marketed may be deferred to any time in 1946, 1947 or 1948. This will enable the farmers to avoid increases in income taxes.

The Minister also announced the Government's program for oats, barley, and oilseeds in the 1946-47 crop year, providing for an increase from $2.75 to $3.25 a bushel for barley while prices for the other grains remained unchanged.

Mr. Hlynka said he had hoped the English-speaking countries would eventually have taken a "firm stand" against the "inhuman" repatriation to the Soviet of displaced persons and that all who considered themselves stateless would be given an asylum and protection in the western world.

He added:—

"Alarming but authentic reports continue to reach Canadian citizens to the effect that United States, British and Canadian soldiers not only are permitting Soviet authorities to comb British and American zones for refugees, but are actually aiding the Soviet authorities in this man-hunt of defenceless people."

He made an "earnest appeal to the Canadian Government to make provision for the admission to Canada of a "generous" number of close relatives of Canadian citizens, as had been done in the United Kingdom. Somewhat similar action was being taken by the United States and Australia.

The Government also should give "serious consideration" to allowing Canadians to send to their relatives among those persons food and clothing and should make immediate arrangements for personal and direct mail service between Canada and displaced persons camps.

Mr. McLure called upon the Dominion Government to fulfill the confederation pact by seeing that Prince Edward Island had cheap transportation facilities between the Island and the mainland.

Mr. McKay said he was disturbed by the fact returned servicemen were unemployed, many were drawing out-of-work benefits and unemployment insurance while others were spending in idleness their own personal savings.

Mr. McKay criticized the Government for allowing the construction of unessential buildings at a time when homes were desperately needed. Needed materials were being exported. He also urged revisions of the Veterans Land Act to facilitate the re-establishment of servicemen.

In Memoriam

In fond and loving memory of our father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Robbins, Bedeque, who died March 22nd, 1940 and March 25th, 1941.

Gone dear parents, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling faces—
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your places.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

GARBAGE COLLECTION

had been purchased in 1940 for the convenience of the streets foreman in maintaining contact with the various crews working on the streets. The little truck, the Mayor said, had long ago paid for itself and had been a good investment. He did not know, however, where it was stored at night and asked the City Clerk for information.

Mr. Fullerton said there was no storage space available except, perhaps, in the Fire Hall, which was not a suitable place by reason of the necessity of not allowing anything in there which might interfere with the speedy exit of the fire engines. Usually, the truck remained outside the City Hall at night.

Coun. Cox said there had been considerable mention of the truck in the press and that there were reports it was being used for other than City business. He thought those reports should be either confirmed or denied.

Coun. Farmer said he understood it was not always used on City business.

Coun. Cox: "It is reported that the gray truck has often been in the country and not on City business."

Mayor MacDonald: "I know no instances of this kind under my administration. I understand the City Clerk has occasionally used the little truck to go home at 5 o'clock when he had to return after dinner in order to work in his office. He is only obliged to work until 5 o'clock, but night after night he has returned to work in his office without additional charge to the City, and he is deserving of commendation for it."

Coun. N. W. Lowther: "It would be better if the truck were not used for such purposes."

Coun. Farmer: "It should be put in a garage after 5 o'clock."

Coun. F. C. Dougan: "That cannot be done. You can never tell when it is needed for an emergency. If that is all Coun. Farmer has to criticize, there is little to worry about. He is the man who wants the R. C. M. P. to police the City. They have 12 or 13 cars running around this country, yet you pick on the little grey truck."

Discuss Taxes

The question of taxing billboards and mail order houses maintaining offices in the City for distribution of their goods was brought up by Coun. Farmer and the Council agreed to give both questions further consideration at a future meeting.

The followng resolutions were passed:

"That permission be granted the Keefe Hygienic Service to increase their rates from $1.25 to $1.50 per month for the year 1946. (Moved by Coun. Stewart; seconded by Coun. Cox).

"That the City of Charlottetown purchase the fire pumper from War Assets Corporation as per specifications submitted. (Moved by Coun. J. Gordon McDonald; seconded by Coun. Stewart)."

Religious Reception At Convent

On Monday, the Feast of the Annunciation, the Chapel at Mount St. Mary's, Mt. Edward Road, was the scene of a beautiful ceremony in which four young ladies received the Religious Habit of the Sisters of St. Martha in the presence of their immediate relatives.

