STYLE AND FINISH

Without quality can't make permanent business. But quality without Style and Finish never gets any business. It's so the world over. So we crowd in our boots, all that catches the eye—but we never forget to put into them that inherent wearing value which makes them "stand the racket". One of the correct things for men's wear is a heavy soled box calf with wide toe, $4.50, leather lined. Worth it! Worth more!

Dr. A. Gilmore

An assistant surgeon in the British East Indian Army says a native, swallowed 15 rupies worth $7.50 one of which is shown in the museum of the College of physicians and surgeons of London. Now we are going to give a reduction of 40 per cent off for three or four weeks as we want money on account of having a dull trade the past winter, and we are going to make better of it than swallowing it or putting it on exhibition or museums. We want the money to pay for our new goods just arrived and also to pay other bills, so come along and help us. We have some very nice Brooches, rings, sleeve links, watches and chains, ladies' guard chains, stick pins, clocks, silverware, spectacles, etc.

Cut His Beard at Last.

Mr. D. F. McDonald, who has been a resident of Parry Sound for many years, and who is known by almost every citizen, walked through the main streets of that town the morning after the elections totally unrecognized. When the McKenzie Government was put out of power in 1878 Mr. McDonald took a solemn vow never to shave his face until the Liberal party had control of the country again. He kept his resolve, and until the morning of the 24th of June last he wore a noble beard. On that morning, however, when he learned that the Liberals were victorious, he shaved off his beard, and it made such a change in his appearance that few knew him as the D. F. McDonald of old.—Toronto Globe.

Spoke His Wife to Sleep.

The Washington gossips are telling a good story on Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina. When he made his speech on his bond sale bill he invited his wife up to the Senate to watch his efforts from the gallery. It was so long that she went to sleep, leaning on the front rail of the gallery, not caring to go out and in that way make folks think she was uninterested in what her better half was saying. Some Senator went and told Butler that his speech had put his own wife to sleep. The Senator saw the point and wound up his brilliant remarks a good deal sooner than he expected to.

Marriage in France.

A new law, promulgated in France this week, is officially described as for the purpose "of rendering marriage easier." It simplifies the proofs of parential consent. The chief alteration is that whereas a man under thirty or woman under twenty-five had to give three successive monthly notifications to refractory parents that their consent would be dispensed with, a single notification by a man over twenty-five or a woman over twenty-one will now suffice. One month after such act of respect the marriage may be celebrated.—Paris Letter.

A Story of Lord Kelvin.

It is told of Lord Kelvin that, during a long course of lectures on magnetism, his characteristic definition of an ideal magnet as "an indefinitely long, infinitely thin, uniform, and uniformly and longitudinally magnetized bar," was received with applause, which drew a sharp "Silence!" from the professor. Before the end of the session the definition and reprimand had been so often repeated that the students one day, through accident or design, did not respond. Lord Kelvin, however, from force of habit, called out "Silence!" all the same.

Crockett's Boyhood.

An aunt of S. R. Crockett, the Scotch writer, has lived in Springfield, O., for thirty-three years. She says that among his boyish traits which excited comment was his willingness to make any sacrifice for books. Every penny was saved with that object in view. As he grew older he would spend days upon the hills, studying the landscapes he would portray with his pen, and writing to gain greater grace and facility.—New York Tribune.

Her Ready Retort.

Mr. Ferguson (who has been ready to start to the theatre an hour or more)—Laura, if you had to take a train for heaven you would get left. Mrs. Ferguson (buttoning her gloves)—I don't know whether I would or not, but if I did catch it, I know I would have to travel without any escort.—Chicago Tribune.

The Title-Hunting Americans.

Of eighty-five American women married to Englishmen of social distinction in London, forty-three of them have titles—three of them being duchesses, one of them a marchioness, three of them countesses, two of them viscounteses, one a baroness, many of them having the title of lady.

English as Spoken By Frenchmen.

She—Well, good-bye, Chevalier. But I hoped you would have stayed longer with us. The Chevalier (who prides himself on his English sayings)—Ah sank you mais helas! I fear me I must go cook some fish! (The Chevalier intended to say that he "had other fish to fry."—Judy.

Maine and the Horn Fly.

The rural papers in Maine are full of complaints about the horn fly, which has actually driven farmers to keep their cattle in their barns in some instances. A single fly of this fiendish species will so torment a cow that she can not feed, and it greatly affects the yield of milk, both in quantity and quality.

Large Churches.

The largest churches in Europe will contain the following numbers: St. Peter's, Rome, 54,000; Milan Cathedral, 37,000; St. Paul's, London, 25,000; St. Sophia's, Constantinople, 22,000; Notre Dame, Paris, 21,000; Pisa Cathedral, 13,000; St. Mark's, Venice, 7,000.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

A SONG OF A MOTHER.

Sometimes, when dusk creeps softly down
I run out the eastern sky,
Weary of toil and sick at heart
I lay my labors by,
And fold my hands and close my eyes
To sit and dimly dream.
While all life's sorrows drift away
On reverie's silent stream.
Then I am but a little boy,
Beside my mother's knee,
Hearing again the old sweet songs
That once she sung to me.

Happy the dreams wherein arise
Dear visions of the past;
Ah! dear, so dear that I could pray
They might forever last—
That I might thus through all the years
Her boyish lover be,
And hear again the old sweet songs
That mother sang to me.

Sometime, perhaps, when life is done,
We two once more shall know
The pure delight that graced our days
So many years ago;
Love's compensation shall atone
For all the lonely years,
To-night accept, O mother mine,
The tribute of my tears.

—Frank Putnam.

JUST A REMINDER

Lest You May be Deceived by Dealers Who Offer You Substitutes and Imitations of

Dr. Chase's Syrup Of Linseed And Turpentine.

Cough mixtures are legion. Nearly every dealer has some preparation of his own to offer.

Thorough cures for coughs and colds are rare, and when you find a medicine that you can rely on for such affections, as well as croup, whooping cough, bronchitis and asthma, you do well to stick to it.

Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has by far the largest sale of any such remedy on the market, and as the demand increases by leaps and bounds every year we believe that this is due to the peculiar merits of this preparation.

You only need to be reminded that it is sometimes necessary to insist on getting what you ask for. Dealers have other preparations of linseed and turpentine put up to look as nearly as possible like Dr. Chases and because of larger profits may try to induce you to try the imitation.

There is one way to be sure, and that is by seeing the portrait and signature of Dr. Chase on the wrapper.

Do not be contented to take any preparation offered you because it is "only a cold." Colds lead to the most fatal diseases, and you cannot afford to take risks with new and untried treatments.

From childhood to old age, from the time when croup threatens, the baby's life until the aged mother or father are victims of asthma, Dr. Chases Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the most effective treatment obtainable; 25c a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co, Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—

I beg to acknowledge payment of Policy No. 5152 for $2,200 on my life. The amount paid by me for premiums on this policy was $2,282.28.
