—GREATLY EXAGGERATED
(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) MEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 29.—Great satisfaction came to former Alderman George H. Lewis tonight when he realized his neighbors considered him a "grand fellow" and that flags would be placed at half staff for him when he dies. City hall officials ordered the flags down after receiving reports that Lewis' death was false. Lewis, 73-year-old George, seated comfortably at home.

—TOO MANY WEAR WRONG MAKE-UP
With a full range of shades for each skin tone easily available to every woman, regardless of how much or how little she has to spend in cosmetics, there's just no excuse for wearing make-up that is all wrong.

You can, and you certainly should decide whether your complexion comes under the heading of golden, pinkish or clear. If it's golden, ask to see and be allowed to try four or five shades of face powder in various beige of golden tones. Select one which matches exactly your natural coloring. If your powder is too light, your skin will have an artificial, pasty look. If it's too dark, it may appear muddy instead of fresh and clear.

Be as meticulous in your choice of rouge and lipstick. These should match exactly the shades your lips and cheeks become after violent exercise or after you have patted them a bit and stimulated circulation. You'll find it advisable to remember that few and far between are those who can wear pale, clear pink rouge and lipstick. And seldom does any one except red-heads look well in rusty-orange make-up. Choose exotic tones unless the lights cast by a colour you happen to be wearing make them appropriate.

Once you have a supply of correct make-up, learn to apply it correctly. No girl, no matter how naturally lovely she is, looks either smart or pretty if there are round blotches of rouge on her cheeks, or if her nose is heavily coated with almost white powder.

If you have trouble getting powder on smoothly so that your skin has a dull, beautifully finished appearance, invest in a powder brush. Then, after you have smoothed on foundation lotion, blended rouge carefully and pressed lavish quantities of powder against your skin and let it set a moment or two, brush off the excess. Or you might use a large fluffy piece of cotton to apply the powder, whisking off the excess with the reverse side of it.

Launch Probe Into U. S. Steel Industry
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The monopoly committee started jangling the gears today for a major investigation of practices in the United States steel industry.

The committee was set out to 60 steel companies asking for information on their price and distribution policies.

The information called for is fundamental to determining the economic effect of the pricing policies of the steel industry, a committee statement said.

The tourist industry in North America probably will continue to be influenced favorably in 1939 by disinclination of travellers to Europe, Colin A. Gravenor the Mount Royal hotel said.

Quebec Province has distributed 1,000,000 scenic film photographs in color during a 2,300-mile journey through the province to show its attractions to the countries. The film will be shown in 5,000 theatres in United States during the next year and additional prints have been released for showing in Great Britain and France.

New Liaison Between Science And Religion Proposed By Briton

(By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer)

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 29.—(AP)—A new liaison between science and religion was proposed today by Sir Richard Gregory to the American Association for the advancement of science.

The distinguished editor of Nature, London magazine of science, suggested a new idea of future life, where in place of eternal life there will be a completely different creation after the present earth has come to an end.

The time has come, he said, when "exalted spiritual ideals" must be combined with the results of scientific research.

"Whatever differences of opinion may exist," said Sir Richard, "as to the respective fields of religion and science they meet on common ground in the pursuit of truth and its influence upon human life and conduct."

Sir Richard said the split between religion and science started from the early Hebrews and the Greeks. The Greeks were the first to invent the word "nature" to designate the difference between divine attributes and scientific study.

He pointed out the evolution of ideas has come both from religious revelation and scientific discovery.

King Frowns On "Cash And Curtsy" Debutants At Court

LONDON, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The King himself was reported tonight to have given orders for a renovation of the system of court presentations to keep "cash and curtsy" debutants out of Buckingham Palace's white and gold throne room.

The Daily Mail said the Lord Chamberlain had decided to reject 58 applications from debutantes and matrons for presentation at one of next year's four courts because they engaged financially embarrassed persons to sponsor them.

King George's aversion to exploitation of royalty for private gain was said to be back of the Lord Chamberlain's decision.

It is expected other applications will be refused, not because of the financial angle, but because more always are received than can be presented. Last year more than 600 debutantes were disappointed.

Last July several persons were informed by the Lord Chamberlain that their attendance at forthcoming court functions in 1938 would not be "required."

Some of these were reported to have accepted upwards of £1,000 ($4,650) for sponsoring young women for the season.

The high point of the social season for a debutante is presentation at court when she curtsies before the King and Queen. Some 700 debutantes and matrons usually are presented at each court.

Stricter application of rules governing presentations was decided upon late in the 1938 season to apply to this year's courts. The Lord Chamberlain's office said the formal rules themselves would not be changed for the 1939 presentations but applications would be considered individually—leaving wide latitude for putting into effect a more stringent general policy.

Other factors in the stricter regulation are the criticism of "peek-a-boo" dresses which followed one of the 1938 courts and the indiscretion of two New Zealand girls who granted press interviews before they were to have gone to court. Their invitations were rescinded.

The dates of the 1939 courts have not yet been announced.

