TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 12 1907.

SAFETY IN SCHOOLS.

The belated Montreal newspapers of 1st March are filled with accounts of the Hochelaga school horror and the heroic self-sacrifice of Miss Maxwell who saved so many and gave her life in the fruitless effort to save the remainder of the pupils entrusted to her charge. The dark features of the tragedy are illumined by the noble and heroic action of this worthy lady, whose memory will long be fondly cherished. But it is the first duty of those that remain to provide, as far as possible greater security for the safety of our schools in the future.

What are the lessons of the Montreal tragedy? One of them is that the dependence placed upon fire drill was illusory. The emergency arose so suddenly that the thought of an orderly marching out seems not to have occurred to any one. It is easy to have a fire parade when principal and teachers are cool and sure there is no danger. It is quite another thing when in the presence of fire and smoke and frantic cries. No doubt the fire drill has in many cases proved of saving utility, has even saved the lives of hundreds, and ought to be continued, but it is by no means a guarantee of safety in great energencies.

There were no fire escapes on the Montreal school building and much blame has been laid at the doors of those responsible for the neglect. But the iron ladders which are called fire-escapes, and which one sees disfiguring the outsides of many public buildings in the cities, must be of doubtful utility, especially in the snow and ice of winter and as a means of escape for little children from the top of a four-story building. And yet we are told that the safest place for the very little ones in a three or four story school is at the top, so that in case of panic the older ones shall not run over them in a hurried exit.

Is it not apparent that the three or four story school house is a mistake and a menace to safety? In our country ground space is abundant and cheap. Why should any school building be made more than two storeys in height? A little may be saved in heating by piling the rooms one above another, but it is always at the expense of climbing stairs that tax the strength of the little ones unduly, and always at the risk of fatal disaster in case of fire or panic. As for fire escapes they are a necessity for hotels and establishments that house or employ adults in lofty buildings. On a school house they might prove worse than useless for the majority of young children in a panic.

SIR WILFRID'S DENIAL.

Some time since in a letter from Ottawa to this journal it was stated that Sir Wilfrid Laurier in reply to a delegation from St. John has told the delegation that he had been asked to construct a Tunnel to Prince Edward Island. It was added that "he mentioned a possible cost that was about double the highest estimate given and spoke of the project as one that could not be taken seriously."

The other day Mr. Hughes, M. P. for Kings, referred in Parliament to this statement and said he had the Premier's authority for stating "that this is a gross misrepresentation of what he said on that occasion." We gladly print Sir Wilfrid's denial. We always regret where any untrue statement finds its way under cover of correspondence or otherwise into our columns. The Guardian would not willingly do an injustice to the Premier of Canada or any other man. In this case we are especially glad to find that the report of his hostility to the Tunnel appears to be quite unfounded.

THAW'S CHANCES.

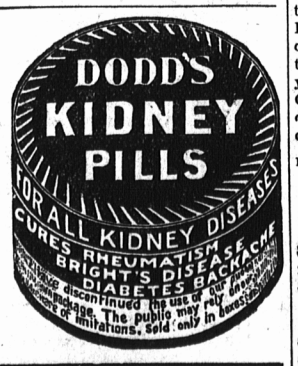
It is reported that Lloyds has insured Harry Thaw's life, probably as a hazardous or extra-hazardous risk. And yet the risk of Thaw being sent to the electric chair is but small indeed. The chances are always many for escape in the case of a criminal who is a millionaire. The resources of great lawyers well feed for the defence are many. Expert testimony can be had to order. Jurymen may be tampered with on behalf of the prisoner. There is in many minds a repugnance against capital punishment.

And there is always the insanity dodge. There are so many kinds of insanity, too, emotional, periodic, temporary, the "brain storm," and no end of other kinds. So, of course, Thaw will either be acquitted, or found guilty of a minor offence, or the jury will disagree, or he will be declared to have been an irresponsible person at the time when he shot White, but already recovered or with good chances of early recovery hereafter. At any rate Thaw's miserable life is in no perceptible danger of early termination by process of legal execution. The insurance company that can get big premiums for insuring his life against the chance of death in the electric chair will make large and sure profit.

Between the best and the poorest cow there is a broad space that should afford the farmer food for thought. A cow out in Wisconsin is reported to have broken the world's record by producing in 61 days 5,356 pounds of milk from which 269½ pounds of butter were made. One day she yielded 106 pounds of milk and nearly 5¾ pounds of butter. A herd of 15 or 20 cows of this stamp with butter at present prices would be something like a gold mine.

It is an old maxim that troubles seldom come singly. Just now what with the ice-blockade, the strap-service, the irregular mails and the closed schools and churches, it would seem our good people had enough to put up with. But a fresh outbreak has occurred, which it would seem we might have been spared. Readers of last evening's Patriot found to their horror its front page blistered with smallpox, teeming with micro-organisms, saturated with secretions and excretions, steaming with exhalations, spattered with pustules, blebs, vesicles and crusts, scarred with the lesions of measles, chickenpox and impetigo contagioso, whatever that is. These ugly things seemed to scream at the reader, and the author who set them thus in large letters before a much-enduring people at their supper table was clearly guilty of a capital offence. His avowed object was to make the following proclamation: "I am of opinion that the disease we have in Charlottetown is not smallpox."? Which disease? The cacoethes scribendi

Well, of course, that is not smallpox, but it is sometimes worse. In the Patriot correspondent's case the etiology, diagnosis and prognosis alike go to show that it is absolutely incurable. Quarantine is strongly indicated. Will the Board of Health do its duty promptly?



The Sydney Post has a despatch from Halifax which reports a considerable majority of the House of Assembly in favor of the Prohibition Bill introduced by Mr. Armstrong of Yarmouth.

The death of John Alexander Dowie, the founder of Zion City, Illinois, is announced. He was a man of extraordinary endowments in several respects. He had faith in himself and the capacity to inspire others with faith in his claims and pretensions. We have never thought of Dowie as a hypocrite, however deluded he may have been in thinking himself a revived Elijah. It remains to be seen whether the religious movement be set afoot has in it the quality of permanence, even to the extent that Mormonism has shown it. Decadence had fallen on the work a year or more before its founder passed away. He leaves no real successor.

A CASE IN WEST ARICHAT.

Mrs. A.P. Ferguson a well known Cape Bretoner has cured asthma by "Catarrhozone." Her statement is convincing: "Although I was troubled for years it was only recently I tried Catarrhozone. When an attack started I got out my inhaler and invariably got quick relief. Feeling satisfied Catarrhozone would cure I continued the treatment till one bottle was finished. I didn't use more because I was cured and the asthma has never returned." Catarrhozone is sure death to asthma and bronchitis. Try it and be convinced. Two sizes, 25 and $1.00 at all dealers.
