Contract Bridge

TOO HASTY

West was in far too great a hurry to take his trump trick in the following deal:

North dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

North: ♠ A Q 10 9 4 ♥ K 8 6 ♦ 9 7 ♣ K 5 3
West: ♠ 8 7 6 ♥ J 8 4 ♦ K 5 3 2 ♣ J 7 2
East: ♠ 5 3 2 ♥ A 9 7 3 2 ♦ 6 ♣ 10 8 6 4
South: ♠ K J ♥ Q 10 ♦ A Q J 10 8 4 ♣ A Q

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

South must have had visions of a grand slam when his partner opened the bidding, but the response to the Blackwood four no-trump revealed that an ace was off the combined hands, and therefore South naturally subsided at the six level.

West, reluctant to guess between the unbid suits, hearts and clubs, decided to lead a spade. Dummy's queen was put up while declarer played the jack, so that the lead would remain in dummy, and the diamond nine was led for a finesse. West promptly grabbed the trick — and then "went into a trance" over what to return. The heart and club situations were exactly the same in dummy and in West's own hand, so there was nothing to choose between these shifts. Unluckily for himself, West finally tossed out a club, and that was the finish for his side.

This was one slam that certainly should have been defeated! If West had originally led a heart or a club, he either would have made the right guess then and there or, if he guessed wrong, he could shift to the other suit upon getting in with his diamond king. But even after the spade lead, the defense was still simplicity itself. All West had to do was hold up his diamond king — and on the second diamond lead he would have received a very emphatic heart signal from his partner!
