EXCITEMENT IN PRETORIA!

War Preparations Are Proceeding with Great Haste.

GEN. JOUBERT OFF TO THE FRONT

Boer Headquarters Near Laing's Neck Pass—Guns and Munitions Hurrying Thither—Seven British Transports Sail With Troops—Boer Reply to Chamberlain's Despatch Not Received.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—[Special]—A Pretoria telegram dated Friday says the wildest excitement prevails there and that war preparations are proceeding a pace.

Big guns, field telegraphs and burghers' munitions of war being hurried off to Volksruit, the projected base of Boer operations against Natal.

General Joubert goes to Volksruit tomorrow.

The town is situated immediately north of the Laing's Neck Pass, on the railway from the Natal coast.

A Cape Town, despatch says the alarmist reports from Pretoria of movements of the Burghers must be received with caution.

A strict Boer censorship renders it unlikely that important movements could be telegraphed unless the Transvaal passed them with an object.

It is said here that the highly colored reports are either sent to arouse enthusiasm of Africanders or produce alarm in the British Camp.

The Boer reply had not reached the Colonial Office at noon.

The officials remained on duty all night expecting its arrival at any moment.

Two troopships left Southampton today while another left the Mersey this afternoon with troops.

Four liners were chartered at Liverpool today to call at Naples, where each vessel will embark 3,000 men.

WE call special attention to F. Perkins & Co's Millinery opening tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock. 2, 1i.

A great treat was afforded the students of the Charlottetown School of Music on Saturday afternoon. Miss Maloney gave a short vocal Recital. She possesses beautiful contralto voice which earnest study under capable teachers in Boston enables her to use with excellent taste. Especial interest attaches to her in that for some months she will make her home in Charlottetown. If as clever in teaching as she is in singing she will prove a valuable acquisition to our teachers' ranks and the musical circles of our town.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY

Occupying Attention of Foreign Office.

SIR LOUIS H. DAVIES

Talks With a Reporter—Sails Home Oct. 19—The High Commission.

LONDON Sept. 30—(Special)—The Alaskan boundary matter is still taking up considerable attention at the Foreign Office.

Sir Louis Davies is daily visiting the officials who are busy drawing plans illustrating Canada's contention.

He expects to finish his store of matter in two weeks. He will probably return home October 19.

The reports of having arrived at a settlement are unreliable.

Sir Louis Davies said to a reporter: "It is impossible to give out any statement at present."

Asked if he he was going over the Tower-Hay proposition he said, "No; I am here solely to represent the stand of the Canadian Government.

It is inferred that no settlement will be reached until after the convening of the High Commission.