The Rev. Patrick J. Gallery, C.SS.R., as delegate of His Excellency the Bishop, conducted the ceremony and celebrated Holy Mass, assisted by Rev. William Simpson. A very appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. K.C. MacPherson, who took as his subject St. Paul's exhortation to the Colossians to "mind the things that are above". He congratulated the young novices, three of whom were his former parishioners, The Sisters' choir sang the traditional psalms and the ceremony concluded with the Blessed Virgin's solemn canticle of praise, the Magnificat.

and this promise, he said, had been fulfilled. Citing from the record, Mr. McLure quoted the promises of improved island-mainland communication made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Rt. Hon. (now Viscount) Bennett, Hon. C.A. Dunning, Hon. James G. Gardiner, and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

He told the House also that Opposition leader John Bracken had made a detailed study of the ferry question and had pledged fair and equitable treatment to the province in this respect, when he and his party were elected to power.

Mr. McLure scored the Minister of Transport and the present Government for standing aside and washing their hands of the rates charged for trucks on the Borden-Tormentine ferry.

"At one of the sessions of the Railway Committee of this House last year," Mr. McLure said, "the president of the Canadian National Railways declared, 'we think we are very generous in allowing the trucks to go on the ferry at all', and again 'we do not think the rates for trucks on the ferry are unduly high; everything that crosses over in the trucks is in direct competition with the railway'."

The C. N. R. president, Mr. McLure contended, did not know what the actual rates for trucks were when he gave his evidence before the House committee. Had he known the actual figures, Mr. McLure felt certain that he would have testified that the truck rates were ridiculously high and would have agreed that no province of Canada should stand for such exorbitant charges.

"I am not blaming the C.N.R.," the Queen's member continued. "I know their duty is to operate their railroad. But I do blame the Government for allowing this condition to prevail. It must be remembered that our contract is with the Government of Canada itself,—not the C.N.R. which fills only the role of a sub-contractor."

Discusses Tourist Industry

Speaking of Prince Edawrd Island's tourist industry, the member for Queen's, thanked Trade and Commerce Minister J.A. MacKinnon for the latter's assurance that neither his department in its trade maps nor the Canadian Travel Bureau publish maps on which Prince Edward Island is deleted. (A map of this description was published in the New York Times of March 17.)

"Our province by virtue of its attractions and natural beauty attracts many summer visitors," Mr. McLure explained. "At the same time, owing to our peculiar location, we are in competition with many other parts of this country for the tourist traffic. It places us in a most unjust and disadvantageous position if maps are published on which our Island Province is not clearly shown."

(Mr. MacKinnon's letter on the subject of the New York Times map reads in part: "I would be the first to join you in protest at the publication of any map of Canada from which the smallest but in many respects the loveliest of Canadian provinces—Prince Edward Island—is omitted.")

Mr. McLure also called attention to a widely-sold art calendar with 12 plates of examples of Canadian scenic beauty. Photographs included two from some of the Provinces, he said, but there was not a single scene of Prince Edward Island.

"This is an example of what we are up against," the Queen's member pointed out. "Our finances are not to be compared in volume to those of many of the larger provinces. It is for this reason that I appeal now directly to the Minister himself to see that Prince Edward Island is allocated a fair and even a generous proportion of Canadian Travel Bureau publicity and advertising."

The government of the day, Mr. McLure continued, was actually far behind public opinion not only in Prince Edward Island but in the rest of Canada regarding treatment of the Island Province.

"Let me call the Government's attention to the fact," he said, "that editorials in great daily newspapers in a number of the largest Provinces have repeatedly stated that the nine miles of water separating our Province from the mainland, should be treated precisely as if it were the King's highway. They have gone farther and said no ferry charges should be exacted at all, in view of the confederation agreement."

Both J. L. Douglas, Liberal M.P. for Queen's and J. Watson MacNaught, Liberal M.P. for Prince, were in the Commons during Mr. McLure's address and followed his appeal with the closest of interest.

Vibration or good shake would knock those wedges out.

Look out for the crooked builder. Some of his bag of tricks are illustrated in these pictures, taken in Memphis, Tenn. In this jerry-built house the gyp contractor skimped and cheated, yet charged as much as for an honest job. The foundation pier at upper left must bear weight of house at that point. It wasn't tall enough, so builder filled gap with a couple of bricks, plus wooden wedges. At upper right, the foundation is shown extending only two inches below ground line. Standard is at least 12 inches. At lower left, floor joist is two inches under size, and (1) riddled with worm-holes. Sub-floor is hodge-podge of any old kind of lumber (2), (3). Room floor (4) can be seen through great gaps. Floor joist's weight rests on thin lathe (5) instead of being strongly inset and bolted to beam. Lower right, photo shows how builder put joists 24 inches apart instead of 16.

