SPRING.

By Beatrice Redpath.

In deepest woods there is a vernal stir,
While earth is quickened with the tender green;
Blue waters rend their crystal sepulchre
And there is life where death like sleep hath been.

Bird voices haunt the golden lighted days,
And snowdrops glimmer whitely 'mid the grass.
While in the twilight of the hidden ways
All greenly veiled Persephone doth pass.

TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE

In another part of this issue we publish a report of a meeting of the General Executive of the Temperance Alliance held yesterday. The principal business was consideration of the report of the Advisory Committee which dealt largely with the unsatisfactory results of some of the recent prosecutions and expressed disappointment at the non-enactment of the proposed amendments of the Prohibition Act

The Advisory Committee reports that the amendments were carefully prepared under competent professional advice and were presented to the government in the form of a codified bill, ready for presentation to the legislature, and that when the deputation waited upon the government consideration was promised, but the legislature adjourned about three weeks afterwards without one of those amendments being granted.

It would have been only fair had the Advisory Committee gone a little further and stated that the proposed bill was submitted to a committee of the legislature of which a so well known member of the Alliance, Mr. A. E. Prowse, was chairman, and that Mr. Prowse on behalf of the committee reported that the proposed amendments were so extensive and important that it would be well they should be printed and circulated for information and criticism before being dealt with by the House.

The Advisory Committee also complain that the Government continues in office officials against whom charges of inefficiency have been made by the Alliance but here also, for some unknown reason, they refrain from mentioning the fact that, as reported in our yesterday's issue, the government has appointed a commission to enquire into the charges.

When the complaint was lodged the government found it had no machinery by which to make investigation and immediately framed a bill which it passed through the House, giving it necessary powers. Not many days have elapsed since the bill became law and the government has, without loss of time, made the necessary judicial appointment to carry through the investigation. While criticizing the government for its alleged laxity in giving effect to all the demands of the Alliance, made while the House was in session, surely it would have added to the value of the report if credit had been given for this prompt response. No unbiassed person will deny that the government has given more than a courteous hearing to the Alliance. The Committee of the House which considered the proposed amendments were, for the most part, members or supporters of the Alliance and we have no right to assume that they have the interests of temperance less at heart than have the members of the Advisory Committee. A good deal of idle gossip has been current about the alleged lukewarmness of the government towards the Alliance, but this, for the most part, has been circulated by interested opponents of the government, who themselves, in the past, have done less for the interests of temperance than the government has already to its credit. It is but natural that the Advisory Committee feels a little sore at being unable to go to the General Committee with a report that all their demands had been satisfied. A little consideration and reflection, however, will convince them that they have fared exceedingly well at the hands of the government, and that the prospects for still further legislation were never better in the history of the Alliance in Prince Edward Island.

NOTES

The heartfelt sympathy of all goes out to Mrs. Auld and family in the sore bereavement they are called upon to bear. While the city mourns the death of a valued and valuable citizen, they mourn for the beloved husband and father, called away in the prime of his manhood and usefulness. With their many friends we unite in deepest sympathy.

EXECUTIVE REPORT.

A well attended meeting of the General Executive of the Temperance Alliance was held yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. The Advisory Committee reported their work since the annual meeting. The report, after being considered, clause by clause, was unanimously adopted and the following resolutions passed:—

1st. That the Advisory Committee be instructed to arrange for a thorough organization of the whole Province.

2nd. That it be an instruction to the Field Secretary in connection with this work to secure pledges both in favour of total abstinence and the principles of the Alliance.

3rd. That other matters not specified in above resolutions be referred to the Advisory Committee for action.

The report of the Advisory Committee is as follows:—

1. Since the Alliance met on February 4th your Committee has taken every method that seemed possible to carry out the instructions given them by the Alliance. The charges we were instructed to make against the officials appointed to enforce the Prohibition Act were presented to the Government on March 2nd last. We regret that no investigation has yet been made.

2. Since the Alliance met there have been a number of prosecutions brought through information secured by the Alliance in which convictions were obtained. Prosecutions have not been as satisfactory as we would have wished owing partly to defects in the Act itself and partly from causes specified in the charges made to the Government. Fines have not all been collected and sentences have not all been enforced.

3. Through the efforts of the Alliance fines aggregating $2,600 were imposed since the first of January 1914. Of this amount but a very small portion has been collected.

4. A complaint was made by the Committee on March 6th to the Government in the case of Picton C. Brown, the vendor. Since his appointment Mr. Brown has been convicted of selling liquor unlawfully and on the 2nd of January last three prosecutions were commenced against him for violations of the Act. The officers of the law have up to the present failed to effect service of the papers necessary to bring these cases to trial, as Mr. Brown has been evading service. The attention of the Government was called to this on March 6th, and they were asked to notify Mr. Brown to appear and stand his trial or else be dismissed from his position as vendor. So far as your Committee is aware no action has been taken in response to their request.

