UE IN BRITAIN FROM CHINESE FLOUR

al to The Guardian

N, Jan. 28.—Great Britain er declining to admit Canle for fear of foot and ection, has now developease in its own herds, is punished in the ills of s for its refusal to purnadian flour. Such, at he statement of a wellndon physician in the ess today when asking: has a patient and tole to endure this Chinplague, with its trail of d intestinal discomfort eperating and irritating ?" Dr. Robert Main, the in question, says that s patients are suffering o-enteritis and dermatitthe use of Chinese flour, with which, as stated by your correspondent last week, the British Food Ministry is overstocked and is as a consequence refusing to buy Canadian flour, which the trade is demanding. The Express details a case where a Scottish co-operative wholesale society, because it refused to buy Chinese flour, on the ground that it abounded it weevils and maggots was not allowed to purchase Canadian flour which was being issued. The hard-heartedness of the British bureaucracy thus seems likely to bring about the same results as did Pharoah's similar obstinacy in the matter of Jewish emigration, though up to date Britain has been afflicted by only two of the seven plagues which Scripture records as having been visited upon the Egyptians.

A MYSTERIOUS S. O. S. CALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The Belgian steamship Cannonier, believed yesterday to be the ship from which S. O. S. calls was received, arrived in harbor tonight.

The captain of the ship denies sending out a distress message.

Identity of the ship sending out the S. O. S. call becomes a mystery, naval officials said, explaining that identifying letters in the message were garbled.

A distress call from the steamship Polar Bear, received later, indicated, however, that she might have sent both messages.

No further advice has been received from the Polar Bear.

SUPREME COURT

Verdict For Defendant in Case of Island Cold Storage Company vs Mutch.

A case which has created a great deal of interest, that of the Island Cold Storage Company vs W. A. Mutch was concluded yesterday after being in progress at the Supreme Court for a whole week. The result was a verdict for the defendant, the jury standing six to one to this verdict.

In delivering the charge Mr. Justice Haszard stated that in this case the plaintiff sought to recover the sum of $711.30, the amount which was paid to defendant for sixteen carcasses of veal agreed to be sold to the company at a fixed price of fifteen cents per pound.

His Lordship then read the various counts in the declarations of both the plaintiff and defendant. The former alleged that the defendant did not deliver veal as agreed, also that he fraudulently misrepresented the character of the article he delivered. The defendant alleged that he delivered the goods in accordance with the terms of the contract, also that as the plaintiff's servants inspected and took delivery of the goods, and retained them for a considerable amount of time, they cannot say now that they are not veal. Moreover the defendant maintained that the carcasses were veal, and that he was not guilty of fraudulent misrepresentation. "Boiled down," said His Lordship the plaintiff claims that the defendant agrees to deliver veal and delivered something else, the defendant claimed that he did deliver veal. The real issue to be tried is, Was the meat delivered veal or not veal as commercially designated. This was a question to be settled by the jury. They had heard the witnesses on both sides, including men of long experience in the meat business.

Some of these testified that the weight of carcasses of veal known commercially as such ranged from 60 to 120 lbs. Others testified that they ran as high as between 200 and 400 lbs. The 16 carcasses in this case ranged in weight from 275 to 300 lbs. There was no evidence as to their age. As to the matter of inspection His Lordship charged that if the jury were satisfied that the meat did not receive a prompt and thorough inspection the plaintiff was not to be bound by the acceptance of the goods.

As to the question of damages in the event of a verdict for the plaintiff the latter's counsel had said that the meat was worth $500 to the company and the claim was therefore reduced to the difference between $711.30 and $500 viz. $211.30.

With regard to fraudulent representation alleged by the plaintiff the questions for the jury to decide would be Did the defendant knowing the meat not to be veal sell it to the plaintiff as veal? Was he deceived himself and believed that the meat he sold was veal?

The jury after about an hour and a half deliberation returned a verdict for the defendant as above stated.

ORDERED WOMEN WITH BABIES TO LEAP OVERBOARD

MANILA, Jan. 27.—Women with babies in arms leaped overboard and were drowned or dashed to death against the rocks, as a result of orders of the Captain of the Schooner Felicidad, wrecked at the mouth of Agno river, Pangasinan province, with a loss of thirty-six lives, according to statements of one of the rescued passengers.

Official investigation was begun here today, with the captain and the crew of the wrecked vessels.

The captain ordered all hands to jump overboard when the storm-tossed schooner grounded and appeared to be breaking to pieces on the rocks, according to the survivors' account.

heese Board Report, 1920

The Cheese Board held eight meetings in the City during the summer. At the first meeting held June 27, the officers for the year were elected, President, Geo. Brown, New Glasgow; Vice Pres. Alex. McDonald, Glenfinnan; Secretary and Salesman, Robt. Jenkins, Mt Albion; Auditor, J. F. Profitt, Kensington.

Only a few factories sent their salesman to the meeting of the Board preferring to remain in the background and wait results. It is satisfying, however, to note that manufacturers paid the tax willingly and considered the money was well invested, as valuable information was gleaned from the cable messages received semi-monthly from Brockville.

Cheese Secretary of one of our largest factories writes,—"We are not sending a salesman to the Board, but are willing to pay our share of the expenses; and feel it would be a loss to the cheese patrons to have the Board close its meetings."