WITNESS IN—

will not interfere with that appearance. He will be taken to Ottawa Wednesday under escort unless he decides in the meantime to answer questions in which case he could be relieved of the contempt charge by Judge Theberge. Then he probably would revert to his original status of being free on bail under the Ottawa court charge.

It was learned authoritatively that before appearing as a witness Lunan consulted a Montreal lawyer and was advised to answer questions.

Lunan, who asked protection of the court if he testified, was advised nothing he said would be held against him at any later hearings, but time and again he declined to answer questions on the grounds they had a bearing on his own guilt or innocence.

Dressed in a brown worsted suit, blue shirt, gray and blue-striped tie, he parried many of the questions put by special prosecutor F. Philippe Brais, K.C., with questions of his own, or explained why he could not reply to the queries.

Lunan, a native of Scotland who came to Canada in 1928, said he knew Rose at the time of his seconding to the W.I.B.. in 1944, but to questions about conversations he might have had with the accused declared he could not recall everything Rose said to him or he said to Rose..

He similarly parried questions by Brais concerning "Jan," cover name for Maj.. Rogov of the Embassy staff with whom, according to documents introduced earlier in the hearing, Lunan dealt in his alleged position as an agent for the Russians..

Prosecutor Brais reread the documents and questioned Lunan about them, but the former Montreal captain declined to reply..

At one point in the hearing, Lunan said his position had been prejudiced and he already had been found guilty in the press, to which Brais said he had asked the press to present reports with justice and equity and "no one, so far, has acted in violation of that request.."

Miss Willsher Testifies

Miss Willsher, 40 years old and dressed in a black hat, gray tweed coat and blue dress, obviously was nervous as she gave her evidence but testified in a clear, if somewhat low voice.. Her court appearance was brief..

She said she met Rose in 1935 or 1936 in a study group on economics, socialism and communism and had not seen him since early in 1939..

Rose had asked her to give him "any information that might be helpful to the policies of the Communist Party in Canada," Miss Willsher said, and to further questions by Brais replied that the information Rose allegedly wanted concerned the domestic policy and the attitude of the government on foreign policy.

She said she gave a little information by word of mouth only and "I don't remember specifically what it was.."

Later she testified she gave information in 1942 or 1943 to Eric Adams about "what prospects were of the war and a general outline about whether there would be a second front.."

It has been learned authoritatively in Ottawa that Adams is being detained by the R.C.M.P..

Morning evidence again consisted of submission by Brais of documents Gouzenko claims he took from the secret coding room of the Russian Embassy when he quit his job there last September. The details contained in some of them had been outlined earlier by Prime Minister MacKenzie King in a statement in the House of Commons..

A telegram, identified by Gouzenko as having been sent from intelligence headquarters in Moscow to Col.. Zaboutin, former military attache at Ottawa, read:

"Take measures to organize the obtaining of documentary materials of the atomic bomb: the technological process, drawing, calculations.."

This message was dated Aug. 22, 1945.. The first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima 16 days earlier..

Other telegrams sought information about "the method and the technological processes of the production VV and the powders" and about movements and makeup of United States troops in Europe. These telegrams also were dated last August..

Still another message, this one described as a reply by Zabotin to Moscow, said collection of information requested about munitions and VV (used in depth bombs) would be detailed to Gray, Bacon and the Professor through Debouz..

Gouzenko identified the persons named in the code as Gerson, Halperin, Dr.. Boyer and Rose..

(Harold S. Gerson, employed 3 1-2 years in Allied War Supplies, Ltd.., later with the Munitions and Supply Department and then with War Assets Corporation, has been charged in the investigation and is free on bail. Israel Halperin, Queen's University professor is being detained in Ottawa)..

Still another document, identified by Gouzenko as a sheet from the notebook of Lt.-Col. Motinov, assistant to Zabotin, was headed "task for Debouz, Stenberg (sic), Berger, 413"..

(Arthur Steinberg (sic) previously was identified as an agent in the United States.)

Dated May 12, 1945, the document which Gouzenko said was an answer Motinov was preparing to a Moscow telegram, said: "Debouz to tie up with Berger (Stenberg) and depending on the circumstances make a proposal that he work for us or for the corporation (Communist Party).."

