A Day in R.A.F. School

Showing Why British Pilots Best Their Nazi Opponents

BY PAUL MANNING
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

ENGLAND (a Royal Air Force Training School), Aug., 16 — The 2000 pilots, gunners, navigators and wireless operators now being turned out each month in assembly line fashion throughout Britain are specified by British officers today as the real reason for the amazing success of the Royal Air Force.

Manning

Air supremacy, they say, is being maintained because England is now turning out well-trained air crews at an astonishing rate. Each month from 50 per cent of England's 300 airfields, a minimum of 2000 airmen with seven months training take their place alongside the 300,000 men already in R. A. F. ranks.

At this training field I saw the type of program responsible for this training speedup which is now keeping pace with the delivery of U. S. warplanes in England.

It's all done on a factory basis. At this typical school 32 men are taught bombing; 32 learn how to handle Harvards, Wellingtons, Spitfires and Hurricanes; 32 study navigation; 32 learn wireless, and 32 gunnery.

And each month, with clock-like regularity, 40 of these 160 students receive their wings, then move on to front-line airdromes where they are matched into crews and given final reconnaissance training over the North Sea.

ASSEMBLY LINE INSTRUCTION

The most impressive feature about this assembly line type of training program is the ability of the students and the quality of instruction.

In a narrow brick building used by the bombing classes student bombardiers with four weeks instruction score direct hits from a theoretical height of 10,000 feet.

Out on the field student pilots learn combat by staging amazing aerial duels high above the airdrome.

Pilots in training at R.A.F. school in Great Britain learn to load a machine gun mounted in the wing of a "Harvard," plane imported from the United States for training purposes.

Splitting into sections, one group in North American Harvards will roar down in screaming power dives to 1200 feet, release dummy bombs on a theoretical North Sea convoy, then swoop up into a steep Immelman turn and make ready for another attack.

Then from a distance two squadrons of Spitfires idling along in reconnaissance will suddenly spring to life and race flat out at 387 m.p.h., to meet the attack.

Simultaneously, Hurricanes representing Heinkel 113's will plummet down from their escorting level to 10,000 feet and suddenly the sky is broken up by twisting, screaming planes.

Until the battle reaches the dogfight stage the fighting is conducted along lines mapped out by the squadron leader. Nursing the young pilots along by radio communication and keeping the squadron intact to present a wide front and well-covered flank the leader suddenly gives the signal to break formation and each man is on his own.

He singles out on opponent and tries to come in from the rear while pouring part of his 9600 bullets into the other cockpit. Because in air fights these days you aim for the pilot. His motor is armored too well. Shoot off half of his tail and he may still hobble away; so aim for the pilot.

Only in this particular fight the bullets were camera guns, mounted on the wings of each plane to record direct hits.

In one corner of the sky a slow Harvard, just pulling out of a screaming, dive, was pairing off against a fast Spitfire. Against superior speed and power, this pilot looped up in a sharp Immelman, suddenly flattened out and came in on the tail of the little Spitfire to score a direct burst.

"YOU CAN FLY ANYTHING—"

Later, in the hangars, the pilot of this North American Harvard was looking over his plane. He was long-limbed, with a pleasant Yorkshire face and he had a stoop, probably acquired from squeezing into cockpits.

He said that these American training planes could stand an amazing amount of rough treatment. That they made twice the noise of most airplanes, yet he did not mind, because the power was there and waiting.

"Anyway," he added, "if you can fly one of these trainers you can fly anything."

FINANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(AP)—War doubts darkened the stock market picture today and leading industrials slipped fractions to 2 points. There were a few wider declines.

Slightly easier trends appeared at the start but volume was so insignificant little importance was attached to recessions.

In arrears were U. S Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Great Northern, Anaconda, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of N. —, and International Paper pfd.

Utilities, rails, oils and rubbers were relatively narrow throughout.

Bonds retreated along with commodities.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 16—(CP)—General liquidation of stocks on American markets that sent wheat down more than three cents at Chicago today was reflected in trading on the Winnipeg grain exchange where only a few routine trades in the October wheat future were executed at the fixed minimum price of 73 5-8 cents a bushel. The December future did not open.

