THE FINANCIAL WEEK

By HUGH M. CREIGHTON.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York Rates:

Call money—3
60 days—3¼.
Six months—3½

Commercial Paper:

Prime 4 @ 4½, Single Names 5 per cent.

The increase in bank reserves has been caused, to a great extent, by the calling and shifting of loans. This is not a healthy monetary condition—not as if reserves had increased through a normal increase in deposits. In the world's money markets time rates in both London, Paris and Berlin have advanced. Although New York have been lower than in other centres, money is not to be had freely at the present time. The advance in rates in Europe is the result of large speculative commitments, particularly Germany, while in England a wild boom in such issues as Wireless Shares is now going on and London is in our market bidding 3½ p. c., for 30-days loans. At home stocks are advanced from day to day. All this is putting a great strain on the banking interests, and inasmuch as our May interest and dividend payments will aggregate $98,096,992, a sharp advance in call money is apt to occur around the first of the month. However, call money could easily advance to even 6 p. c., without having any special significance. The rates charged for time loans is the best standard by which to judge future monetary conditions. Should an advance in call money be immediately followed by an advance in time money, then the monetary situation would be more or less dangerous.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The two fundamental factors governing business conditions, viz, money and crops, while not particularly favorable cannot be said to be unfavorable. Monetary conditions at home are normal and the crops are not far enough advanced to be accurately estimated. Because of this the governmental crop report of May 7th will be awaited with interest inasmuch as it will show whether there had been an increase in the acreage planted or a certain amount of acreage abandoned. In the meantime trade in most lines is slow, copper is dull at slight recessions. Among the manufacturers and jobbers the silk trade is stagnant, in the cotton goods market there are more offers to sell than to buy; the Boston wool market is quiet, prices for refined sugar are off, and provisions generally are easier. The most encouraging factor in the business situation is that the labor difficulties are in a fair way of being amicably settled. The importance of this adjustment is easily understood when we take into consideration the estimate which states that the coal strike in England caused a loss of at least $1,500,000,000 to that country.

THE STOCK MARKET

At the present time there is a fair public interest in the stock market, and although the public has sold a great many stocks short, careful judges of the situation estimate that two-thirds of the public commitments are on the long side. The market has apparently reached a trading position where a movement either way of three of four points might take place. Probably the greatest factor to influence prices in the immediate future will be the U. S. Steel Corporation's report of earnings for the first quarter of this year. This report will be made public on the 30th of April. If these earnings exceed $23,000,000 for the quarter it will be considered a favorable report. However, the best judges do not anticipate earnings of more than $21,000,000 will be shown. Some excellent judges of the stock market anticipate a quiet market with an upward tendency until around the first of June. However, in my opinion, those who are holding stocks should take advantage to sell. They will no doubt be able to replace their present holdings during the latter parts of July or August at much lower prices.

For the immediate future sentiment among the traders is fairly optimistic, and they are willing to buy stocks on recessions or sell on advances. The market has developed no special characteristics to show the trend of prices. However, prices are at a level now when any unforeseen news of importance might cause those manipulating prices to with-draw their support.

POLITICS.

Wall Street's opinion is that President Taft will have enough votes to control the Republican Convention in June, but Wall Street anticipates that the President will not force his own nomination in view of the disaffection in the Republican ranks, but will throw his influence to some one else. Among the Democratic aspirants Champ Clark is preferred to Governor Wilson, but Governor Harmon would be more acceptable than any of the others.

Glancing at the records of the parents of Capt. Murchison of the C. G. S. Minto and those of his wife in their connection with the sea one might easily imagine the name Murchison to smack of the briny deep. The inference is strengthened by the fact that the genial Captain has as his place of nativity Point Prim in Queen's County, itself surrounded by the Straits of Northumberland and Hillsborough Bay, and reputed in past years for the large number of ships masters who have hailed from its shores.

