Death came peacefully, though suddenly to Angus Gillis of Pisquid on Saturday, June 4th., 1927. Mr. Gillis had not been feeling well for some time, but he bore his suffering with true Christian patience up till the time of his death.

The innate goodness and Christian charity that typifies the true Catholic man saw partial fruition in his last illness. Every consolation that Holy mother church could give was his and he was able to receive his Divine Master a short time before he died.

The late Mr. Gillis was born in Pisquid, eighty seven years ago and was the last living of a family of nine, he always lived on the old home-stead and was nursed and cared for in his declining years by his niece, Mrs. Andrew McKinnon and family.

All through life by his kindly disposition and quite manner he had endeared himself to all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance and in his passing away the whole community has lost a real friend, and his unassuming Christian example of home life will live as an inspiration in the memory of all who knew him. His funeral which was largely attended was followed to St. Andrew's Church. A solemn high mass of Requiem was sung by Rev. R. J. McDonald of East Point, cousin of the deceased, while the services at the grave was conducted by his pastor, Rev. A. P. McLellan. The pallbearers were, viz: Charles Ostridge, Allan J. McDonald, Patrick McKinnon, H. F. Feehan, D. J. V. McDonald, R.A. McDonald. May his soul rest in peace.

In view of the annual meeting of the Presbyterial at Belfast, the following report of the recent Assembly may prove interesting:

The 53rd General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which met recently in Stratford, Ontario, reported substantial growth during 1926, and a relatively marked degree of recovery and expansion since the disruption of June 10, 1925.

The communicants totalled at the end of 1926, 163,374, or nearly 50 per cent. of the membership of the Church prior to the division vote.

The chief event reported to the Assembly was the findings of the Dominion Church Property Commission, allocating to the Presbyterian Church in Canada certain home and foreign mission properties and trust funds. This removes uncertainties and defines the fields of action. The Presbyterian Church now has a home mission work, the largest in its history in proportion to its strength, covering all parts of the Dominion, and, touching many foreign elements in our population. Three million of a non-Christian population is now its responsibility in British Guiana, South Formosa, the Gwalior and Bhil fields of Central India, and prospects are entertained of work in Manchuria and in China when conditions warrant.

A total of 1248 congregations and preaching stations in Canada further emphasizes the development of the Church since 1925, with 626 ministers, 5506 elders, and 83,651 families. The number received into membership upon profession of faith during 1926 was 10,287. The department of Sabbath Schools revealed a fine army of youth, numbering 116,817 in addition to 15,525 enrolled in young people's societies.

The total givings for all congregational purposes was 4,139,722 dollars, 715,469 dollars being for missionary and benevolent purposes, an increase of nearly a million dollars for all purposes over 1925. A Church Extension Fund is also being raised to aid in the building of new churches. Over a hundred new churches have been erected and probably as many more are planned. The budget for 1927 is 650,000 dollars—an increase of 50,000 dollars. The finances of the Church are under the direction of a board of administration composed of laymen. The Women's Missionary Society reports nearly 50,000 members in a thousand auxiliaries, who raised $167,000 in 1926. Two theological colleges with their charters—Montreal and Knox, Toronto, have been awarded to the Presbyterian Church. Both are well equipped with full staffs, and there are encouraging enrolments of students having the ministry in view. The Moderator for the 1927 Assembly was Rev. W. Leslie Clay, D.D., of Victoria, B.C., a native of Prince Edward Island. The 1928 Assembly will be held in Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan. The representation was reduced from one in four to one in five of the clergy and representative elders. Greetings were received from the Church of Scotland with recognition of the Presbyterian Church in Canada as the same church that it was prior to June, 1925. This was a tense moment in the Assembly and spontaneously every minister and elder of the court sprang to his feet and sang: "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow." Greetings were also received from the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., the Alliance of Reformed Churches, and the Church of England in Canada. Among other business transacted at the Assembly was the adoption of a new pension plan for widows and orphans and aged and infirm ministers. A decision to maintain the existing high standards for the ministry, the appointment of several workers to the foreign field, the authorization of a history of the Church Union struggle during the twenty years since its inception, the appointment of the Rev. W. M. Rochester, D.D., as editor of the Presbyterian Record (the official monthly of the Church) in succession to the Rev. E. Scott, D. D., after nearly fifty years of service; the appointment of a legal committee with Judge Farrell of Regina at its head to devise and consider ways and means of recovering and preserving property and other rights of the Church, aid to emigrants through the British Settlement Society were among actions taken, as well as passing of strong resolutions in Sabbath observance and temperance. The Assembly as a whole, is regarded as one of the most successful of the long and unbroken series, and was marked by a high enthusiasm and a bright outlook for the future of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

