Youth in Danger

Far too few people in Canada know that boys and girls and men and women between the ages of 15 and 45 fall victims of tuberculosis more often than they do to any other disease. Tuberculosis is the great killer of those in the prime of life Canada needs those between 15 and 45 in such critical times as these. She cannot afford to lose one of them, either in the defence services or at home. Clinics, nursing services, X-ray and other examinations that help in the battle against tuberculosis are made possible largely through sale of Christmas Seals.

HEAD OF HILLSBORO W. I.

The annual meeting of the Head of Hillsboro Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Douglas on November 6th. Twelve members were present.

The meeting opened with "the Ode," followed by the "Creed" in unison. The Roll Call was responded to by "A Law I Would Like to See Enforced."

The minutes of the last annual and regular meetings were read, and declared adopted. The President, Mrs. Ralph Coffin, gave an interesting account of the year's work. The financial statement was read by the Secretary.

The Sick Committee reported that fruit had been sent to sick and presented bill for 44c. This was voted paid. The thanks for fruit was received from two members.

It was moved and seconded that $2.00 be donated to the T. B. Fund. Eleven members en-rolled for the coming year. Mrs. C. B. Cameron and Mrs. Geddie [illegible] were appointed scrutiniers for the election of officers. The following officers were then duly elected:

President, Mrs. Frank Jardine.
Vice-President, Mrs. Ralph Coffin.
Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Beatrice Cameron.
Organist, Mrs. Harvey Douglas.
Condolence Committee, Mrs. Geddie Douglas, Mrs. C. B. Cameron, Mrs. Gordon Douglas.
Directors, Mrs. Harvey Douglas, Mrs. Walter Myers and Miss Etta Jardine.
Auditors, Mrs. Vernon MacDonald, Mrs. Gordon Douglas.
Sick Committee (for four months) Miss Elizabeth Douglas and Mrs. Walter Myers.
School Committee, Mrs. Ralph Coffin, Mrs. C. B. Cameron.

It was moved and seconded that the President and other officers get a vote of thanks for their work.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Douglas. The Questionnaire on "Legislation" was filled in.

A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Frank Jardine. After extending a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Roosevelt Urges Caution On Revelations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called on the Dies committee today to be careful not to "defeat the ends of justice," in carrying on its campaign against alleged un-American activities.

In a telegram to Chairman Martin Dies, Texas Democrat, Mr. Roosevelt declared that the executive departments' work against spies and saboteurs may be "severely handicapped or completely destroyed by:—

1. Premature disclosure of "facts or of suppositions" to the public.
2. Hasty seizure of evidence "which might with a little more patience be obtained in a manner to be admissable" in court.
3. Granting immunities to witnesses before congressional committees "as to matters revealed by such testimony."

"Such action may defeat the ends of justice," Mr. Roosevelt telegraphed Dies at his home in Orange, Texas.

Leaving Texas for Washington, Dies said he would have no comment on the President's telegram until after he conferred here Friday with Mr. Roosevelt and justice and state department officials on a policy more clearly defining procedure of the various agencies.

Dies had telegraphed the President Monday asking a conference, and suggesting a better co-ordination on the work of federal groups.

WASHINGTON, Nov 28 —(AP)—The Defence Commission, pressing a campaign to re-open idle plants in the United States industrial "ghost towns," sent a list of such factries today to 500 firms now working on defence orders. It was hoped, the commission said, that defence contractors would make use of shutdown facilities to speed up the manufacture of weapons and other urgently needed military equipment.

