INTERESTING SIGHT - During the course of his response to the toast to His Majesty's forces at the Canadian Legion banquet at Summerside Saturday evening Lt. Col. E. H. Strong, M. L. A., in tracing the various stages of voluntary enlistment in this Province down through the years gave many interesting personal anecdotes that were listened to attentively by the members of the Legion. He stated that the late Pacific Soldier, of Summerside who died several weeks ago and was buried in the First Great War and graveyards in the present conflict was a recruit in the regiment which was formed in this Province at the time of the Redoubt and which took part in the suppression of that outbreak. Local inhabitants will recall that the late Mr. Strong had an eye affliction and Col. Strong explained that it had been caused by a powder charge from the old fashioned muzzle loading rifles in use at that time. -S.

Rev. Urban Gillis, parish priest at Wellington was visitor to Charlottetown over the week-end. -S.

CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

Weather Favors Remembrance Day Ceremony

The rain stopped and the sun shone for a few hours on Saturday morning, Remembrance Day, to allow the customary observance to be held in Memorial Square, Summerside, below the monument erected to the memory of those who died in the first Great War. The program took the following order: "O Canada,"

Shall Not Grow Old" - Revellie

"There Is No Death" - Rev. Charles Carney.

Prayer, "O God Our Help In Ages Past."

Prayer, Ven. Archdeacon G. R. Harrison.

Reading, "The Silence."

"God Save the King."

The chairman was Mr. M. P. Titus, President of Summerside Branch, Canadian Legion.

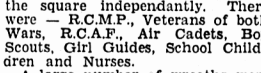

Rev. Carney stressed in his talk that "we must live, worthy of the sacrifice of those who gave their all in each of the Great World Wars. It is not enough that we should only honor them once a year on Remembrance Day."

In conclusion he said that it must be a Christian Remembrance and not a pagan remembrance and that the program was a feature of the program was the first appearance of the Summerside Youth Centre Bugle and Drum band which has been practicing these last few months under the direction of Mr. Leo Coyle and Mr. Earle Simmons. They headed the parade of the Air Cadets.

The different units paraded to the square independently. There were R.C.M.P. Veterans of both Wars, R.C.A.F. Air Cadets, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, School Children and Nurses.

A large number of wreaths were placed at the front of the monument. -S.

RALSTON CORRECTS

have not assisted during November and December in providing the pools I have spoken of, but it would have reassured our infantry units in the field that we were determined to back them up; it would have made up the December shortage soon after the first of the year. The remaining 8,000 mentioned by the Prime Minister could have reached the battle areas early in February.

Reinforcements

These, with the volunteers which would become available during February and the reinforcements which would be calculated, see us through until June 1, with some margin.

He said the Prime Minister had mentioned in all, 42,000 N. R. M. A. men as being considered suitable material for the infantry.

Col. Ralston said that with the first 16,000 dispatched as he had outlined "we could be reconstituting and training the remainder of the 26,000 to be available if required."

Then he added: "It is clear that the need for these additional infantry reinforcements does not arise from having suffered more casualties in the aggregate than had been forecasted. Our aggregate casualties, that is, for all arms of the service, have been somewhat less than estimated."

"The need arises because casualties incurred by the infantry have been a very much higher proportion of the aggregate casualties than had been estimated, and the estimates for the future are based on that experience."

He said the number of the men required was not large compared to the size of the army, but without them the infantry units would not be supported as they should be. Despite the possibility of the war ending suddenly or a drop in casualties, he considered that "if we were to be fair to our fighting men we should not carry out the military call-up method in this Province since its beginning. He pointed out that the men from P.E.I. was double that of some of the other provinces. In the past it was thought that four divisions was about all that until nearly 6 p.m. before the final draft was distributed.

Col. Ralston declined to answer questions, but it was reliably learned that he will start a vacation the latter part of this week and that he will not be in the province in any capacity of consultation forces in seeking parliamentary representation.

Annual Banquet Of S'side Branch Canadian Legion

Veterans of two great wars, members of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. met for their annual banquet on Saturday evening in St. Paul's Hall, Summerside, where a splendid turnout of the members of Summerside, Kensington and Charlottetown branches enjoyed to full extent the banquet and hearty congratulations are due the committee in charge for one of the most enjoyable reunions of the Legion in many years. Congratulations are due also to the capable manner in which Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cameron and the assistants catered and to the C.M.B.A. who furnished the use of their rooms for the occasion.

President M. P. Titus of the Summerside Branch in his introductory remarks welcomed back the good comrades of the Legion and congratulated them in the splendid manner in which they had observed the ceremonies throughout the day. In reference to the veterans of the present war he spoke in glowing terms of the way in which they entered into any of the tasks assigned to them as members of the Legion.

The Provincial President, Captain Brenton A. Clark, Summerside, who responded to the toast by the Canadian Legion said that it was the greatest organization in the Dominion of Canada today - yielding an immense power for the good of the country and for the men of this war, and will be returning to civilian life. It was an organization that takes notice of and acts on any resolution which the Legion may take for the good of the country. He expressed his pleasure at seeing veterans of the war becoming members and believed that the Legion was the work of the Legion when the older members were no longer able to do so. He hoped that the grace of God would be necessary for the Legion to enroll veterans of another conflict in its ranks.

Col. Ralston, referring to the fact that the government had released the correspondence in connection with the resignation, spoke of government policy. He said that it was necessary to be fair to our fighting men and that the government should be fair to our fighting men. He said that it was necessary to be fair to our fighting men and that the government should be fair to our fighting men.

Remembrance Day

At Wheatley River

Remembrance Day observance in Wheatley River was one of the best ever held in that place. The meeting was under the able chairmanship of Major D.A. MacDonald whose guidance of the gathering was greatly appreciated by the large audience who gathered to honor our valiant dead not only in the first great war but in world war II.

The music was under the able direction of Harold Chown. Mrs. Louise Burton sang with splendid effect "Faith Of Our Fathers". Then Major MacDonald introduced the Rev. Neil Herman who spoke with feeling and fervor upon the common experiences of war and the common sorrows which follow.

Following Mr. Herman came the Hon. Dr. W.J.P. Millan O.B.E. and leader of the opposition in our Provincial Govt. Dr. MacMillan was at his best and without any political bias or coloring he spoke alone in the name of the people of the province as a divided Canada and called for a united Canada in this sad hour of possible future trouble.

He called in no uncertain tones for blood donors and told in vivid fashion what blood plasma meant to the armed forces overseas. "We have forgotten God," said the doctor "and we shall never enjoy the fruits of peace until we as a people get back to God."

This earnest and enthusiastic meeting came to a close by the "Invocation" and "God Save The King."
