LEGION SCHOONERS IN VICINITY— The Guardian has been reliably informed that during the past tendays no fewer than seven schooners with liquor on board have been reconnortering the coasts of the Island with a view to landing liquor. A Customs steamer has been vigilantly watching their movements but in this case it was seven to one and every now and then a schooner was lost to view. It is supposed that one of them succeeded in landing its cargo at Rustico on Sunday.

LEAVE FOR ENGLAND — Mrs. W. E. Fletcher, and little son Arthur, left by the 6.45 train this morning, on a visit to the old home at Dunstable, England. Mrs. Fletcher will sail from Quebec, on Friday, per Cunard Liner "Antonia," for London, Eng., and expects to be in the Old Country several months. Her contribution to the musical life of Charlottetown will be greatly missed and readers of the Guardian will wish for her a safe and enjoyable journey, with happy experiences of renewed friendships in the homeland. Miss Westmoreland, who has been paying a visit to Prince Edward Island, is returning to her home in Yorkshire, Eng., by the same steamer. Prof. Fletcher will accompany the party as far as Quebec.

SUCCESSFUL ISLANDER— Mr. Joseph Bowlan, son of Mr. J. J. Bowlan of Cardigan, Prince Edward Island, and for the past twenty years located in Calgary, Alberta, has graduated and received his degree of M. D. Doctor Bowlan is a graduate of Louisvillle University and passed with honors both this year and last year. He was second in the whole college in 1925, and this means a high record when it is realized that there were students from every state in the Union. He was connected with the Bellevue Hospital, New York all last summer, and he is now a doctor on the staff of St. John's Hospital, Long Island, N. Y. To secure a position on this staff students are obliged to pass an examination which is very difficult. There were eighty students who took the examination for this Hospital, and Doctor Bowlan stood second in the pass. This is a highly creditable record and reflects distinction not only upon Doctor Bowlan but also upon his native place, Cardigan. All the friends of the Bowlan family, and they are many, will unite in congratulating this young medical man who no doubt has a brilliant career in his chosen profession. The former Dr. Bowlan was well known at St. Dunstance University, where he was a student.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 18. —A cloudburst here late yesterday afternoon caused $500,000 damages in the city of Windsor. More than three inches of rain fell. The basement of nearly every store in the down town district was flooded.

RECORD CROWD ATTEND MONTAGUE HORSE RACES

All the races were well Contested With Close Finishes in Every Heat – The Winners Were Dan Patchen, Ruby Aubrey, and Gordon Harvester.

Montague horse races yesterday afternoon were attended by an almost record crowd of people. Not for a long time has there been anything approaching yesterday's numbers. For years the rain "hoodoo" has kept many away but that "Jinx" is broken now as yesterday was clear and cool—to some arrayed in their light summer garbs decidedly so. The Women's Institute "inspired by a good cause—" the clearing off of a debt on the school gave excellent meals to many people and all who came from near and far seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves. The prevailing high wind caused a lot of dust to fly and made it a bit uncomfortable particularly for the drivers. The three races were good contests two of them splitting up and furnishing finishes that were very close.

The 2.19 Class Trot and Pace

Had four starters and had to go to five heats before a decision could be given. In the first heat the battle was between Dan Patchen and Mike McGregor, Dan beat by a length. In the second a real race took place between the above two and Princess Aubrey, the Princess first Dan second and Mike third. Dan won after a hot battle with the Princess. In the third heat, then Major S., a Montague product now owned by Claude McMillan took a hand and after a strenuous drive took the fourth heat, Dan second, the Princess third and Mike McGregor fourth In the fifth Major S. and Dan raced side by side the entire mile the Major winning by a small margin. Major S. winner of the fifth heat looks like he will be a tough proposition to head in the coming speed festivals and his admirers were of the opinion that he would have proved a winner if another heat had to be raced.

Dan Patchen owned by Colonel MacKinnon was declared the winner of the race his summary being the best.

