MRS. ROSS:

Your "Magic Healer" Salve is worth its weight in gold for frost bites. I suffered for twenty-two years with a sore toe, from being frost-bitten, when one box of your Salve made a perfect cure of it. I used it in the following manner: The wound was washed clean every second night with warm water and castile soap, then I applied the Salve lightly, and in a few weeks it was thoroughly cured, and has been perfectly sound for the last three years.

Yours gratefully,
ISAAC WINCHESTER.

SHORT BITS FOR INFORMATION AND AMUSEMENT.

A Song.

A song for the girl I love—
God love her!
A song for the eyes of tender shine,
And the fragrant mouth that melts on mine,
The shimmering tresses uncontrolled
That clasp her neck with tendril gold;
The blossom mouth and the dainty chin,
And the little dimples out and in—
The girl I love—
God love her.
A song for the girl I love—
God love her!
A song for the eyes of faded light,
And the cheek whose red rose waned to white;
The quiet brow with its shadow and gleam,
And the dark hair drooped in a long, deep dream;
The small hands crossed for their churchyard rest.
And the lilies dead on her sweet dead breast.
The girl I loved—
God love her!

A Newfoundland Naturalist's Death.

ST. JOHN'S, N'fld., April 20.—P. J. Cahoon, a naturalist, Friday lowered himself by means of a rope from Shag rock, Cape Shore, in order to obtain a crow's nest. The cliff overhanging, he found it impossible to regain the surface and fell eighty feet, being killed instantly.

Probably Burned to Death.

WINNIPEG, April 20.—Two young childsen of D. W. Ryedle, of Langenburg, wandered away from their home a couple of days ago and nothing has since been heard of them and it is feared they met death in a prairie fire which swept over that part of the province about the time of their disappearance.

Stanley's American Tour.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Henry M. Stanley, who sailed for England this week, took with him $110,000 as his compensation for the hundred lectures delivered by him, under the direction of Major Pond, between November 11 and April 4. Major Pond said to-day that, reports to the contrary notwithstanding, the Stanley lectures were so successful that he had offered Mr. Stanley a large advance on the $1,100 a lecture for another series. The receipts for the lectures, Major Pond said, averaged $2,770, so that an aggregate of $305,800 was taken in.

The Bishops Speak.

Success must be limited while professed Christians in such large numbers vote to perpetuate and honor this traffic by authority of law. The grand triumph for which suffering men and women vote and pray will never come till members of churches generally rise up in their might and compel political parties to accept this higher morality and nominate only men who will prohibit by law this heaven-daring crime. They can do it if they will; and by failing to meet this high obligation do they not make themselves responsible for the wrongs and sufferings which they can but will not prevent.—Bishops of the M. E. Church.

Night Cultivation.

In the vineyards of Fresno country, California, hundreds of men may be seen planting grapevines at night by lantern light. The vineyard lands seem to be infested with a multitude of huge fireflies, which are darting and moving in every direction. It is claimed that the setting of the stakes can be done much more easily and accurately by the aid of lanterns than in broad daylight, that more work is accomplished by the men in the same number of hours, and that a large amount of time is saved. One set of men work from nine o'clock in the evening until six o'clock in the morning, when they are relieved by another relay.—Boston Globe.

An American Paragraph.

No man in Canada will be allowed to violate the sanctities of the church by so much as the prick of a pin. It cost Roderick McKay, of Woodstock, $8 in Sir John Macdonald's currency to find this out, but he knows it like a harvest hand now: Roderick found a pin on the carpet in the aisle, picked it up and softly prodded the arm of the female in the next pew. She yanked a good deal bigger one out of her Easter bonnet, and explored Roderick's interior vigorously therewith. She extorted the traditional "ouch!" in tones louder than are customarily used by anybody in a meeting-house except the preacher. This and subsequent whispered observations woke up a lot of people and led to complaints being made before a magistrate. The pin as an auxiliary to flirtation may now be regarded as under the ban of the law.—St. Paul's Pioneer Press.

Troublesome Portuguese.

LONDON, April 20.—Despatches received here from Durban, South Africa, show that the Portuguese authorities are taking a high hand in Mashonaland. The latest instance of their hostility to British interests in that district is likely to cause further tension in relations between the governments of Great Britain and Portugal. There are a number of British colonists who have settled in Mashonaland and mails destined to them are carried by way of Beira, a Portuguese settlement. A short time ago upon the arrival of the British mail sacks at Beira, the Portuguese authorities held them and refused to allow them to be carried to their destination. Great indignation on the part of the British colonists has been aroused by this high handed proceeding.

LONDON, April 20.—Further details about the firing upon the British steamer Agnes, engaged in conveying the expedition under the command of Col. Willoughby, and the seizure of cargo boats engaged in the same service, show that Willoughby endeavored to secure the release of the vessels by payment of the usual customs duty imposed by the Portuguese officials, who commanded the force which seized the boats. They refused to accept this payment, ordered the British flag to be hauled down, and hoisted the Portuguese flag in its place. The Portuguese declare that the British are excluded from Pengure River, which the boats were navigating when seized, and which is the chief water route to Mashonaland. Several British colonists have been imprisoned. There is every evidence that a serious rupture is impending between Portugal and England.

