Larger NATO Force May Get Only Lukewarm U.S. Backing

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's push to provide the United Nations with expanded military strength to preserve world peace may receive only lukewarm support from the United States, it was learned Sunday.

An American diplomatic source said the U.S. is willing to lend encouragement to the idea of smaller countries voluntarily earmarking troops for possible UN use — providing these countries pay the costs involved.

But the U.S. does not see much hope for establishment of a new UN military planning board or for full activation of a military planning committee which has been established in the UN but because of Soviet Union opposition never has been given more than superficial recognition.

The American informant estimated that a UN military force, say of 3,000 or 4,000 troops, would increase the UN payroll by some $30,000,000 a year. With the UN perpetually threatened by bankruptcy because of revenue delinquency within the UN membership, the U.S. feels that body is confronted with enough financial troubles without taking on new ones.

TALKS WITH RUSK

External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada explored in a 2½ - hour conference with U.S. State Secretary Rusk here Saturday the possibilities of providing the UN with improved peace-keeping machinery.

Martin later recalled that in 1958 President Eisenhower had advocated collective action within the UN to deal with local wars and added he has found no reason to suggest that the general principles would be opposed by the present U.S. administration.

While it is still unclear as to exactly what Canada has in mind, there have been Ottawa reports that Prime Minister Pearson will offer the UN a larger and more flexible Canadian force when he addresses the UN General Assembly Sept. 20. Canada has maintained a stand - by battalion for possible UN duty and over the years Pearson has been a strong advocate for arming the UN with a permanent military force.

Following talks with Rusk, Martin emphasized at a press conference here the need for collective action to deal with local outbreaks, particularly as the world heads into comprehensive or partial disarmament agreements.

Martin suggested there is a need to improve and enlarge on this concept to provide for central military planning to overcome difficulties in collective command, such as language barriers and differences in military equipment, military drills and commands.

RC Bishop Hits At Clergymen's Life Of Luxury

DETROIT (AP) — Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, hitting at what he calls a life of luxury for American clergymen as compared with the world's poor people, proposes that the Roman Catholic church "rethink" the vow of poverty.

The auxiliary Roman Catholic bishop of New York suggested in a speech here that the religious vow of poverty might be extended to the secular clergy and laymen.

Bishop Sheen made his proposal in a speech to an audience of 3,000 in which he compared the United States with the Biblical rich man who tossed scraps to Lazarus, the beggar. "The poor of the world can no longer be fed once a year," he said. "They must be fed every day."

The speech, titled The Glutted and the Gutted, opened the Detroit archdiocese's 30th annual Christian culture series.

Calling the U.S. one of the "glutted nations of the world," Bishop Sheen said there are 2,000,000,000 people in the world who would gladly take the vow of poverty "if it meant living as well as those under the vow of poverty in this country live."

"There are even nine dioceses in the United States which have done away with Lenten fasting because 'life in the United States is too hard.' Isn't that laughable?" Sheen said.

British Liberals Call For Elected House Of Lords

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—The annual convention of Britain's tiny but resurgent Liberal party has passed a resolution calling for establishment of an elected non-hereditary upper house of Parliament to replace the present House of Lords.

The biggest post-war assembly of the party, which has strong hopes of stepping up a recent revival in electoral popularity, passed the resolution by an overwhelming majority.

The resolution was introduced by Liberal MP Jeremy Thorpe and called for an extensive parliamentary and electoral reforms.

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

The finesse is one of the most useful weapons in declarer's arsenal of plays. The opportunity to finesse arises hand after hand, but it is important to realize that there are occasions when a finesse can do more harm than good.

Take this deal, for example, where South took a useless finesse and went down as a result. West led the queen of hearts, covered by the king and ace. East returned a heart.

Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of diamonds and ace of clubs, entered dummy with a trump, and led a club and finessed the jack. West took the queen and returned a spade, and South led to go down one, losing a heart, a club and a spade.

It can be seen that South would have made the contract if he had rejected the club finesse. If he had played the king instead of the jack, he would have caught the queen and made the contract.

Actually, the king was the right play to make — and the play does not depend upon a look at the East - West cards. The finesse was wrong because it decreased declarer's chances of making the contract instead of increasing them.

Obviously, the club finesse is taken in the hope that East has the queen. But if East has the queen, the contract is sure to make even if the finesse is refused. In that case, after taking the king, South continues with the jack. East takes the queen, but now must yield the rest of the tricks. Any play he makes gives South the contract.

Once it is granted that South has the hand made if East has the queen, it becomes obvious that there can be no possible advantage to the finesse if West has the queen. There can be a disadvantage in such case, but never an advantage.

This disadvantage arises in those cases where West has the doubleton queen. This possibility may not occur often, but South has nothing to lose by playing for it.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
