Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain extending from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumors. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

"Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more; and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but findin[illegible] that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor.

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundred of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice.

NOT VERY POLITE KEIR HARDIE RAGGED BY COLLEGE STUDENTS

Pelted Labor Leader With Oranges and Tried to Kidnap Him—An Uproarious Time When He Tried to Talk on Socialism

LONDON, March 12—Mr. Keir Hardie added to his stock of experiences on Saturday afternoon the piquant sensation of finding himself the victim of a Cambridge "rag."

The Labor leader had been invited to speak at the Cambridge Guildhall by the local Labor committee and Fabian Society. The unflattering reception prepared for him by junior members of the university is set down to his Socialistic views and his sympathy with the Suffragettes.

For nearly half an hour before the speakers appeared the hall was a scene of wild uproar. Ladies, believed to be Newnham students, who were present in large numbers, took alarm at the demonstrations of the gownsmen, and some, who had been given front seats, climbed for safety into the orchestra and over the platform rail, a proceeding which was enthusiastically cheered. Next, a "bomb," in the form of a bottle containing, it is said, sulphuretted hydrogen, was hurled from outside through a window, striking a picture, frightening several people out of the hall, and filling the building with noxious fumes.

AUDIENCE STAMPEDE.

When Mr. Keir Hardie and his supporters appeared on the platform the noise became deafening. The platform was fusilladed with oranges and lumps of sugar. Mr. Keir Hardie was struck full in the chest by an orange, but this did not disturb his equanimity. Another bottle was thrown, apparently at the platform, but it fell among the occupants of the front seats, the penetrating odour of its contents causing a stampede. The chairman, a Labor committee-man, and a police inspector begged for "order," but in vain. Mr Keir Hardie rose with a smile on his face. He was first conciliatory, then sarcastic. He offered to give "a straightforward answer to any straightforward question." It was easy for twenty men to howl down one, but there was not much honor in the job. Labor looked to the universities for instruction in good manners. It was useless. The young men would not tolerate a speech. Then the Senior Proctor, the Rev. G. A. Weekes, appeared on the platform, and by an appeal to "the honor of the university," succeeded in effecting comparative calm, of which Mr. Keir Hardie was able take advantage for twenty minutes.

VOLLEY OF LUMP SUGAR.

His first mention of the world Socialism was received with shouts of "Down with it." Mr. Keir Hardie persisted. Many of their most vigorous and enthusiastic workers and advocates were, he said, university men (Cries of "Shame.") There were men and women who realized that there was something more sacred than property. ("Rot!")

Eventually the turbulance became so great that it was decided to close the meeting, and the platform party withdrew under a renewed fire of lump sugar.

Dark Brown Taste

Your Head Aches Tongue is Coated Mouth Tastes Bad Stomach is Sick.

The Gastric Juices Are Not Doing Their Duty and You're in the Grip of Nervous Dyspepsia.

A hot bitter fluid, and sour indigested food rise in your mouth.

Your vision is crossed with specks that float before the eyes.

Very shortly you'll have nausea, sunk breath, and sleepless nights.

What you need is Ferrozone.

It regulates the gastric juices, puts new life into the stomach, braces digestive powers, gives the aid that's so badly required.

Ferrozone is the best treatment because it goes to the root of the trouble, remedies the conditions that cause dyspepsia and thereby cures permanently.

If you want proof, read the experience of Mr. E. P. Davison, a well known resident of Portland, who writes: "Ferrozone is beyond doubt a most powerful cure for indigestion and weak stomach. Food so badly disagreed with me that I was almost afraid to eat. Pastry and starchy foods fermented, caused sour risings and gave me headache, brown taste offensive breath. I grew weak, my weight ran down fifteen pounds and my looks fully indicated all that was wrong. Ferrozone put me on my feet again. It braced me up, renewed my digestion and made me a well man."

Doctor and patients alike speak of the merit of Ferrozone. It is different from other remedies, different because it cures, so you stay cured. Try it sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

ADVERTISING IS BROAD.

Advertising in itself means publicity and publicity is a very broad and comprehensive term. It does not mean simply a word whispered to a favored few. It is, rather, synonymous with a general, broadcast declaration, and the broader the scope of the announcement, the better the advertising. No occupies space that directs attention along given and desired lines can be reasonably regarded as wasted; nor can any funds expended to this end be adjudged extravagance.—American Medical Journal

Always Keeps Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in His House.

"We would not be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is kept on hand continually in our home," says W. W. Kearney, editor of the Independent, Lowry City, Mo. That is just what every family should do. When kept at hand ready for instant use, a cold may be checked at the outset and cured in much less time than after it has become settled in the system. This remedy is also without a peer for croup in children, and will prevent the attack when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, which can only be done when the remedy is kept at hand For sale by all druggists.

GOOD ADVERTISING.

"Good advertising is that which sells goods," and no other sort is "good advertising." This may sound unreasonable. But is it? I think not. One man will say that good typography is good advertising; another will say that clean-cut wording of the ad is good advertising; another is carried away with the idea that eyecatching illustrations is good advertising. Varied are the ideas on the subject. None can dispute that good advertising is the kind that sells the goods, however.

