Laugh at Sunburn

A few hours' exposure to the summer sun plays havoc with tender skins—for besides the pain, there's the unsightly peeling—off that follows.

But you can laugh at sunburn if you have a bottle of Penslar Almond and Cucumber Cream handy. This soothing, cooling lotion stops the smarting and stinging in a few moments.

Better yet—apply it to the exposed skin before going out and there is very little danger of getting sunburned.

You really ought to try this. It will convince you that this word "Penslar" stands for the highest quality in Toilet Preparations and Remedies.

Charlottetown People Praise Simple Mixture

Many in Charlottetown praise the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Alder-i-ka. This remedy is the most THOROUGH bowel cleanser ever sold being even used successfully in appendicitis. ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. ONE MINUTE after you take it the gasses rumble and pass out. Alder-i-ka cannot gripe and the INSTANT action is surprising. E. A. FOSTER, Druggist.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE

Those who desire a picture with a good strong moral to it—would appreciate the three reel Pathe feature "Rods of Wrath" as shown at the Peoples' Theatre last night. It features M. O. Penn as the "Fisherman"—who undertakes to bring up his only son by the lash—took his part in a manner that satisfied all—inasmuch as he gained the dislike of the entire audience—in his role of a heartless brute. After giving his boy a flogging, he falls asleep and dreams of the future conduct of his son—it is of such a nature that he wakes up violently, rushes to his wife's room to assure himself that she is alive, and takes his boy in his arms, and tells him he has received his last thrashing at his hands—the dream having convinced him that other and better means to bring up one's children in an obedient and respectful manner.

A scene worthy of note is the spectacular burning of the fishing vessel at sea. One sees the sailors fighting to save the ship; the oil in the holds catch fire and they see their task is a hopeless one, and take to their boats, and one sees the ship sink gradually into the briny deep.

Runaway June, Episode 13, was more interesting than ever while "The Beloved Adventurer" amateur series was decidedly interesting as well as amusing.

The above programme will be repeated at both shows this evening for the last time, and doubtless there will be another bumper house greet this splendid programme.

THE RUSSIAN TROOPS NOT DEMORALIZED

LONDON, June 21.—A Reuter's despatch from Petrograd says:—"Russian military critics point out that the Austro-Germans, in forcing their way through the passages of the lakes to the north and south of Grodek, apparently hoped to find the Russians demoralized after their rapid retirement. However, both on this front and on the Tanew line, the re-grouping was accomplished with equal efficiency and celerity. The Austro-German advance westward and to the southwest of Rawka-Ruska is regarded as initiating a great turning movement to the north of Grodek and Lemberg."

SON KILLS FATHER, STEPMOTHER AND POLICEMAN

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., June 20.—Fred Shaver shot his father, Hudson Shaver, and his stepmother dead here this afternoon; fatally wounding Policeman George Kendall, who has since died, and held the police at bay until shot dead through a window here by officers.

The son's anger over the marriage of his father is believed to have led to the shooting. The father, who was sixty-seven years of age, and well to do, was married on June 7th to Ruth Campbell, who was thirty-one years his junior.

When the father returned to his apartments this afternoon his son engaged in a quarrel with him, and attracted the attention of a woman in another apartment. Just as she opened the door she saw the elder Shaver run out into the hall. A shot rang out, and he fell to the floor. Officer Kendall who heard the shot rushed up the stairway. He was only half way up when Fred Shaver shot him twice, the officer dying an hour later. The shooting of the young wife of H. A. Shaver must have followed immediately after Shaver barricaded himself in his room on the second floor of his father's home.

For the next hour Shaver stood before a window holding the police at bay and threatening to fire into the great crowd of spectators before the house. At frequent intervals he drank whiskey from a bottle.

The police, fearing what the crased man might do, took desperate measures, and two officers, stationed in a window across the street, finally were ordered to fire. After three shots from their rifles Shaver fell back to the floor in full view of the crowd. When officers broke into the room they found young Shaver lying on the floor, with the right side of his head blown off. Near by lay the dead body of his stepmother. The officers had not known until they entered the room, that Mrs. Shaver had been shot.

AMBASSADOR MAY HAVE BEEN A SPY.

MILAN, Italy, June 20.—The Corriere Della Sera says it is reported that Prince von Radolin, former German ambassador to France, and Princess von Radlin were arrested in Berlin at the end of April charged, with espionage against Germany but that the censors forbade any mention of the incident.

Prince Von Radolin retired as ambassador to France in June, 1910, and announced that he was through with public life. He served at Paris for nine years and represented his country in delegate negotiations with France when the two nations seemed on the verge of war over the Moroccan situation. It was reported in 1906 that Emperor William was dissatisfied with his work and that he probably would be transferred either to Madrid or to Constantinople. He remained in Paris, however, and was decorated by the French government early in 1909. President Faillieres called upon Prince von Radolin at the embassy in 1910. It was the first visit of a French President to the German embassy since the Franco-Prussian war. The retirement of Prince von Radolin was reported to have been hastened by the theft of his diary in which he kept a minute record of his diplomatic experiences in Paris. These accounts were said to have been of such a nature that they displeased the French Government.

"DON'T HESITATE TO CALL UPON WOMEN

LONDON, June 20.—Suragettes commenced a series of war meetings in the London pavilion today, when Mrs. Pankhurst made a stirring appeal to Lloyd-George as munitions minister.