THURSDAY

A mild sensation was caused yesterday afternoon in the Supreme Court in the case of the King vs. Edmund Byers and James Gormley, indicted for shop breaking and larceny, when two Crown witnesses John Mahar and John Coughlan were called to the stand by Mr. J. J. Johnston, K. C. Councel for the defence. The above mentioned witnesses who were examined in the preliminary hearing of this case then gave evidence contradictory to their statements made in the City Court.

Mahar who was first sworn said he and Coughlan talked the matter over and discovered that they were just a week astray in their dates relative to the day they saw Byers in McCloskey's home. Mahar then went on to explain that it was 15th of May he saw Byers and not the 8th of May as he first stated.

Attorney General—You are a witness for the Crown are you not?

Mahar—Yes.

Attorney General—And why did you not acquaint myself or Mr. Gaudet of this?

Mahar—I thought I was doing right.

Chief Justice Mathieson—This is serious and will be left with the Crown to deal with at a later date.

Mr. Johnston—Mr. Mahar, did I send for you to come to my office.

Mahar—No.

Mr. Johnston—Did I tell you it was wrong to come to my office.

Mahar—Yes.

Mr. Johnston put the same questions to Coughlan who answered in a like manner.

Both witnesses cross-examined by the Attorney General said they remembered the date because the Canadian Squatter was in port at that time. They visited the steamer in quest of rum, the prices of which they gave.

After further examination of other witnesses for the defence the court adjourned to meet again this morning.

It is likely the case will go to the jury today.

Peter Coles, driver of the car when George McDearmid was instantly killed, when the auto went over an embankment a few miles west of Hunter River early yesterday morning, was released from custody, yesterday afternoon, when a coroner's jury judged the cause of the tragedy as purely accidental.

The occupants of the car, besides the driver and the deceased were Fred Gregory and Milton Cannon of St. Avards.

The four young men had left Charlottetown for Summerside to attend the Orange Celebration at that place and were returning, when the sad accident occurred.

The story of the accident as told by the survivors of the car as given at the inquest is given below.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon the inquest was held in the Police Court before Dr. Houston, the Coroner and the following jury, impanelled by Acting Chief Sergt. Allan McInnis:

A. A. Hennessey, (foreman).
James Stewart.
William Bradley.
Thomas Howatt.
H. L. Hardy.
Michael Connolly.
Benj. Carter.

Having viewed the body and heard the evidence the jury brought in the following verdict and recommendation:

"We, the undersigned jury impanelled to find the cause of the death of George McDearmid, find that he came to his death by an accident due to his catching the steering wheel of his car, while in the hands of Peter Coles."

"We also recommend that the road at this point be straightened and the culvert fenced to guard against further accidents."

—CAR ACCIDENT AT INDIAN RIVER.—What might have been a serious accident occurred at Indian River Bridge on Sunday evening, July 10th .A car driven by Hubert Agnew of Wilmot, came down the slight grade approaching the bridge at a rather fast clip, broke a spring and tore off a rim in a rut, careened against the railing, eventually breaking it, and went over the side of the bridge, landing on its side in about four feet of water. Fortunately the tide was low at the time. All the occupants were able to get out of the car, which suffered little damage considering its fall of 15 ft. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the car on "terra firma," but it was finally accomplished by Mr. John Murphy of Clermont who performed the Christian duty, plunged his heavy team through the water and towed the modern "juggernaut" to safety.—K. WEDDING BELLS—A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Notre Dame Academy, Charlottetown, on Tuesday, July 12th, at 5.30 a. m., when Rev. James Murphy, rector of St. Dunstan's University, united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. John Francis McMillan of Summerville, and Mary Kathleen Grant of Fort Augustus. The bride was beautifully attired in a gown of white georgette with a tulee veil trimmed with the conventional wreath of orange blossoms. Her handsome bouquet, which she carrid, was of orphelia roses and maiden-hair fern. Miss Bertha Byrne, who acted as maid of honor, wore a gown of peach satin with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by Ernest McInnis of St. Peters. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a white gold bar pin with a pearl setting, and to the groomsman a scarf pin. After a dainty wedding breakfast the young couple motored to Borden en route to New England States. The bride's travelling costume was of peach satin with gold lace trimmings with hat to match. Her coat was of cocoa colored poiret twill with squirrel trimmings.