SYDNEY'S NEW Y. M. C. A.—Sydney's new Y. M. C. A. building —erected and equipped at a cost of over $80,000—was publicly opened Monday night in the presence of hundreds of citizens drawn from this city and other parts of Cape Breton country. In the absence of John MacNeil, K. C., President of the Board of Directors, D. J. Bonnell, formerly of Sydney, but now of Charlottetown, P. E. I., and a leading figure in the building campaign, presided and expressed the regrets of Mr. MacNeil who was called out of the city at the last minute. Telegrams and letters regretting inability to attend the opening, and extending wishes for successful operation of the enterprise were received from the following: H. J. Kelley, Vice-President and General Manager of Dosco; physical director of the Saint John Y. M. C. A.; Secretary of the Debert War Service of the Y. M. C. A.; Y. M. C. A. London, Ontario; J. W. Beaton, of Montreal, head of War Services of the Y. M. C. A.; President and Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Charlottetown, P. E. I.; Harry Ballantyne, of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A., Toronto; Dr. H. A. Brace; Y. M. C. A. Moncton; A. W. Robb, of Halifax. At the close of the ceremony of opening, the public carried out an inspection tour of the building and praised the excellence of facilities and appointments. —(Sydney Post-Record).

For Advertisers

A volume devoted to an analysis of "The Newspaper As An Advertising Medium" has been placed on the shelf of the Anson McKim Memorial Section of the Legislative and Public Library. This section is maintained by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association from a fund created twenty years ago in memory of Anson McKin, who founded the first Canadian advertising agency.

The purpose of the book is to clarify definite advantages of the newspaper as a medium and to describe them in factual and compact form for the benefit of those who buy and sell advertising. It is intended as a guide to a wider and better understanding of newspapers as an advertising medium and also as a factual answer to the fallacy that advertising tends to create high prices.

One chapter is devoted to the newspaper reading habits of the Canadian and United States public as revealed by a "Continuing Study of Newspaper Reading" conducted by the Advertising Research Foundation of New York, which has demonstrated three outstanding propositions:—

1. That there is a tremendous amount of reader interest on every page of the newspaper.
2. That well-planned, well-executed newspaper advertisements get a remarkably high degree of reader attention regardless of the size of the ad. or the page on which it appears;
3. That how much attention an advertisement gets depends on what the advertiser puts into it . . . how well he uses the space he buys.

MAKING OF A NAZI

Lesson of Hatred And Force Taught From Kindergarten Days

LONDON, Nov. 29 —Germany's armed strength represents not only total material mobilization, but also the mobilization of the mind of a whole generation.

Many of the youths who are now fighting in the German army, air force and navy were only 11 or 12 when Hitler came into power, and it is upon the formation of their minds during the most impressionable time of life, that the ingenuity and organizing ability of the Nazi leaders have been concentrated.

Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the German Labor Front, says:

"We begin with the child when he is three years old. As soon as he begins to think, he gets a little flag put in his hand: then follows the school, the Hitler Youth, the S.A., and military training. We don't let him go; and, when adolescence is past, then comes the Arbeitsfront, which takes him again and does not let him go till he dies, whether he likes it or not."

From infancy to manhood, the German boy is now as far as possible removed from his parents' influence. It is the first object of Nazi education to break the family ties of love and loyalty.

One of Dr. Goebbels' propaganda films shows as the hero a small German boy who denounces his father and mother to their death at the hands of the Gestapo.

Recently a judge in Schleswig-Holstein took away from the care of their parents children who had not been allowed to join the Hitler Youth.

Perversion of Education

In the schools, all training is directed towards producing unquestioning obedience, implicit belief in Nazi doctrine, and a faith in force.

Even the child of kindergarten age has nursery rhymes and little history lessons that produce hatred of other countries, and toys which familiarize him with the idea of war.

When he gets a little older and goes to an elementary school, he is taught history, but history with a purpose. That purpose is laid down crudely enough in the latest edition of the handbook for elementary school teachers, which has just been published in Berlin. In it we read:

"No weight should be attached to the historical continuity of events. The main object remains to give the children a most vivid picture of the fuehrer."

All school subjects are treated in the same way. Thus, geography becomes geo-politics. Mathematics are described often in military terms; and in arithmetic books, the subjects of the problems set are of this kind.

"How many people can seek protection in a bomb-proof cellar, length five metres, width 4 metres, and height 2.25 metres? Each person needs one cubic metre per hour and they remain there three hours."

Science is bent into the service of the National Socialist ideal, and courses in secondary schools deal with the use of poison gases, incendiary bombs, etc.