Since this request was made to the Government Mr. Brown's partner, Mr. G. J. McCormack, has been also convicted of a violation of the Act. We deem this a very important matter, as under the law a second conviction against the vendor would cancel his appointment and disqualify him.

5. Both vendors have been conducting their shops behind screens and other devices which prevents any proper view of the interior of their premises. The manner in which the business of the vendors has been carried on in this city has been nothing less than a public scandal.

6. A communication was sent to the Government with reference to the decision of the Court in the case of Mr. McQuaid's appointment. As the question of the validity of Mr. McQuaid's appointment is now before the Courts we refrain for the present from any further statement rgarding our connection with the matter.

7. From the above recited facts it will be apparent that there is urgent need for amendments to the present Act. After the Alliance meeting the Committee took steps to prepare amendments found necessary from their experience of attempts to enforce the Act during the past year. In taking up this part of our work we were encouraged by the promise of the Premier made a year ago that if after co-operation with the Government in an attempt to rigidly enforce the Act it were found that further amendments were necessary they would be readily given.

These amendments were carefully prepared under competent professional advice and were presented to the Government in the form of a codified bill ready for presentation to the Legislature. A copy was handed to the Premier a week or more before the meeting with the Executive so as to give him ample time to study the amendments. On April 1st a public hearing was had before the Government and members of the Legislature, when the Act was read and explained and reasons given for asking for the amendments, and their immediate enactment was urged. Consideration was promised, but when the Legislature adjourned about three weeks afterwards not one of these amendments was granted.

8. We greatly regret the failure to enact at the last session the amendments asked for. Under the Act as at present there is no provision to prevent the importing of liquors by clubs all over the country, a custom which is growing rapidly and doing a vast amount of evil. It is practically impossible at present to obtain convictions for selling intoxicating liquors. The sale of these drinks particularly to young persons has attained very large proportions. The machinery for enforcing the present Act is very defective. Offenders have easily been able to evade services of summons in some cases successfully defying the officers of the law for a period as great as four months, during all of which time their business of selling liquor goes on uninterruptedly.

9. Experience has shown that under the present Act great difficulty has been met in searching for liquors unlawfully kept for sale. Some better system than the one now in force must certainly be devised. It is impossible to specify in the limits of this report in detail the many other important amendments asked for, practically all of which are already the law in other Provinces.

10. We have to report that since January last when the efforts of the Alliance were blocked, drinking has considerably increased. In some places selling is going on practically in an open manner and without check. These facts prove either that the Act is ineffective and needs amendment or that the Government officials are neglectful of their duty in the enforcement of the law.

11. As the Government has declined for the present to pass the necessary amendments to the law, and continues in office officials against whom charges of inefficiency have been made by the Alliance, it is necessary for the Alliance to consider what other methods are to be taken to make effective the law and to prevent the illicit sale of liquor.

INFORMATION FOR FARMERS

The following valuable information is supplied to the farmers of the Province by Mr. L. Tennant, of the Department of Agriculture, in the form of a circular letter: "The first spray for fruit trees should be applied just before the leaf buds burst. Better results will be obtained by spraying at this time rather than earlier. This spray cleans up the tree, destroys scale insects and the eggs of aphids or lice. It will also control the tent caterpillar and destroy a large number of the spores of fungus diseases. To be effective it must be applied thoroughly to every part of the tree. The pump used should give strong pressure, so that the spray is applied in the form of a fine mist. This first spray is put on much stronger than the later sprays, and lime sulphur solution is used, without any poison added. Concentrated commercial lime sulphur may be used, diluted one gallon to nine gallons of water. What is cheaper and just as effective is the lime boiled lime-sulphur solution. This is made in the following manner:—About fifteen gallons of water are placed in an ordinary 25 or 30 gallon farmer's boiler. This water is brought to boiling heat, by means of either a fire or live steam. While this is going on fifteen pounds of flour of sulphur of a good grade is mixed to a thick paste in an ordinary pail. When the water in the kettle is boiling twenty pounds of fresh stone lime are added to it. It is a good plan to reduce the heat until the violence of slaking has subsided. After the lime is all slaked add the sulphur, breaking up all lumps as far as possible. As soon as the sulphur is added the mixture should be kept boiling vigorously for about an hour. It will also be necessary to stir the mixture frequently with a hoe in order thoroughly to mix the lime and sulphur. By covering the kettle with a few boards or old sacking there will be less loss of heat. Water must be added from time to time during the boiling to keep the mixture up to the fifteen allon quantity. Two things are essential in making this mixture—the boiling must be continuous and vigorous, and stirring must be done frequently. When the boiling is finished strain the mixture through a screen having not fewer than twenty meshes to the inch, into the spray barrel and make up to 40 gallons. The solution must be applied while warm. If allowed to cool, the lime sulphur will crystallize. Where the mixture does stand for a few days and crystal forms it will be necessary to reboil it for a few minutes in order to dissolve the crystal. The cost of making up this solution, outside of fuel and labor, will be slightly less than one cent per gallon."

CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

The Canadian Magazine for May contains a noteworthy historical article by A. Gordon Dewey, entitled "The Beginnings of British Commerce at Montreal." The article begins with the occupation of Montreal on September 8, 1760, which "marked an epoch in the development of its (Montreal's) commercial life, and the succeeding period was one of change and growth." There is also another fine historical sketch, that of "John Galt: Founder of Cities," by J. E. Wetherell, which is well illustrated. There is a splendid literary appreciation by Professor A. W. Crawford of Tennyson's "Maud," a carefully considered article on the work of the Canadian poet, Duncan Campbell Scott, by Bernard Muddiman, an apparently unanswerable defence of the Canadian Senate by George Clarke Holland, an insight into lumbering in British Columbia, illustrated, by Norman Rankin, besides several fine Canadian short stories and reproductions of paintings.

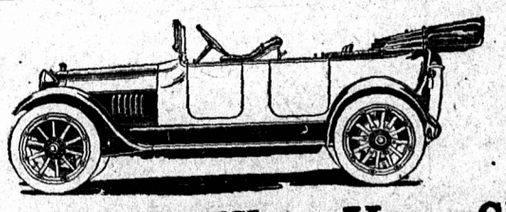
PATONS



20 Reasons Why You Should Buy a Chalmers "Light Six"---$2300

1 Beautiful Design and Finish—Streamline body, long sloping cowl; tapered motor bonnet; clean running boards; finest coach finish; attractive color.

2 Molded Oval Fenders—Original Chalmers design; graceful appearance; full protection from dust and mud.

3 Big Power; Small Motor—Genuine T head long stroke motor; 3 1-2 inch bore, 5 1-2 inch Stroke; 30 to 50 horsepower.

4 Flexibility—Practically unnecessary to shift gears; widest range of speeds "on high;" such flexibility found only in a "six."

5 Silence—All valve mechanism fully enclosed; large oval cams; large bearing surfaces and perfect lubrication eliminate noises of operation.

6 Road-Ability—The "Light Six" hangs well to any road; concentric torque tube assures perfect alignment of driving wheels; no side away; no skidding.

7 Absence of Vibration—Perfectly balanced moving parts; steady pull due to long stroke motor; smooth running reduces upkeep expense.

8 Tungsten Steel Valves—Highest priced, most efficient valves made; will not warp nor pit; almost never need regrinding.

9 Chalmers Oiling System—Feeds oil under pressure directly to all working parts; oil pressure gauge on dash.

10 Chalmers-Entz Electric Starter—Proved in actual tests the simplest; most rapid and surest starter built; no automatic devices; built complete in Chalmers shops.

11 Non-Stallable Motor—Starter always positively engaged with motor; won't let engine stop; greatest factor of safety ever invented.

12 Powerful Electric Lights—Headlights have two lamps—24 candlepower for touring, 6 candlepower for city use; combination tail and license lamp, dash light; extremely simple system.

13 Extra Tires Carried in Rear—Absolutely uncluttered running boards; easy entrance or exit from either side of car; distributes weight equally over chassis.

14 Medium Weight—Heavy enough to be safe and comfortable; light enough to be economical. Scientifically tested for a four-fold margin of safety. No flimsiness; no unnecessary weight.

15 Easy Riding—Long flexible springs have main leaf of Vanadium steel; rear springs underslung.

16 Fully Equipped—Regular equipment includes top, rain-vision and ventilating windshield, five demountable rims, tire carrier, speedometer, full electric lights, front and rear license brackets electric horn, full set of tools; pump, jack, tire repair outfit.

17 Genuine Streamline Bodies—Dash integral with body; full flush sides; bell back tonneau Chalmers design flush fitting doors; bodies have extra strong construction; deep, luxurious upholstery.

18 Mechancial Refinements—En bloc motor with all moving parts enclosed; dash adjustment for carburetor; transmission gears interlocking in all speeds; aeroplane-type motor fan; single unit ignition; all lubrication points accessible; doors hung on invisible hings, wineshields fastened without stay rods.

19 Economy—Wide margin of safety, improved bearings, positive lubrication, insure minimum unkeep expense; in proportion to size, maximum mileage per gallon of gasoline; in proportion to weight, lowest tire up-keep.

20 Low Price—$2300 fully equipped delivered Charlottetown. The Chalmers "Light Six" is the first standard car offering six-cylinder efficiency and luxury at the price heretofore paid for the average "four."