Miss Maud Ball, great granddaughter of the Hon. George Coles, has arrived from Montreal to spend a vacation in her native province. She registered at the Queen, and left yesterday for Shaw's for a month at the North Shore.

Miss Ball is one of the Islanders who have done much to bring distinction and honour to their native province. She is a chip off the block of one of the Fathers of Confederation, worthy of her distinguished ancestry. She is descended not only from one of the Fathers of Confederations but from the distinguished surveyor sent out by George III to survey and lay out Prince Edward Island.

In her own right she has earned the Croix de Guerre and the Commemorative Medal issued to officers by the French Government in connection with the Armistice. In making the recommendation for the Croix de Guerre General Boillet commander of the 120th Regiment of Heavy Artillery said:

"Miss Maud Ball has never ceased since her arrival on the French front to give herself with and absolute disinterestedness and indefatigable zeal to the work of the Foyer du Soldat, having shown in the most perilous circumstances the greatest courage, and by her particularly high and worthy spirit and noble conduct has won the admiration of French officers and Gunners."

"In the course of the last months of the campaign she spent herself unreservedly to better both the material and moral conditions of the combattants. She showed great courage at the time of the bombardment by aeroplanes. She has just shown the greatest devotion in organizing in an isolated outpost a "Foyer du Saldat."

It might be gathered from this that Miss Ball was held in high esteem by the commanding officers while in service in France. She went overseas in connection with the Y. M. C. A. of New York and was immediately attached to the work of the institution behind the firing line. Subsequently she was authorized by the Red Cross to take up special work in connection with the French Army behind the front, and had endeared herself to officers and soldiers alike, when her health broke down. But notwithstanding this she refused to return to England and after a rest returned to the army at Ville-en-Vermois and later was sent to the Foyer du Saldat at Moncel-les-Luneville after the Armistice. The French officers were high in the praise of Miss Ball, and the American Government was so impressed with the commendations given Miss Ball by the French authorities that they gave her a

It is the lot of few ladies to have the three great distinctions of having been recommended for the Croix de Guerre, the Commendation Medal, and the Soldiers Discharge. Miss Ball has all of these, and is in addition the great granddaughter of the surveyor sent out by George III to survey and map out the Isle of St. Jean. It is very gratifying to Prince Edward Island to see the strain of her pioneers so well maintained through succeeding generations.

One of the largest, if not the largest, meetings in the history of the Prince Edward Island Medical Association was opened yesterday morning at 10.30 o'clock in the Board of Trade Rooms with the President, Dr. J. D. McGuigan in the chair.

After the ordinary routine business and election of officers were concluded, a general discussion took place on the question of Doctor's Certificates for alcoholic stimulants. On account of the unmerited criticism which the medical profession has received in connection with the writing of prescriptions for alcholic stimulants.

After several suggestions had been submitted the following resolution was carried by a vote of 20—5:

"Whereas the present system of prescribing alcoholic liquors is most unsatisfactory to the medical practitioners of this Island;

AND WHEREAS

The incoming provincial government has not yet been formed and consequently unable to deal with the question;

THEREFORE RESOLVED

That the Prince Edward Island Medical Association respectfully request the Provincial Government to make such amendments to the Prohibition Act, that will relieve the Doctors from the burden of prescribing alcoholic liquors and place in the hands of a special commission the power to so prescribe.

AND FURTHER RESOLVED

That a Committee of five be appointed to confer with the Government in regard to this matter."