Captain Murchison is a son of the late John Murchison and Isabella, sister of Captain Donald H. McDonald and Captain Alexander McDonald, the latter being lost at sea with all hands in the ship Isabella, owned by the old firm of Duncan & Co. Capt. Murchison is married to one of a family of navigators, Catherine, daughter of Capt Archibald Finlayson who was for so many years a pilot in P. E. Island's mail and transportation boats.

Thus one would consider that the subject of this sketch was easily justified in taking to the sea in his early years. It should almost be a matter of second nature to him. He was born in 1854 and at the age of seventeen first went to sea. He served in the order named in the following vessels as a seaman; schooner Scud, 98tons, barque Mabel, Brigt D. J. Westaway, barque Romo, brigt Willow-brae and the barque Pawasick. In 1877, six years after going to sea he took the examination for a first mate's certificate, having served as second and first mate previously on the barque Cavalier. He was granted a first mate's certificate by Commander Scott, R. N., as a result of writing of the examination papers, this certifying as to competency in sea going ship. Two years later he again appeared before Commander Scott, R. E., this time in quest of a Captain's papers. He took the examination, qualified and was granted a certificate of competency as Master of a sea going ship.

In 1877 he took his first vessel as Captain, taking charge of the topsail schooner I. M. S., bound to Havana and Pensacola.. He was afterwards in command of the following vessels; brigt Quango, brigt Katie, barque Isobel, barque Coanaba, brigt Joseph, brigt Warren W, brigt Lantana, barqe Erema, schr Omegatern, schr James W., tern schr Empress, schr Utopia, S. S. Elliot, 1st Mate S. S. Northern Light, S. S. Stanley, S. S. Woburn, S. S. Renwick, and on the Pacific coast was in command of the S. S. Chinook, Canpac and the Cruiser S. S. Alenbac, owned by the B. C. Government, leaving the latter to take command of the C.G. S. Minto.

All the vesels named above were trading to and from port to port in the north and south Atlantic Ocean, Indian Ocean and the Pacific ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. His experience as a mariner has been a long and practical one and he has known few, if any, idle days. He has seen many hard fought battles with the angry tempest and is possessed of a quick intuition and an evident ability to determine the proper course at the critical moment which has meant much to him in times of danger.

One of his most distressing trips was that on the barque Cavalier, bound from Burmah, Moulenien, with a cargo of rice, Capt. Murchison being her first mate. The day the vessel sailed Cholera broke out and when four days out Mr. Davis of Wales, a mate, was buried at sea. Capt. Murchison was stricken lightly with the dreaded disease but withstood the attack, being up the third day. That voyage was one of the most eventful he experienced.

Capt. Murchison was married on May 24th, 1880, and has living four boys and two girls.

As captain of the C. G. S. Minto, the duties of which he assumed last autumn, he has proved himself thoroughly capable and at all times solicitous as to the welfare and comfort of travellers and popular with his ship's officers and crew. He has had in all eleven years experience ice fighting in the straits of Northumberland, having seen service in the pioneer of ice fighting steamers in these parts, the Northern Light, and later in the C. G. S. Stanley. If experience is necessary to qualify one as a mariner of icebound waters Capt. Murcgison is not found lacking.

HEROIC DEATH OF TWO LONE WOMEN ON TITANIC.

WASHINGTON, April 27—This investigation now going on here into the Titanic catastrophe would be thoroughly justifiable were it to stok now and never go on again here or in England. The United States Senate ought to print a million copies of the evidence, print them in all languages, and distribute them gratis around the globe.

Here, there, and everywhere, blazing out through the muddle of questions and answers, like a flash of lightning through massed clouds, you find, in a dozen words, the record of some human deed which epitomized in one agonizinb moment the whole progress of mankind. Again it is the tersely told tale of some farewell, heroic, sumblime in its simplicity, lifting the principals far above their commonplace actions by the very calmness with which they faced their end.