The Buenos Aires market was closed today.

Mills gvae support to oats in the coarse grain pit early.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16—(CP)—Traders paid more attention to the "Battle of Britain" than to the stock market in late dealings today and leaders were somewhat easier.

Hollinger and Asbestos, in base metals and constructions, retreated sizeable fractions while Nickel, Smelters and Foundation plodded steadily along. Rails, which showed some improvement in earlier dealings, fell back slightly as minimum declines were posted for C.P.R. and Canadian Car pfd. National Steel Car and Dosco, however, added small amounts.

Montreal Power showed slight rising tendencies while other utilities and papers and senior oils marched evening along. Imperial Tobacco and Bruck Silk were fractionally lower.

Total sales: 9,100 shares; Industrials, 5,900; Mines, 3,200; Bonds, $1,050.

Produce Prices

MONTREAL, Aug. 16—(CP)—Produce Market prices here today, as reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, follow:

LIVESTOCK

OTTAWA, Aug. 16—(CP)—Gains in all divisions of the trade featured livestock markets during the past week, the Dominion Agriculture Department said today in its weekly livestock review.

There was good demand for cattle at Montreal with steers at $8 and up to $8.50 for good quality. Cows made $5.50 to $6. Trade in the Maritimes was steady with good to choice steers quoted at $7.50 to $8.

News Briefs

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 16.—(CP)—The 1941 annual meeting of the Canadian Teachers' Federation will be held in Halifax, if conditions permit. Delegates to the present convention here decided on Halifax at today's meeting, naming Winnipeg as an alternative. Prince Edward Island was suggested as venue of the next convention, but Secretary C. N. Crutchfield, of Shawinigan Falls, Que., said if the convention was held anywhere in P. E. Island rather than in Halifax, the additional costs would amount to several hundred dollars.

LONDON, Aug. 16. — (CP) —United States proposals for leasing air bases on British West Indian Islands may be under discussion and will certainly be received "with interest and sympathy," a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

WINDSOR, Eng, Aug. 16. — (CP Cable)—Mayor Dave Croll of Windsor, Ont., came to this royal borough in the uniform of a Canadian private soldier today, but was welcomed as though he was a visiting general.

Croll was greeted at the railway station by the chief of police, who escorted him to the ancient guild hall, where the mayor presented his wife and son and the councillors.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—(CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King confirmed today a statement made in Washington by President Roosevelt that conversations are being carried on between the United States and Canadian governments looking toward defence of the American hemisphere.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP) — An apparent German attempt to destroy British morale through fear of parachutists was disclosed today by a British officer investigating the discovery of parachutes and "secret documents" dropped by Nazi airmen in the Midlands and Scotland this week. The officer said that about 80 parachutes had been found, but their condition plainly indicated they were empty when they left the planes.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 16.—(CP)—Aided by about 100 members of the Royal Canadian Air Force from nearby Trenton, some of whom were equipped with asbestos suits, Belleville and district firemen today succeeded in subduing fire which blazed out of four 10,000 gallon oil tanks here. Cause of an explosion which immediately preceded discovery of the blaze has not been determined.

R. A. F. Needs More Planes; Damage Slight

(By Robert E. Bunnelle, Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Hitler's blitz-push against the channel ports shows that Britain's need is for planes, planes, and more planes.

One feature of the aerial attacks is the methodical tactics of the Germans. They send over a wave of smaller planes in an attempt to draw off the patrols to one point, then aim heavier bombs at another.

The Royal Air Force was outnumbered in every fight I saw in five days in England's hottest corner—Dover. Yet in spite of constant attacks the Germans have done remarkably little damage of military consequence.

Trains run regularly, even though off-schedule, despite air raids.

Morale of the coastal people is excellent. They merely take time out while the hottest bombing and gunning is going on, then carry on with their regular business.

Workers were busy today when I left, hauling small boats out of harbor to a safe place so they could not be used by unwanted visitors.
