The nurses of the Prince Edward Island Hospital are now enjoying the comfortable accommodations in the "Phoebe Brecken Home" adjoining the Hospital. This building had been given to the trustees for a nurses' home by Rev. Dr. Brecken, and when the proper time had arrived in the opinion of the trustees, the work of remodelling the building was begun. This work was completed recently by Lowe Bros. who made a number of alterations and additions, with very satisfactory results. A new varandah has been built on the front and an addition put on the east side. Down stairs are seven rooms, including drawing room, reception hall, library, kitchen and bed rooms. Upstairs there are eight bedrooms and bathroom. New hardwood floors have be laid throughout the building, which is steam heated and electrically lighted. Down stairs the color scheme of the painting and papering is green, of harmonizing and artistic shades. The reception hall is roomy and comfortable with several rare pieces of furniture, including one of the most comfortable sofas that could be designed, and a book case, containing many works bequeathed to the institution by the late Doctors McLeod and Taylor. The drawing room, to the left of the reception hall is finished and furnished in excellent taste. The library is a bright, cosy and comfortable apartment, and suitably furnished. It contains a collection of useful medical works, bequeathed to the institution. The kitchen though not yet used by the nurses, is fitted with hot and cod water taps, sink and other necessary appointments. The bedrooms are tinted in blue, pink and yellow, and all are nicely furnished.
