One of Canada's outstanding educationists passed away yesterday at Charlottetown in the person of Dr. Samuel N. Robertson, Principal of Prince of Wales College for the past thirty-six years. He was 68 years of age.

Death was due to heart trouble, to which Dr. Robertson had been subject for some time. Recently, however, he was in good health and retired feeling as usual on Saturday night. At 3 o'clock Sunday morning he became acutely ill. Notwithstanding all that medical aid could do he passed away shortly after 11 a.m.

Born at Cape Traverse, this Province, Samuel Nagle Robertson acquired his early education at North Bedeque, where he resided with his uncle Mr. Thomas Carruthers. He entered Prince of Wales College in 1884 and graduated in 1887. He then went to Dalhousie University where he received his B.A. and M.A. degrees, and after graduating returned to teach school at Alberton.

In 1893 he was appointed to the staff of Prince of Wales College along with Mr. H. H. Shaw, present Chief Superintendent of Education, who also had entered the College as a student in the same year with Dr. Robertson and remained a life long friend and intimate.

In 1901 Dr. Robertson was appointed Principal of the College, in succession to Dr. Alex Anderson, which position he held, with great distinction and satisfaction, until his death.

His degree of Doctor of Laws, which he received from St. Francis Xavier and Dalhousie Universities, was a well merited tribute to his achievements as a scholar and educationist.

A brilliant student himself, Dr. Robertson possessed exceptional qualifications as a teacher. He was a firm believer in the advantage of the Classics, and the thousands of students who passed through his hands at Prince of Wales College will bear testimony to the very thorough training they received in this connection, as well as in the more practical subjects.

Of still greater importance, however, was the training in character building which Dr. Robertson imparted by example and precept. A man of stirling integrity, a Christian gentleman in the true sense of the word, he regarded education as a life process in which the moral and spiritual factors should predominate. No student could come under his influence without feeling inspired to higher effort and many now holding positions of great responsibility throughout Canada and the United States, have paid tribute to the inestimable value of the example he had set them.

A firm believer in temperance, Dr. Robertson was for long associated with the temperance movement in this Province, and did much to promote its activities.

Dr. Robertson was a Presbyterian in church connection, and had long affiliation with the People's Church of this city.

There are left to mourn, the widow, formerly Miss Annie McGrath, Tignish; also one brotner, Mr. Thomas Robertson, Prince Albert, Sask.; and two sisters, Mrs. John Lowther, Edmonton, Alberta, and Mrs. William Callbeck, Central Bedeque, P.E.I., to whom the deepest sympathy will be extended on this occasion.

The beautiful new Catholic Church at Kensington, which was dedicated to the Holy Family was formally opened and blessed yesterday morning by His Excellency Rt. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, assisted by several members of the clergy. A very large congregation witnessed the ceremony of blessing the church. The outside of the church was blessed first and then the Bishop and clergy entering the sacred edifice a similar ceremony was performed inside, with the Indian River Church choir chanting the responses.

Also the late John Mullins who left money for a stained glass window over the altar and to the late T. N. Donahoe, who left a handsome contribution for the interior decoration of the church. He also thanked the architect, Mr. James E. Harris, Charlottetown, the builder Mr. S. J. McAulay, Souris, to the decorators, Messrs. J. E. Inglis and Mr. Hazleton Gillis of Indian River for the interest they had taken in completing the work. He also expressed his thanks to His Lordship, Bishop O'Sullivan, for his advice and co-operation. He referred to the fact that through the generosity of the architect and builder they had not gone too deeply into debt and although they had not everything for the interior of the church these things would come in good time if the people continued to help as befitted their means as they had always done in the past. The collection that morning was to help defray expenses. Rev. Fr. MacDonald regretted that the bell for the church had not arrived but hoped it would soon be in its place.

The sudden death of Dr. S. N. Robertson has truly been a shock to all our citizens. For over forty years his name has been known and respected by every class and creed, indeed, there are few homes in the province but had a member at one time or another under his educational care. His sole interest in life was in education, and his untiring labor was given to that cause. His firm adherence to the old and well-tried standards in education gave the students of Prince of Wales College a formation and an intellectual mark recognized far and wide. No student who passed through his classes but will remember the Doctor's learning, his integrity, his devotion to education. A series of severe electrical storms caused considerable damage throughout the province yesterday.

At Mt. Stewart a bolt of lightning entered the back door and went out the front door of a house owned and occupied by an aged woman, Miss Taylor. Oilcloth on the kitchen floor was torn up and plaster fell from the ceiling. The casing on the front door was torn off and the steps split. Miss Taylor was lying on a couch in the kitchen and was unharmed.

Lightning struck a barn owned by James Murray, Mill River, about seven miles from O'Leary, and all of the season's crop, machinery, a horse and young cow were destroyed in a fire which followed. Neighbors who quickly gathered were able to remove other horses and cows from the building before it was completely destroyed while a heavy rainfall aided in saving the nearby dwelling house.

A door was smashed and considerable plaster broken in the home of A. H. Mutch at Ernscliffe and Mrs. Mutch suffered severe shock. No fire followed. In the same district a barn owned by Mathias Praught was struck but there was little damage. Two cows owned by Louis Hayden of Cherry Valley were killed by a bolt of lightning.

In the city a house on King Square, owned by the Robinson estate, was struck and shingles were torn off the roof. Several power transformers were blown out.

The many friends of Miss Nan Leightizer, daughter of Capt. Jas. J. and Mrs. Leightizer, City, will be pleased to learn that in the recent issue of the Xaverian Weekly published by the student body of the University, her name appears as a member of the staff of the paper also that she has been chosen as President of the Senior Class and Debating Society of Mt. St. Bernard's College which is the ladies college affiliated with St. F. X.

Miss Leightizer is now in the final year of the Arts Course, leading to the Batchelor's Degree. Congratulations.

The sudden passing of Mrs George MacMillan, late of Alberry Plains, gave a painful shock to her large circle of relatives, intimate friends and acquaintances. True she had enjoyed many happy years, being in her 92nd year, but being blessed with unusually good health the visitor seldom failed to find her in the home when hospitality was supreme. On the 23rd day of September last, 1937, the end came quietly, and burial took place in the family pplot at Christ Church, Cherry Valley. Notwithstanding inclement weather the final scene was witnessed by a large assembly of mourners. The Rev. Mr. Weir of Vernon United Church, officiated.