K. D. C. For Everybody

Trying to Resuscitate the Panama Canal Scheme.

PARIS, April 19.—A report on the Panama canal has been sent to the liquidators of the company by Lieut. Wyse, who has been negotiating with the Colombian Government to prolong the concession. The report is a voluminous document. It was apparently prepared with the object of concealing amid an endless mass of words and expressions about sanguine prospects the actual hopelessness of any further enterprise in that direction. After detailing the negotiations Lieut Wyse concludes: "Having succeeded in placing the canal's affairs in a fair order at Bogota and in the Isthmus, we must hope that some success will crown measures taken in order to group the great interests at stake toward renewed efforts to complete the work. If my success with Colombia is not to remain barren, the hour has come for a strong resolution to take immediate action to save the capital invesfed in the work, and to preserve from destruction the yastest project of the epoch. If underground manœuvres, against which it is time to arm, do not cause pending financial combinations to fail, the unfortunate French public will soon recover through the completion of the canal, the greater part of the savings so recklessly squandered."

Proceeding to make practical suggestions, Lieutenant Wyse advocates six locks with a single artificial lake in the centre as the best scheme. He estimates the time required to execute the work at five years, and the maximum cost at 600,000,000 francs. He expressess the conviction that before the expiration of ten years the profits of the new company, if it completes the canal, will suffice to pay a progressive proportionate share to the shareholders of the old company, besides paying dividend on shares of the new company. Lieutenant Wyse declares that the stories of a deadly climate in Panama are exaggerated and that the sanitary condition is improved. M. Monichourt personally considers that the report offers a favorable basis for the new financial operation. The report was issued to-day and the press has had no time as yet to criticize it.

Wished to Die in the Temple.

ST. CATHARINES, April 14.—Richard Ratcliffe, the prominent Mason who committed suicide last week, it now appears attempted suicide in the Masonic Temple. He appears to have visited the rooms, put everything in order for his funeral, laying the paraphernalia out as was his custom when there was to be a Masonic funeral. He then took a piece of rope which he found in the anteroom and fastened it over the transom of the door leading into the paraphernalia room. His whole weight must have been allowed to rest on this, either to test the rope or in an attempt to hang himself, as the marks of the rope are plainly visible on the wood. He took the rope away with him and with it successfully finished the awful deed in the store. The careful manner in which everything was arranged for the Masonic service shows that the suicide was coolly premeditated, no thought entering his mind that he would not be buried with full Masonic rites.

Ministers and Lotteries.

TORONTO, April 20.—The Ministerial Association at its regular meeting to-day condemned the voting contest for a free ticket to Europe, offered by the Mail to the clergyman who receives the greatest number of votes. The resolution was carried without discussion further than that Rev. Dr. McDougall and one or two others wished to entirely ignore the contest.

Rev. George Bishop read an essay on "Church Entertainments; their Use and Abuse," which expressed in the strongest terms of disapprobation against entertainments, concerts, tea meetings, church bazaars and fairs, and in fact, all the schemes adopted of late years by the churches to raise money for the use of God, as "desecrating the church and demoralizing and degrading to the members. He condemned to a certain extent the musical services in church on the Sabbath day, as the music tends to neutralize the effects of the sermon. When the paper was read Principal Caven, Dr. Stafford and others took part in a discussion and all were in hearty accord with the essayist.

Tae World's Population in 1890.

In the proceedings of the Royal Geographical Society for January, 1891, it is estimated that the population of the world in 1890 was 1,486,500,000, representing an average of 31 to the square mile, and an increase of 8 per cent. during the decade. Of the continents Asia has the largest population, 850,000,000, and the lowest percentage of increase, 6 per cent. Australasia has the smallest population, 4,730,000, and the smallest average square mile, 1.4, but the highest rate of increase, 30 per cent. Europe is the most thickly settled continent, with a population of 380,200,000, which is 101 to the square mile. The population of North America is estimated at 89,150,000, which is an average of 14 to the squrre mile, and represents an increase of 20 per cent. during the past decade.

Dirty Cars.

The disinfection of passenger cars is receiving the serious attention of foreign railway companies, and action in a similar direction would not be amiss in this country. Owing to the tenacity of disease germs it is wholly unknown as to how much they are disseminated by our luxuriously upholstered sleepers and coaches. Obeying the laws of cleanliness will not alone suffice to destroy these bacteria, and in such instances as when the drift of travel is mostly in the direction of health resorts by subjects known to be afflicted with diseases of various forms the most rigid sanitation should be observed and thorough fumigation and disinfection enforced. In France they carry sanitary conditions so far as to discard the velvet cushions and silk cushions and drapery in the coaches running to southern districts where travel is heavy among passengers afflicted with pulmonary complaints, and have adopted instead soft leather coverings. Bed clothing is thoroughly disinfected, and mattresses are covered with impervious silk or with gutta percha.—Chicago Railway Age.
