monday was a gain a feature today and prices dropped another three cents per pound making a net decline in two days of six to seven cents per pound. The outlook is that they will reach a still lower level before the close of the week. The easiness is attributed to the increased arrivals. Sales of New Zealand and Australian finest creamery butter was made at 37 1-2 cents to 38 cents per pound, and Western townships No. 1 pasteurized was quoted at 37 cents per pound. The receipts were 532 packages. The demand for cheese continued extremely dull but prices were unchanged. Western grades were quoted at 16 1-2 to 17 cents per pound. The receipts were 268 boxes.

THE SIN OF JUDAS

Extract of a Sermon Preached in Trinity Church by Rev. W. M. Ryan, on Sunday Evening, April 10.

Preaching on the "Sins That Crucified our Lord," of which the Avarice or Moneyloving of Judas was one, Mr. Ryan spoke in part as follows:—

Whatever may have been the betrayer's motive, however much he may have failed to comprehend our Lord's character. There must have been an inordinate love of self, and love of gain, an altogether undue regard for purely personal good. And it was this greedy, avaricious spirit, which did not shrink from the risk of sacrificing even the person of Jesus, but delivered the innocent over to those who were clamoring for His death.

And, as John Ruskin well says, "We do Judas a great injustice, if we think that he was wicked above all common wickedness. He was only a common money-lover, and like all money-lovers the world over, he simply could not understand the Christ. He saw no good in this benevolent business, and was bound to make his own little job out of it, come what may.

And Judas has had many successors. We must all recognize, I think, that money, as far as it represents the universal product of human toil, is in itself a good and not an evil. And if money is in itself good, then money-getting and money-moking the alsoTubglarger money-making are also good, worthy objects of human toil and endeavor; because the money thus made may increase the usefulness of the truly Christian man a thousand fold.

Money-loving, however, is an altogether different thing. And when a man cares more for money than for men, when he will sacrifice the interests and even the lives of his fellows for the sake of money, then he becomes a common money-lover, and joins the company of Judas. And, believe me, the money-lovers of the world today, those who love it to this extent that they would sacrifice human interest and human lives to get it, are just as guilty and just as murderous and just as contemptible as Judas ever was, and are under just as great condemnation.

Think, for example, of the employer who screws down the wages of his workmen to the lowest notch in order that his company's dividends may be 20 or 30 per cent. And as a result, because of unsanitary tenements and the lack of proper food and nursing in time of sickness, the families of those working men show an abnormally large death rate. What is the essential difference between the policy of that employer and the policy of Judas? "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to Me."

Take but one other illustration that doubtless has been in your minds all the while that I have been speaking to you—the shameful and murderous liquor traffic. What is at the bottom of it? What is it that makes men cling to it so tenaciously and give it up with such reluctance? Is it not of course that liquor-makers and liquor-sellers love to bring poverty and suffering and disease and death upon their fellows, not that; but simply the fact that the liquor business happens to be the way in which a certain class of worthless men find that they can most easily satisfy their greed for gain, their love of gold.

And it is not, therefore, the love of liquor, strong and deadly as that is, but the infinitely stronger, more murderous and heartless love of money, that makes the liquor traffic so hard to exterminate in our land. It is the inordinate money-lover, sinking to the level of Judas—yea, even lower than that, and for the sake of filling his own pockets stooping to take advantage of a depraved and unnatural appetite on the part of his fellows. And any government that legalies such a traffic in the bodies and in the souls of men; and more than that any individual who by the casting of a single ballot consciously and willingly lends his support to such a business, history will show, I believe, to have been equally guilty before God and man.

I am not a politician and I do not wish to be so understood. A man's principles and his conviction of right ought surely to rise above every purely party consideration. And I should like to say here tonight with all the conviction of which I am capable, that I am unalterably and forever opposed to the sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage by any government or any individual in any shape or form, because I believe it to be contrary to the laws of God and fatal to the best interests of human society.

I challenge any man to deny the truth of this statement. The liquor business has not a single good thing to its credit in all the years in which it has been on trial before the world. It has been a curse and nothing but a curse in every land and in every period of History.

And if, therefore, men will make and sell intoxicating liquors, let them be compelled to do so as out laws. Let them know that they are criminals and lawbreakers. And let the government, instead of joining hands with the bootlegger in his contemptible business and sharing in his ill-gotten wealth, ferret him out in every way possible and bring him to judgment, and make him suffer the penalty of his crime, thus safeguarding the lives of the week and the tempted on every hand. Surely that is the true function of any government that is worthy of the name, to protect the weak and not to enrich itself by catering to the depraved appetites of men.

As we would shun the remorse and condemnation of Judas, let us free ourselves from all complicity in any business in which gain to ourselves is based upon a corresponding loss and injury to others.

Let us make sure that no piece of money finds its way into our pockets, or into the treasury of our province, which deliberately and without consent represents unnecessary privation or suffering or injury to any of our fellow men.
