Celebrates His 92nd. Birthday

There will be a birthday party next Wednesday at 3048 Washington Boulevard, Cleveland Heights. Of course, not every birthday party is news. But this happens to be John T. Sencabaugh's birthday—his 92nd birthday.

Mr. Sencabaugh you will remember, is the man who was retired by the Standard Oil Company last May after having completed more than 59 years of active and uninterrupted service. He was born December 10, 1838, at Charlottetown Prince Edward Island.

One look at his ruddy complexion and his smile reveals that 92 years do not necessarily make an old or feeble man. The robust state of his health is expressed in a firm, light step, good eye-sight, good hearing, and a remarkable keen mind. He never spends an idle moment except when he is asleep.

He is a voracious reader keeping himself posted through the newspapers, magazines and books on all current topics of the day. On Sunday he teaches a class in his Church School. He is a man of few words, but can talk on practically any subject except himself. This he steadfastly refuses to do, through an inbred modesty which is one of his chief characteristics.

Mr. Sencabaugh is a soft spoken man, quiet and unassuming. If he ever became angry no one ever knew it. And if he ever angered anyone else by a word of deed of his own that person has never been found. Such is the character of the fine old gentleman who celebrates his 92nd birthday anniversary next Wednesday, December 10th, at the home of his daughter and son-in-law Mr and Mrs W. F. Dorn, 3048 Washington Boulevard Cleveland Heights. At that place and on that date, from two until eight p. m. he will be glad to receive any of his old friends who might wish him happy returns of the day.

In the early days of his experience with Standard Oil Mr Sencabaugh used to see, almost daily the venerable founder of the Standard Oil Company John D. Rockefeller senior. Last year, on the occasion of Mr. Sencabaugh's 91st birthday, he was the recipient of a pair of the famous Rockefeller dimes, which were accompanied by a greeting from the oil king.

These two old gentlemen have at least five things in common. First, both have lived to be nonagenarians—sound in mind and body. Second both through clean living and regular habits have preserved an amazing state of good health to a remarkable old age. Third, both have devoted practically their entire lives to the public through the Standard Oil Company. Fourth both are perfect examples of the quiet and modest gentleman. And fifth both seem now to be enjoying life more than ever before. Also their given names are almost identical—John D. and John T.—The Bystander, Cleveland, Ohio, December 10 (Mrs Wellington A. J. Stone of Montague is a niece of Mr. Sencabaugh being his nearest relative at present living on the Island).

IN MEMORIAM

THE LATE JAMES L. MacDONALD

The death occurred in the Prince Edward Island Hospital about 11.30 Sunday evening of Mr. James L. MacDonald, who had been in the railway service for the past fourteen years.

Mr MacDonald took ill last October and was a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital for about five weeks. He returned to his home apparently recovered and had planned to resume his railway duties after Christmas but a few days ago he again became very ill and was taken to the hospital on Saturday where he gradually grew weaker until he peacefully passed away.

Mr MacDonald was the son of the late Norman J. MacDonald of Montague. He was educated in the public schools and at Prince of Wales College. After teaching school at Montague he left for the west and was engaged in ranching in Arizona. Then he came east and went to sea, sailing out of Gloucester. Later he engaged in the fish business in the Fulton Fish Market, New York, residing at Brooklyn.

In 1916 he returned to Prince Edward Island and on April 26th of that year was appointed assistant pursuer of the S. S. Northumberland, that steamer then being operated by the railway department.

On May 4, 1916, he became pursuer on the "Stanley" and about a week later was transferred to the car ferry steamer "Prince Edward Island" as checker. He was engaged in the same capacity on that steamer and on the Stanley until August 23, 1918 when he became freight checker at Borden.

On September 10, 1923, he was transferred to Charlottetown where he had since been stationed.

Mr. MacDonald was a very faithful and competent official and was held in the highest esteem by his fellow workers and by the general public. He was a man of the highest integrity and possessed a genial personality that won for him hosts of friends wherever he was known.

He leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow, (nee Miss Libby Macmillan) and one brother, Maynard F. MacDonald of Montague. To them and other relatives the sincere sympathy of our people will be extended.

He will be laid to rest this afternoon in the cemetery at lower Montague. The funeral service, which will be held from his brother's residence at Montague will start at 1.30 p. m. The body was taken by train to Montague yesterday afternoon.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY

To Brother Harry Pethick, Cornwall. We, your brethren of King William L.O.L., No. 1166, desire to convey to you and Mrs. Pethick our heartfelt sympathy in the death of your beloved daughter and pray that God may bless and comfort you in this, your hour of trial, but amid all the sorrow attending death, it is consoling to know the parting is only for awhile and that when we too shall cross the Great Divide, we shall again meet and enjoy the fellowship of the loved ones gone before in that beautiful land where parting shall be no more.

Signed on behalf of King William Lodge, William H. Paul, P.M., George Beer, Secretary.

"Who helped you with your homework, Jones?" asked the master. "Nobody, sir." "Now, come, come that's not true," said the master sternly "Was it your father?" "No, sir. He didn't help me—he did every bit himself."

There is a man in our town, and he was wondrous wise. He swore by all the gods above he would not advertise! But one day he did break this rule; and thereby hangs a tale: The ad was set in real small type and headed Sheriff's Sale.

Mrs. Greene had got a cold, and could not go to church, but she insisted that her husband should go in her place.

"Well," she inquired, on his return, "and what was the burden of the vicar's sermon?"

He sat down with a weary sigh, and murmured: "All of it, my dear!"