"Don't resiate to call upon the women," she said. "We want to be organized for war service, the same as men. You don't understand how pathetically willing women are to help on the Allies' cause.

"We don't care how hard the work or what its nature. Our plan for creating a home for war babies, which opens in July, is only an incident. We all want to be utilized."

WATCHING SUPPLY OF FOOD FOR 1917

LONDON, June 20.—The Earl of Selborne, president of the Board of Agriculture, has appointed a committee, of which Lord Milner is chairman, to investigate and report as to what steps should be taken by legislation or otherwise for the sole purpose of maintaining and, if possible, increasing the present production of food in England and Wales on the assumption that the war may be prolonged beyond the harvest of 1916. The committee is instructed, if it finds additional powers are necessary to report in time for legislative action during the present session of Parliament.

VERY FEW OF FAMOUS BLACK WATCH SURVIVED

"The sergeant and myself were going for rations one morning in the trenches at Cuichy when we came across scores of kilt aprons, clothing and bits of rags soaked in blood, strewn about the trench. I looked over the top and then called to the sergeant. We saw hundreds of dead bodies horribly mutilated and cut up scattered all over the field. The Black Watch had been practically wiped out and the ground was soaked in blood."

Such is one of the many horrible experiences of Private Peter McDermott of the Loyal North Lancashires who has been invalided home to Montreal on account of acute kidney disease brought on by being perpetually in trenches filled with water. Private McDermott was a reservist and answered the call to th colors in August last. In November he was sent to France and up to March was continually in the trenches.

Saw Women and Children Killed.

His regiment which as a reinforceing draft, was first sent to the first battle of Ypres, where all but 72 of 2,000 of the Lancashire regiment had been killed and wounded. For a time he was stationed at Hazebrucke, and while there German aeroplanes flew over the town and dropped a number of bombs. "I saw thirty women and small children blown to pieces and others had variuos parts of their bodies shot off."

On December 21 the Lancashires marched through Neuve Chapelle 970 strong. They had been ordered to take a German trench beyond the one in which an Indian regiment was located.

"We had to jump that trench," stated Private McDermott, "and instead of taking the one trench that was expected of us we took four and drove the Germans off a considerable distance. There were two hundred of us left when the roll call was taken. We took our places in the trenches but they were too packed and C. and D. companies were ordered to retire behind the lines. As we again passed the Indian trench they thought we had lost but we explained to the white officers and they shouted their congratulations. We then took to the main road but in a very few minutes the Germans had the exact range and swept the entire road. I pulled my pal into the ditch. There were other fellows there lying down. The bayonet of one of them was sticking into my knee so I tried to awaken him. He was dead and so were all the others that filled the ditch. Later 100 of us volunteered to go back to the trenches to reinforce the Sussex regiment. We were supposed to retire for a rest but were willing to go forward again. The trench in which we took up our positions, was very soon under a heavy shell fire, so we dug ourselves in and set about cleaning our rifles. The Germans later came into the open and opened up a rapid fire. Later we got the order to retire but some of us at the far end of the two-mile trench never heard the order until more than half a hundred had been killed and wounded. There was a big gap between us and the next line man and that is how we missed it.

Just Mowed Germans Down.

The officer pulled our last man into shelter and opened a murderous fire which just mowed the Germans down as they came on. On New Year's Day I was in the trenches again. We had found another hundred of our regiment. The trenches were knee deep in thick wet clay and we could not move very well. Every now and again we would plunge up to our waists in water. We had no food for four days and four nights for no one would volunteer to get rations through that muck."

Private McDermott was within a mile of O'Leary when he won the Victoria Cross. They were all operating on the brick field at Cuichy. He has been discharged on account of ill health but is liable to be called into active service again within twelve months. He was employed at the C. P. R. Outremont yards before he left for the front and is now looking for a job.

DOMINION DAY DINNER IN LONDON CALLED OFF.

LONDON, June 21.—W. L. Griffith, secretary to the High Commissioner, states that it has been decided not to hold the usual Canadian dinner on Dominion Day this year.

ACCORDING TO THE ADAGE

"You promised me a company," complained the manager of the Plunkville Opera House, "and here you show up with only your wife and yourself."

"Two is a company," declared Yorick Hamm. "But how about you? You guaranteed me an audience."

"Well, there's three people out in front. Three is a crowd."

EIGHT DROWNED AT ATLANTIC CITY.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 21.—Buffetted by a huge wave, and carried into deep water by a treacherous undertow, seven bathers, including prominent members of the Philadelphia summer colony, were drowned in the surf here to-day. Scores of others were dragged to the beach in an unconscious condition after life guards and other bathers had battled desperately to save their lives. One other man was drowned when six fishing smacks were capsized simultaneously as they were about to come ashore at Mississippi avenue, and a score of fishermen thrown into the water.

Life guards say a storm caused an offset or gully, between a sand bar a hundred yards out and the beach. The offset extended the entire length of the beach, and with the development of the strong undercurrent, the bathers were swept into water of unexpected depth. Many heroic rescues were made by members of the beach patrol, and by volunteers and several persons gave up their lives in efforts to save others.

NO "GUEST" DRINKS NOW.

TORONTO, June 20.—According to orders issued by the Provincial License commission today hotelkeepers must dispense with the custom of serving guests with intoxicants in their rooms after regular hours. Breaches of the law will carry with it a severe penalty.