Art Society Holds Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Art Society of Prince Edward Island was held last evening, the president, Mrs. Willard MacKay, occupying the chair. About 25 members and friends met in the Harris Memorial Gallery where the reproductions of world masters were on display. These pictures are the gift of the School Improvement League to the City schools and included in the group are works of European and American artists. A small group of reproductions, the work of Canadian artists, was included in the exhibit. This latter group is the gift of the Art Society and is to be presented to the School Improvement League for distribution to the City schools.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. P. A. Creelman.

Miss Gracie Campbell spoke on the life and work of Jules Breton and John Gamble.

Mrs. D. M. Gass discussed the pictures from an artist's view point and showed the different techniques and compositions used by the various artists.

The children's art exhibition will take place in May and further details will be supplied the schools at a later date.

A period was devoted to sketching with one of the members acting as model and an exhibition of the results was held, some creditable work resulting.

After the meeting light refreshments were served.

MACLEOD—MACARTHUR

One of the season's prettier weddings was held Monday, March 18, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Carl Burke, when Constance Laura MacLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geddie MacLeod, West Royalty, was united in marriage with Ivan MacArthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar MacArthur, Bayfield Street, Charlottetown. The lovely afternoon ceremony was conducted by H. Capt. (Rev.) Gordon E. Darrach, of Military District No. 6 Headquarters at Halifax.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father and the wedding party proceeded to an archway covered with spring flowers which provided the motif for the decor throughout the house.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Carl Burke while Bud Thompson was groomsman.

The bride was particularly appealing in a charming Mary Queen of Scots design wedding dress with white satin bodice and yoke and long train of white chiffon. The long pointed sleeves and shoulder cape effect were heightened by the tiara-type veil. The bodice was caught in a gather by a cluster of pearls and orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet was of American beauty roses. The matron of honor wore a full length gown of turquoise net and lace and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. MacLeod, mother of the bride, wore a pink and black figured gown, with a bouquet of Talismen roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. MacArthur, wore an aqua colored gown and also had Talismen roses. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Ralph Beck sang "I'll Walk With You". Miss Shirley Darrach was pianist and played during the reception and buffet supper which followed. Over 60 guests were present. Capt. Darrach proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom.

Prior to her marriage, the bride had been an employee of the Maritime Central Airways and the groom, former captain in the Army was well known in hockey circles prior to the war, starring with junior and collegiate teams. Earlier this season, he had performed with Prince of Wales. The couple left Monday by plane for Montreal on a honeymoon trip which will be continued to Kingston, Ont., where the groom will enter Queen's University on April 1 to enroll in a course in mining engineering. For her going away costume, the bride wore a street length turquoise dress and coral shade coat with black accessories.

Guests who attended from out of the province included Miss Jean MacArthur, Somerville, Mass.; Mrs. Gertrude Bell, Boston; Mrs. Larry MacDonald, Mrs. Audrey Cocoran and Miss Arlyn Coles of Moncton. The bride was the guest of honor at several showers given by friends. Miss Jean Hamm entertained at a miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Ralph Beck was hostess for a 'blanket' shower, as was Miss Bertie Peters, of Moncton. Mrs. T.S. Edgett entertained in her honor at a three-table bridge highlighted by a cup and saucer shower. During a stopover in Moncton en route to Montreal, Mrs. MacArthur was again entertained at the home of Mrs. Lawrence MacDonald.

Particularly attractive at the ceremony was little Judith MacDonald, flower girl, who wore a pink crepe de chine dress with smocked yoke and carried an old fashioned nosegay.

During the buffet supper, Mrs. W.R. Jenkins poured while Mrs Daniel Darrach cut the ices. The serving was done by Isabelle Sinclair, Mrs. Catherine Johnson, Jean Hamm, Betty Forsythe, Eva Irlam, Caroline Sinclair, Mrs. T.S. Edgett, Mrs. James Cudmore and Mrs. Peter Sinclair, Jr.

Royal Edward Chapter Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Royal Edward Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was held yesterday afternoon in the chapter rooms with the Regent, Mrs. J. A. MacMillan presiding. There was a good attendance and very interesting reports from the conveners of committees.

Two members were welcomed into the Chapter, Mrs. Harry L. Sears and Mrs. Ian Burnett.

Mrs. A. E. Morrison, convener of the Finance Committee, reported on the auction sale held on Thursday evening in her home. This annual event was much enjoyed and very successful, netting $102. The Chapter is very grateful to Mr. H. H. Cox for his hilarious auctioneering.

Plans are being made for a joint luncheon meeting of the Royal Edward Chapter, the Earl of Hillsboro Chapter and the Abegweit Chapter about the middle of April to hear Mrs. K. I. G. Drake, a national vice-president, speak on the Second War Memorial.