- 1 cup mashed potatoes
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1-2 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1-4 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder

Method: Have the potatoes freshly and finely mashed. Add the butter and the well-beaten eggs to these and beat hard. Then add the sugar and the milk. Sift the flour with the baking powder and the salt and stir these in. Of course you may need a little more flour to bake the dough right for rolling them out, for flour varies somewhat. But you won't need much. Keep the dough as soft as you can, and still be able to handle it easily.

Take small amounts of the dough and roll or pat it out on a floured pastry cloth to about 3-8 inch thick. Cut them with a floured cookie cutter and drop into deep, hot fat. Fry only a few at a time so they won't stick together, and keep turning them over and over so they'll brown evenly.

Take the paper off the outside of a round tin, punch holes all around the top and the bottom, but not the top. Into this I put the small pieces of soap and use for washing dishes, as it makes a grand shaker.

Spend Lonely Winter Atop Mountain Peak

(By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Writer)

QARMI, B. C., Dec. 28.—(CP)—Five men and a woman face a hard winter amid the clouds atop a mountain peak to operate an aerial light-house just completed to guide Trans-Canada Airlines planes over the Rockies.

In a wind-whipped little cluster of buildings on the summit of Mount Carmi, 200 miles east of Vancouver, the staff of the new Dominion Transport Department radio range station expect to be snowed in for weeks at a time at their task of maintaining a 24-hour service of radio signals to steer the airplane pilots across the jagged peaks in a straight line from Lethbridge, Alta., to Vancouver.

Four operators, a handyman and his wife have begun the winter vigil in the interests of airline safety. Their perch at an altitude of 4,050 feet is the loftiest of the 31 radio "lighthouses" across the north Trans-Canada route. Automatic transmitters will send a steady succession of signals out into the thin mountain air to the earphones of the pilot in the gleaming metal airplane drumming high over the Rockies. Voices of the operator will break into the "range" monotone occasionally to report the weather conditions ahead, for the Carmi Station is also a meteorological bureau.

If the pilot's sight of the ground is blocked off by low clouds and snow or the darkness of night and he gets off the beam, he will hear a different letter in the monotone and knows from that particular letter whether he is on the right or left of the true course. As a further aid to safety, high-frequency signals from special ground stations light a red bulb on the instrument panel to show the pilot he is over the Rockies if he cannot see them.

The new range station here forms part of a new route "over the hump." Since Trans-Canada planes started flying the Rockies a year ago they have flown slightly south from Lethbridge to Grand Forks, B. C., before slanting north again to Vancouver. This new flight line cuts a straight path over the mountains from Lethbridge to the coast.

The Daily Mail said the Lord Chamberlain had decided to reject 58 applications from debutantes and matrons for presentation at one of next year's four courts because they engaged financially embarrassed persons to sponsor them.

The new equipment consists of 10 baggage cars, five mail and express cars, 2,000 box cars, one ballast spread, two steam cranes and one locomotive crane. In addition Mr. Vaughan has announced a refrigerator cars would be built in railway shops.

The new purchases will cost approximately $9,600,000.

Young Boston Poet Fined By Court

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 28.—Robert Cecil Spence Lowell, Jr., young Boston poet and member of the Lowell family which has produced noted figures in literature and education, today was fined $75 for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Lowell was involved in an accident in which Jeanne Stafford, passenger in Lowell's automobile, suffered a broken nose.

Butter is the most easily digested form of fat, and as it consists of 90 per cent fat it has a higher caloric value than any other food. Butter is a rich source of vitamin A and contains a certain amount of vitamin D. It is probably the most widely used of any foods.

Cheese offers perhaps the most satisfactory method of getting the nutritive elements of milk. It contains all the casein and some of the albumin and salts of the milk, together with the fat when it has been made from whole milk. The calcium of milk is retained in varying amounts, it is high in Swiss and Cheddar cheese (i.e. those made with rennet), but low in soft cream cheeses.

The digestibility of cheese is in most individuals about the same as that of meat, but it should not be taken as a substitute. A pound of good cheese contains the same amount of protein and fat as a gallon of milk, and considerably more than a pound of beefsteak. The protein being that of milk is of the highest biological value.

Cheese retains the calcium, phosphorus, and sulphur of milk and considerable amounts of the iron and vitamin A.

Woolen bands are stitched vertically on silk crepe or satin dresses, giving the effect of radiating pleats. Some are made entirely with a satin bodice. Other dresses are banded horizontally. One straight black wool dress is smart with wide inset waistband of black satin, knotted at the side, and accompanied by a straight loose wool coat, square shouldered, with satin fronts.

Bloused treatments appear on both dresses and separate blouses. The latter include colored satins with black suits, softly pleated onto sash bands of the satin, and also having long sleeves bloused into wrist bands.

HOLMAN'S SUMMERSIDE

The King and Queen arriving at the Rumanian Legation in London to attend the banquet given by King Carol of Rumania during the latter's state visit to Britain with his son, Crown Prince Carol. The Queen is looking particularly beautiful in a graceful emerald gown with jewelled embroidery applique and an ermine diamond bandeau.

The petite Duchess of Gloucester, accompanied by the Duke, is looking especially charming in one of the new gored hoop-dolman trimmed with tails. Her shining hair is circled with a jewelled halo.