Good advertising is builded upon a little word of seven letters. It is spelled h-o-n-e-s-t-y. No matter how attracting an advertisement may be constructed, it is not good advertising unless "honesty" is its feature. There are those who will say: "Well, I know of advertising that was not honest and it produced results." The fellow who would make such a remark probably meant "temporary results."

It is impossible for temporary results to be construed into meaning "good advertising." The truth of my assertion is proven by the desire on the part of many advertisers to use such advertising as will produce results right along, even after the advertisement is withdrawn.

Honesty" is the only ground upon which such advertising can be constructed. Attractive advertising may catch the reader's eye, perhaps inducing him to buy, but it will not make him recommend the goods to some one else unless he got a square deal and believes the article deserved recognition. Honesty brings recognition and recognition sells goods. Perhaps, we should have said that "honesty and recognition" form the foundation upon which good advertising is built.

Not long since a big cigar store in New York city advertised to sell a certain brand of cigar at a cut price. The advertising was attractive and convincing to the point that hundreds of people went to the store the day the advertisement appeared for the purpose of purchasing the particular brand of cigars advertised. The moment the customer asked for the cigar he desired, a slick tongued individual said: "We are selling this cigar (showing something different) to-day in boxes of 25 for $1.25. It is a great bargain and we are making a drive on them." When the other cigar was again asked for, the flippy lipped clerk produced them with the admonishment that the customer was throwing away a chance to pick up good money by not buying the special box of cigars.

That sort of advertising is not good advertising; it is not honest advertising; it is not advertising of the sort that creates recognition. A sucker may be born every two or three minutes, but the advertising that is good advertising is the kind that influences recognition among a conservative, money-earning, money-spending advertisement reading people.

"Good advertising" means honesty all along the line. It does not mean pitting your wit against that of the buyer or in saying that your methods and your goods are the best. Every advertiser can say the same thing. Nor does it mean saying that your competitor is on the run.

You take the first few steps toward good advertising when you let the public know that you are pleased to see that others are doing well. Bear in mind that common sense is yet prevalent among people who read advertising. "Good advertising" doesn't mean dragging another fellow down. Be pleased that other advertisers are making good. "The survival of the fittest" may sound all very well, but you are courting "good advertising" midst pleasant hours, when the public is willing to believe that you are of the opinion that about everybody is fit to survive; when the public believes you are honest in your business and that shopping with you means getting a square deal.

SUDDEN DEATH PROPHET DOWIE

He Became Suddenly Delirious Talked As He Used To

CHICAGO, March 9—John Alexander Dowie died at 7.40 this morning at Shiloh House, Zion City. There were present with him when he died only Judge D. N. Barnes and two personal attendants. It had been Dowie's custom to hold religious services every Sunday afternoon in the parlor of Shiloh house. About 350 of his original followers attended these services. Dowie always wore his apostolic robes and made a characteristic address. Seven weeks ago these meetings ceased and Dowie appeared no longer in public. The Sunday meetings, however, were being held by his adherents. Since that time Dowie had gradually been failing. Friday afternoon, however, there was no indications of approaching death. He received a few followers and prayed for some people. His condition seemed to be about the same as for the last two or three weeks. One of the attendants remained with him until midnight, and was relieved by the other attendant. Shortly before one o'clock this morning Dowie became delirious and his talk was the same as at a religious meeting in the days of his prime. He denounced with the old time vigor, ordered the guards to throw out disturbers and acted just as he had on many previous occasions. He gradually became weaker and weaker and the attendant telephoned for Judge Barnes, who reached Shiloh House at 7 a. m. Forty minutes later Dowie died. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

The Doctor Said Nervous Prostration

BUT AFTER WEEKS OF EFFORT HE COULD NOT HELP ME, AND I WAS CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Sleeplessness, failure of appetite and digestion, and then nervous collapse. This is the story told in this letter. But there is also new hope for similar sufferers in the cure described.

Mrs. Alf. Stevens, Burgessville, Oxford county, Ont., writes:—

"Two years ago last November I was run down, and did not know what was wrong. I could not sleep or eat, and at last my nervous system gave way entirely and I had to go to bed. The doctor told me I had nervous prostration, and, though he doctored me for some weeks, I did not get any better.

"I then began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the time I had used six boxes I was completely cured. People remarked how well I looked, and I said, 'Yes and I feel well, that is the best of it, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did it.'"

"Twenty years ago," said Dr. Weir Mitchell, the great American authority on disease of the nerves, "the treatment of diseases was the highest medical idea. Now the highest ideal is prevention of disease."

In the front ranks of preventives must be placed Dr. Chase's Nerve Food because it works on the principle of increasing the quantity of rich blood and nerve force in the body and thereby keeping vitality at the high water mark.

This is the only way in which nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia, paralysis and many less dreaded disease can be prevented or cured, and cure of such ailments when once they are thoroughly established means long weeks and months of persistent treatment.

The old saying that "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is nowhere so applicable as in diseases of the nerves, and there never was so effective a preventive as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This is being proven every day in thousands of cases. 50 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
