"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," she thought—but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Delay meant danger. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. Restored to normal action, her kidneys cleared away blood impurities. Fatigue, headache, backache, disappeared. 110

Guardian Acquires New Feature

Leslie Howard was a bank clerk. He became a playwright and a great actor. Bing Crosby was studying law, but he wound up as a crooner and a film celebrity. Amelia Earhardt was a school teacher, and she became a renowned aviatrix. How did it all happen? Because of the forces of Numerology, says Mario, celebrated scientist and Numerologist, whose series, "What's Your Number?" will start in the Charlottetown Guardian, beginning Saturday.

This Numerology feature will set forth the analysis of hundreds of world famous persons, including radio, stage and screen stars, statesmen, athletic and financial wizards. It will explain what numbers vibrate about these persons, due to their birth dates, name, addresses and activities.

In addition, there will be offered, with the daily strip, a coupon by means of which readers of the Guardian may obtain their own, individual Numerology analysis.

This is not fortune telling, nor does it savor of incense, of the supernatural or of any of the uncanny or weird methods so often associated with personal analysis. Mario emphasizes.

"There is no more the supernatural about this than there is about the theory of relativity or the science of the third dimension," he says. "Numerology means merely the science of numbers. Everything has its numerical value—our weight, our blood content, our body temperature. The music we listen to is the best example to make clear what I mean. Music is determined by numbers—so many beats to the measure. Fast time makes us gay, excited, active. Slow time puts us to sleep, or soothes us. Martial music awakens patriotism.

"Ancient people and, indeed, tribes in savage countries, today, use the beat of the tom-tom to arouse war-like tendencies among the natives. We, ourselves, use brass bands and bugles to create patriotism and the desire for battle, for victory, for glory.

"We sing lullabys to our babies to put them to sleep. Our cafes offer us the blare of jazz music to create the spirit of revelry. All these varied reactions come from the varied tempo—the time, which is the number of vibrations in the bar of music.

"Thus, other things surrounding us, besides music, have their numerical value but because we do not know this, we are not conscious of the effect of these numerical vibrations. We know, because we feel it, that quickened heart action reacts upon our mental status and our physical condition. There are other beats and pulses vibrating about us that have their reaction in ourselves. This is what Numerology reveals."

Mario explains, in his beautifully illustrated series, the vibrations surrounding such personalities as Barney Ross, Mae West, Clark Gable, George Arliss, Jack Benny, President Roosevelt, Mussolini, Irving Berlin, Katharine Hepburn, Grace Moore, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and hundreds of others.

Why, certain persons excel in one line of endeavor and fail in another; why certain types get on well together in business or in marriage while others end disastrously; how some types are led to over-ride others while other types gain their ends by persuasion—all these facts and hundreds of others are set forth in the illuminating Numerology series.

Readers of the Guardian will have the opportunity of learning their own, personal numerology through the use of a coupon which will be published daily. All information and analysis will be kept strictly confidential. None will be published and no facts will be given to anyone, save the individual sending the coupon and all analyses will be returned to readers in sealed envelopes.

Following a short service that evening at the house, the remains were taken to the Church of Scotland at Cape Traverse from which a further service was held on Saturday at 2 p.m. In the unavoidable absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. MacDougall, both services were conducted by Rev. J. L. Lund of Tryon United Church. The singing was led by the elders, the numbers sung being "The Lord's My Shepherd," "You Now Must Hear My Voice No More."

The pall-bearers were Messrs. John N. Howatt, Harry Paterson, Gordon McWilliam, Arthur Campbell, William Pye and Edward McWilliam. Interment was made in the cemetery near the church.

Deceased was a native of Cape Traverse but has been making her home at Crapaud for some time past. She leaves to mourn a brother, William, of Cape Traverse, and a sister, Jessie, of Bedeque. The sympathy of the people go to them in their bereavement.
