JAPS TO SIGN—

armed enemy ships remain immobilized, except for piloting or other guide craft

The entire landing area will be cleared of all Japanese military personnel and the great coastal defence guns will be made harmless by having their breechlocks removed.

Japanese civil police and gendarmerie remaining in the area will be equipped only with small arms and will be on duty to act in case of shiping or possible demonstrations by recalcitrant fanatics.

The landing forces will be in full combat equipment and will be ready for any eventuality. The operation will be handled as a regular combat show.

Entry into Tokyo was not mentioned in the instructions.

Atsugi, a former military air base, is believed to be far inferior to usual American standards. It may require considerable pilot skill, therefore, safely to conclude such a daring and large operation.

All day and for some time thereafter planes will drone over Atsugi bringing landing forces and supplies.

The army will swing into the well-drilled routine of establishing camps and outposts while veteran marines are doing the same around the heavily blasted Yokosuka.

Aerial photographs indicate most of the landing areas were badly bombed and damaged by Allied air raids.

There has been no indication as yet to the attitude of the people the occupation force will encounter, including civilians who presumably will not be evacuated.

It is understood that many other units are slated to enter Japan in subsequent days and that the entire operation probably will be lengthy just for the physical accomplishment of transferring thousands of troops ashore.

Indicative of future landings, Gen. MacArthur's instructions mentioned Sagami Bay, which was not included in his announcement of operations scheduled for Aug. 28.

Japs Given Deadline

Gen MacArthur set a deadline as of 3 P.M. Friday (5 A.M., E. D. T.) for requirements of the Japanese, as follows:

All military, naval and civilian planes to stay out of the air. (Subsequently permission was granted the enemy to operate a few unarmed aircraft for liaison purposes.)

Military, naval and merchant vessels in Japanese waters to make no movements and to be maintained without damage Excepted were merchant craft under 100 tons engaged in civilian supply activities.

Japanese or Japanese-controlled ships at sea must report their positions to the nearest United States, British or Soviet radio station; must then proceed to the port named by the commander-in-chief of the United States fleet with lights burning.

Japanese submarines must remain on the surface report their positions, fly a black pennant and show lights, and proceed to Guam, Midway Island or the Philippines.

The safety and well being of all United Nations prisoners of war and civilian internees must be "scrupulously preserved" and delivery of supplies dropped to the prisoners and internees must be insured.

To insure safe entry into Tokyo Bay one Japanese ship will meet United States naval units more than 20 miles off shore and lead them into Sagami Bay, just outside Tokyo Bay The Japanese also will provide 12 pilots to conduct certain forces into Tokyo Bay.

Three Brush Fires Burning In Prince Co.

Three brush fires are reported burning in Prince County, it was learned last night, but only one is causing much concern.

A blaze three miles from the Mount Pleasant airport threatened several buildings during the day until a shift of wind in late afternoon improved the situation. One barn was reported to have caught on fire but was saved and the stock was moved from the store of Reuben Enman. The fire sent dense smoke across the paved highway through Mount Pleasant and traffic was proceeding with caution.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police from Summerside are directing fire fighting efforts.

Credit for saving buildings endangered in the afternoon was given to Royal Canadian Air Force personnel from the Mount Pleasant airport, Twenty-five men, with fire fighting equipment and a bulldozer responded to the alarm.

Other fires are burning at Duvar Road and at Enmore but in each case the fire is reported to be burning through scrub woodlands and dry bogs and not endangering any buildings.

The fire in the Mount Pleasant area was reported to have died down last night and strenuous efforts were being made to bring it under control.—S

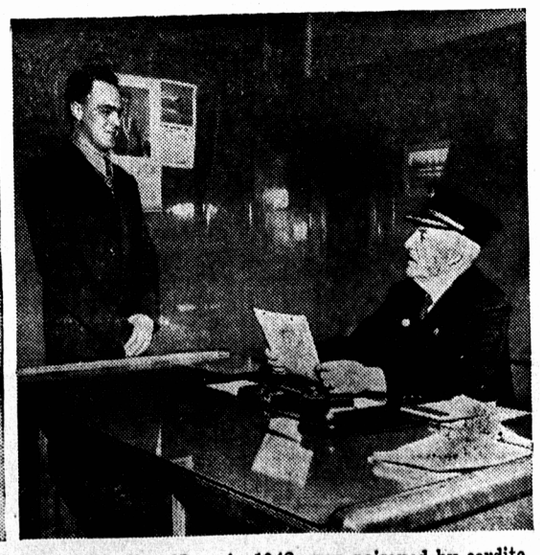
A War-Casualty, Don. J. Boehler, Youthful Veteran Of The Anti-Submarine Campaign, Reaps The Benefits Of Canada's Rehabilitation Plan



Aided by Canada's rehabilitation programme, the story of Don. J. Boehler's return to civilian life is typical of that of thousands of young Canadians. Don, who had held a variety of positions before enlisting in the Royal Canadian Navy in 1942, was poisoned by cordite from the "flash-back" of his gun while serving as a gun-layer on the Canadian corvette "Calgary". After treatment at Toronto's Christie Street hospital, he received his discharge and was enabled to take up his chosen work with the Toronto Fire Department. An interview with Chief Fire Marshall Sinclair led to his introduction to Captain G. Nickols who showed him "the ropes". Here, shown in the driver's seat, Don is now a full-fledged fireman at the Carlaw Fire Station and is using his re-establishment credit and his gratuities to build and furnish a home.