Such were the stories told by Lightoller, the ranking officer of the Titanic, with Captain Smith and First Officers Murdock at the bottom of the sea. We remember this man Lightoller before, for he gave some evidence in New York, and we are glad to see him recalled. He was one of the men who did not leave the ship. He stuck till she plunged beneath his feet. Twice he was sucked down in the whirling vortex, and twice fate, seeing him still unafraid, flung him to the surface by some explosion in the depths of the sea. Lightoller tells this story, under complusion, as you and I would tell about stubbing our toes against a brick. He has no patience with piffling, and that is why he is inclined to grow testy with the committee, which is piffling for hours at a time.

There was one man on the Titanic who can tell a wonderful story of the ship's death agony if he is still alive. He faced the crawling water as it sneaked along the sagging decks. It drove him back foot by foot, as it advanced, and every foot lead him up a steeper incline as she settled by the head. M

And, as he retreated, he saw something that almost broke his big, strong heart. Up on the middle of the bridge deck, now deserted by all but them, there stood two women, hand in hand, silently, not weeping, not even afraid, it would appear, just waiting for the end. Up and up the gentle, cat-like little waves crawled, whispering along the deck, quietly, relentlessly, swallowing everything as they came, while the women stood and watched and waited. The Titanic bowed her head, accepting her doom, and the waves licked up over D. deck, C. Deck, and B. deck. Soon the forward end of A deck was awash and the water tickled the foot of the bridge. Up, and up, and up, and there was no help. The last boat was tearing away for its life from the ship's death agony.

And that is the end of the story. Who they were, how they got there, why they missed a boat, no one knows. They went down with the ship without a whimper or a cry, side by side at the end.

"Good-bye, old chap." It was a quiet purser who said it, as he balanced himself, hands in pocket, on the tilting deck, a bundle of papers under his arm to show that whatever happened his records were clear and were with him. Being about to die, he and Lightoller so far unbelt as to give each other a hand grip; they had been intimate friends for years you see, and that was all. The purser's life story ended five minutes afterwards. If his body is ever found one may guess that under one of the arms the Titanic's papers will be intact. That was what he was paid to do.

With the staccato precision of a quick-fire gun, Lightoller snapped out his evidence. The knowledge in things nautical of Senator William Alden Smith is rather slight. He was a Grand Rapids lawyer before he became Senator, and Lightoller lost his patience, a few times, just as he might lose it with a blundering quartermaster. He would much prefer to steer a ship through a flotilla of icebergs than try to explain to a committee of land lubbers the ins and outs of a thing he is trying to forget.

Husband's Hair

How About it Madam, is it Falling Out or Growing Thin? Don't Lose it

Most husbands are careless regarding their hair—many are skeptical regarding hair tonics, restorers and the like.

It is only when their hair comes out in combs full that they really sit up and take notice.

If your husband's hair is falling; if he has dandruff or scalp itch, don't let it make a baldhead of him, get a 50 cent bottle of PARISIAN SAGE today, rub it on his hair every night until dandruff goes, hair stops falling and the new growth appears. Then use it every other night until the hair is thick and abundant. PARISIAN SAGE is a delightful, refreshing hair dressing for men, women and children. It will do as advertised, or your money back. Girl with Auburn hair on every carton and bottle. Sold by Geo. E. Hughes and dealers everywhere.

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed

For generations Sage and Sulphur have been used for hair and scalp troubles. Almost everyone knows the value of such a combination for keeping the hair a good even color, for curing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, and for promoting the growth of the hair. Years ago the only way to get a Hair Tonic of this kind was to make it in the home, which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays, almost any up-to-date druggists can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

An ideal preparation of this sort is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for scalp troubles and thin, weak hair that is losing its color or coming out. After using this remedy for a few days, you will notice the color gradually coming back, your scalp will feel better, the dandruff will soon be gone, and in less than a month's time there will be a wonderful difference in your hair.

Don't neglect your hair if it is full of dandruff, losing its color or coming out. Get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.