Lesson of Hate

But racial instruction takes the first place in German education today. There is no clearer example of the deliberate perversion of childish impulses than this manufacture of hate. Small children at an impressionable age are made to study Der Sturmer—the paper produced by Julius Streicher, which is full of filthy abuse against the Jews and all those whom the Nazis regard as inferior men. Every week the paper publishes letters from teachers and school children showing the widespread use of Der Sturmer in education.

At every stage of education, religion is undermined. All belief in God, or in any spiritual power higher than the state, is derided and attacked as a rival to the worship of the racial state and its fuehrer.

While still at school, boys and girls from 10 to 14 are obliged to join the junior section of the Hitler Youth, which has supplanted or absorbed all the various free youth organizations, (Social- Democrat, Protestant, Roman Catholic, etc.,) which flourished before the Nazi era. The boys belong to the Jungvolk and the girls to Jung-Madel.

From 14 to 18, all boys have to belong to the Hitler-Jugend proper. At 18 the youth passes into the Arbeitsdienst, a compulsory labor service which is employed on work such as road-making.

The Ideal of War

The Hitler Youth is an army. Its divisions are military. Baldur von Schirach, its commander, is responsible directly and solely to Hitler himself. Work in the Hitler-Jugend consists of gymnastics, boxing, wrestling, swimming, athletics, shooting with a small-bore gun, and scouting.

Gliding is much encouraged; it was estimated just before the war that 15,000 boys could glide with efficiency. Boys who show proficiency are also trained in low-power planes, and are encouraged to learn metal work by the making of model planes.

There is much in this programme to fire the boys' enthusiasm. No doubt can now remain that the Hitler- Jugend has from the first been designed to produce a German soldier, blindly obedient to the fuehrer.

The young Nazi, having completed his four years in the Hitler-Jugend and six months of labor service, then passes into the army.

Throughout this training it is the avowed intention of the Nazi leaders to destroy the natural foundations of law itself. In order to achieve this end, there must be substituted a new law of right and wrong; for man is so constituted that he will always desire justification for his acts.

But whereas in normal human society a child learns from his parents, or from his religion, to distinguish between good and evil, the Nazi admits as right only that which is promoting the might of the nation— the Nordic law. This is the essence of Nazi education.

"The blood-community of the race, i.e., the nation, is the pivotal point of all earthly existence. The nation alone is a purpose in itself. Everything else is a means to an end and must serve the good of the nation— everything, including justice and law. Justice is whatever is of benefit to the nation, whatever corresponds to the German feeling of justice, the unadulterated voice of God in the race-pure soul."

This is the stuff on which the young Nazi is fed from infancy; this is what makes him in manhood a ruthless enemy.

There is a majestry in simplicity which is far above the quaintness of wit.—Pope.

APT REPLY

Robert Browning's poem "Home-Thoughts, From Abroad," with its first line beginning "Oh to be in England," is familiar to most people, many of whom doubtless remember learning it by heart in school.

Philip Noel Baker, M.P., speaking from London referred to the first line of that poem in the concluding stage of a talk in the series "Britain Speaks."

The well-known M.P. referred to a schoolboy who was asked the question who said "Oh to be in England."

The reply came back: "Hitler."

Simplicity, of all things, is the hardest to copied.—Steele.

Cold weather deals batteries a DOUBLE BLOW

Nobody knows better than an Exide dealer the "one-two" punch that cold weather lands on a battery. Not content with merely lowering its efficiency, cold weather piles on the work it has to do.

With his new, scientific Starting Power Indicator, your Exide dealer can show you this double action. See it work; you'll be eager then to have him test your battery on his Sure-Start Tester, an instrument that's as revealing as an X-ray. This amazing instrument tells you straight from the shoulder whether you need a "re-charge", a new battery, or whether you're all set for winter... this service is free to all motorists. If you want to be sure of sure-fire starting from now on, regardless of weather, see the man who is equipped to promise it. He is your Exide dealer. Look for the daily weather forecast at his gas pump.
