A CHILD HATES OIL, CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, feverish, Constipated.

Look back at your childhood days Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweet on the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt

Notice

Under amended regulation all fish except canned fish, may be exported to the United States, as heretofore without a license.

A Striking Comparison

Canadians Eating Nearly 7 Times as Much Sugar as People of France.

Figures recently compiled by the United States show that whereas the monthly per capita consumption of sugar in Canada and the United States is 7.4 pounds, the people of France are on rations of 1.1 pounds, while the monthly ration in Germany is only .77 pounds. Similarly with meat the per capita monthly consumption of meat in Canada and the United States in 1916-17 was 12.5 pounds, as compared with 8.5 pounds in France and 2.2 pounds in Germany.

"Friend in Need"

HOW CANADIAN'S FIGHT IN BATTLE

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Joseph Carter 94 Highland Avenue, from her nephew, J. Trainor son of James Trainor, Spring Park Road.

Ward "K", 1st. Western, General Hospital Fazakerly, Liverpool England.
Dec. 3, 1917.

Dear Aunty:

You owe me a letter but never mind you will owe me two, now. As no doubt you know all about my little trip back to England again. I will not go into any details of arriving here; but you may perhaps be interested in the way a modern battle generally starts, so I will give you a rough idea how we captured Passchendale in Flanders.

We were practicing to go over another front some where in France when news came that the English troops had broken through the German lines in Belgium. We were then despatched to Belgium to relieve a few English troops who had been fighting in the last advance. We got to Belguim near the last of October, walking most of the way (105 miles). We had about a week's rest, then took the train for Ypres. We then marched up to the Reserve lines which are about five miles behind the front line and about one mile from Ypres. You should see that town, where once stood some of the finest Art in the world, there is not a house or building intact, now all ruins. The following night we went up to supports, about a mile behind front line when we had to dig in on the side of a knoll. The four miles we travelled was fierce walking in single file, on a string of boards; those duck boards have to be used, as the country we passed over was one continuous groupe of shell holes, and if one fell off those boards there would be an awful scramble to get back, as it is up to one's neck in mud.

The following night we went up to the front line, around there about 1 A. M. The distance from the German trench here was about fifty yards. We were huddled together in the trench for it was very cold, anyway nobody wished to talk very much, for we all had a good idea how hard a job was ahead of us. Some were thinking of their past sins and nearly everyone was figuring to himself, how many would come back. I myself was positive of coming back. It is funny but most fellows know if they are coming out of it or not. Two fellows sitting next to me said, "Well Joe, this is my last scrap." I told them not to be silly but both seemed sure that they would not come out of it. I heard other fellows say similiar things in other scraps and they didn't come back. Both those fellows were killed soon after we got over the top. At 6 a. m. when the signal lights went up and our artillery opened up their barrage, a machine gunner got both of them. He also got me in the upper part of the leg, but I couldn't stop there as in a few minutes his heavy guns would be playing on that same place, so we swept on, crossed over his first line and had plain sailing for about five hundred yards, when we struck another of his trenches but they didn't show much fight as our artillery had been pounding that trench for some minutes, so the few Huns that were left threw up their hands and were sent back as prisoners. Shortly after this, one of Fritz's shells landed a few yards behind me, and a piece of sharpnel went through me, going in close to my back bone and come out through my right front above my kidneys. It was a miracle for it never touched a thing inside; I dropped like a stone and rolled into a shell hole beside me, that was about 9 a. m. I lay there until the following morning when I was helped back to the dressing station. When I was in that shell-hole, Fritz opened up in good style, and I honestly believe he hit every inch of ground except the spot I was in. I felt wonderfully safe, somehow, of course, I prayed hard and I know that it was your's and mother's prayers saved me, and, so you see I am spared to write to you once more. Well, I must stop now as this is an extra long letter. I am doing fine and am able to sit up a part of the day.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to uncle, Maud and yourself.