2.23 Trot

This was another well selected list and Gordon Ives must be praised for his judgment in making his classes as all filled well and gave good racing. Seven answered the call. It was hard to get them away but finally they were off with Lloyd George in front and keeping there throughout the mile, Ruby Aubrey furnishing the most opposition Miss Belle Rico third, The Pup fourth.

The second heat looked like Belle Rico until the home stretch, then Ruby Aubrey and The Pup sprinted by, Radiant fourth. The third heat was a repetition of the second. In the fourth Belle Rico led until the home stretch. Then the "Pup" Ruby Aubrey and Lloyd George trotted by Ruth broke near the wire and was placed fourth. In the fifth only the heat winners Ruby Aubrey, The Pup and Lloyd George took part; the finish was close and some partisans of the horses thought differently from the judge's decision. Ruby Aubrey first, The Pup second, Lloyd George third and that is the way they are placed for the money with Belle Rico fourth. It was surely a fine contest as was also the 2.19 class. The winner Ruby Aubrey is owned by Wm. Clarke, Summerside and was very capably driven by Mack Steele.

2.35 Trot and Pace

This was a comfortable proposition for Gordon Harvester—a really high class pacer . He made it one, one with National R. and Jessica the Great battling for second honors and right well they did. National R. had the most training and got second money, Jessica (who will be heard from later this fall), third and Marjorie fourth. Marjorie went a good race for her popular owner driver and finished a close third, the second heat. Gordon Harvester, is owned by Dr. Preston, McIntyre, Montague and his owner is to be congratulated on owning such a promising performer.

The starter Mr. Fred wright who is always so popular as a handler of the "bell" had a difficult task owing to the dust but he managed as well as anyone could and nobody found fault with him. The officials other than the starter were:

ROMANCE, THRILLS AND ADVENTURE

Featured In Picturization of Harold Bell Wright's Latest Novel

"The Mine With the Iron Door" which opened at the Prince Edward yesterday tells graphically the story of a young man seeking to escape a haunting memory; a young girl, a carefree child of the Arizona desert, ignorant of name and origin. These two meet and love. But they find the pathway to their happiness beset by seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

Their romance the mystery surrounding them, the thrilling experience which befall them, hold the interest at highest pitch of any audience anywhere.

There are characters that will stick in the memory, and bring that much-to-be-desired word-of-mouth advertising. The men and the girls are fine American types —just the types that will interest what is known as the "ordinary public." And that is the public which constitutes the great majority of motion picture theatre-goers.

There is human nature touch and heart appeal infused through the character of "Saint Jimmy," the physician who knows and ministers to all the human needs; the Apache Indian with his inexorable sense of justice; the quaint old miners who have adopted and reared the heroine and are here guardians. Here are characters drawn with all the simplicity and rugged[illegible]ess for which Wright is famous.

[illegible] are "The [illegible] Jack" and [illegible] co, who furnish the villainy and who stop at nothing in their efforts to solve a great mystery and to re-discover the mysterious lost mine—"The Mine With the Iron Door,"—which is supposed to have been buried from view by a great landslide down the slope of one of the towering peaks of the Catalina mountains.

The picture is full of the swiftest action—action that grips the spectator with its story of human hearts struggling toward a great happiness.

"The Mine With the Iron Door" is presented with a genuine "all-star" cast which is headed by Pat O'Malley, in the role of the hero, with Dorothy Mackaill in the leading feminine role. Supporting these two sterling players are Robert W. Frazer, Creighton Hale, Mary Carr, Charles Murray, Bert Woodruff, Mitchell Lewis, Raymond Hatton, William Collier Jr., Clarence Burton and Lillian Leighton.

Never has such a collection of screen stars given more excellent characterizations than these players. Under the direction of Sam Wood— whose directorial genius is known to every exhibitor—these players have brought out in startling vividness the human touches that the author of the book endowed his character with, so that they seem almost to have actual life as they pass before the audiences on the screen. Their impersonations grip and hold and sway the spectators from chuckles into roars of laughter, only to swing them back again into the depths of mystery, the thrills of swift action and adventure, tenderest romance, thrilling fight, chase and escape.

The Fox News and Topics of the Day make a pleasing addition to this excellent feature.
