DEATHS

IRVING.—At Cherry Valley, Wednesday, April 14th, Margaret Irving, aged 74 years.

McEWEN.—At Greenwich, Lot 40, on April 21st, Mrs. James McEwen, at the age of 82 years. Funeral from her late home to Midgill Cemetery, Friday, 23rd inst., at 11 o'clock.

BROWN.—Entered into rest on April 18, at the home of her brother, Dr. W. H. D. Brown, Chicago, Miss. Miss Minnie J. Brown, formerly of Charlottetown.

BOTH RILEYS LIKELY TO BE SET FREE.

OTTAWA, April 20.—Thomas Riley of Hamilton, whose release on parole from Kingston Penitentiary was recently made effective by the freeing of Thomas Riley, of London, by mistake is to be let go anyway. He will be released from Kingston Penitentiary in a few days.

Steps towards the extradition of Thomas Riley, of London, are now under way. There is some doubt, however, whether extradition proceedings will be pressed. Riley, of London, has always been a well-behaved prisoner and is reported to be developing into a model citizen down in his new home in Missouri, and there is considerable doubt besides whether legal technicalities would not block the way to his return.

One reform effected by the release of the wrong Mr. Riley has been the establishment of a new system of freeing prisoners. Warrants for release hereafter will contain the name, full particulars as to age, time served and length of sentence.

"DODGE AWAY, SLINK AWAY" OPPOSITION

where there might be economies. Mr. RICHARDS—in making that statement I was not referring to any particular item. I was referring to the accounts in general.

The PREMIER—Well, here we have the estimates for all our expenditure in the coming year. Tell me a particular case that you think extravagant and wasteful and where economy may be exercised.

Mr. RICHARDS—I had no particular case in view—I was reviewing the whole accounts.

The PREMIER—Yes, so you say, but now we have the estimates for the current year based in every instance on the accounts of last year which you say were extravagant and wasteful. Surely it must be possible for you to give one instance in substantiation of your charges.

Mr. RICHARDS—Take the vote for the Agricultural Department. The PREMIER—We have already passed that and the hon. member has not taken exception to one item in it. Mr. RICHARDS—I must have been out at the time.

The PREMIER—Very well, we will recommit the items to give the hon. member an opportunity of pointing out anything that he considers wasteful and extravagant.

The items, ten in number, were then taken serially, but Mr. RICHARDS could not point to one he could recommend should be reduced.

The PREMIER—There we have given the opportunity to the hon. member of the Opposition to prove his statement that he has been extra-vagant and wasteful, and have taken him for the second time over the ground with which he is more particularly familiar, the estimates for the Department of Agriculture, and he has failed to take exception to one single item or to suggest economy in one vote. Will the hon. the Leader of the Opposition have the courage and manliness to stand up in his place and withdraw the unjust criticism which he levelled at the Government.

Mr. RICHARDS said though he would take exception to the items on the estimate, yet there was a feeling among the people of the country that they were not getting value for the increased subsidy received.

Mr. McKINNON said it was the duty of the Leader of the Opposition to counteract that impression, but perhaps they took him too seriously in that House. When the hon. member estimates of the Department of Agriculture, he knew these had been passed, and no doubt thought they would not go back. But when they had brought him face to face with the fact that the total vote of $21,000,000, without a single objection, they could judge from that whether the criticisms of the hon. member were to be taken seriously.

After some further discussion, consideration of the other estimates were dropped with, and all were passed without amendment. The Bill was reported, and at 115 a. m. the House adjourned until 11 a. m.

PLANS A HERO COLONY FOR MAIMED GERMAN

LONDON, April 14.—Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, Imperial German Chancellor, is considering the feasibility of a suggestion of the establishment of a "hero colony" near the famous Porta School in South Prussia, of which he is an alumnus, where those maimed and crippled in the war may take up their life after it is over. The originator of the idea is Paul Kerston, head of a big factory at Bad Koesen. He believes that there will be thousands of noble and patriotic girls and widows of soldiers who, when peace is concluded, will be glad to marry the men who have been injured and who would otherwise gravitate into soldier's homes. To prevent this is one of the objects of the proposed plan. Kerston feels that soldiers in such a situation would soon come to feel that they are useless and in the way, whereas they can continue a useful and happy existence if they have their own homes and wives to help care for them. Kerston believes that the loss of an eye or a leg is not a defect that in any way affects future generations. If injured soldiers can marry and live in colonies instead of in homes by themselves, he thinks that the birthrate will have some of the increase that is to be necessary after the war.

LONDON, April 21.—A despatch from Lausanne, Switzerland, dated April 8 says that according to the Suisse Nationale, Professor Gaupp, a nerve specialist of Tubingen has been drawing attention to an alarming increase in cases of madness in the German army.

At the commencement of the war, he says, the state of nerves of the troops was better than could have been hoped for, but even then numerous cases of over-excitement could be observed, manifesting themselves in shape of insomnia and a tendency to abnormal intoxication. Since then, and especially since the French offensive of the middle of December, a very large number of gaps have been caused by nervous and mental affections, morbid excitement and nervous provocation. These breakdowns occur among the unrounded, the explosion of a bomb or the fate of a comrade being sufficient to produce them.

The acute symptoms of these affections, paralytic convulsions, loss of speech, delirium, or hallucinations often disappear under careful hospital treatment, but in most cases reappear on the return of the men to the front. The suggestion even of a return to the front has often been sufficient to send men mad.

JOHN BUNNY IS VERY ILL

NEW YORK, April 21.—John Bunny, perhaps the most widely known and the most popular screen comedian to millions of moving picture fans throughout this country and abroad, is thought to be at death's door in his home in Brooklyn. Little hope is held out for his recovery.

John Bunny's face is undoubtedly one of the best known and evening world. Each afternoon some hundreds of thousands of persons gaze upon it and laugh. Of all the comedians in the moving picture world, there is none funnier—in face and antics both—than John Bunny. And his success was phenomenal.

Only a few years ago—Bunny is 52 now—he was playing a small part in "Way Down East," William A. Brady's melodram, for $75 a week. Then came the moving picture—the moving picture made popular. Bunny thought he could make good in acts before the camera, and he entered into negotiations with the Vitaphone players.

Soon after he joined the players and his name was made. From the very outset, his face, when reproduced on the screen made people laugh. They just couldn't help it. And Bunny could make all manner of faces and in every one there was a laugh. Soon his face and his name was known to every moving picture fan throughout the world. Never a statesman or soldier gained greater popularity than he did.

CHALLENGE TO MR. RICHARDS

At the items "School for the Deaf, Halifax, $1,300," "School for the Blind, Halifax, $1,250." The PREMIER pointed out that here there was a considerable and unavoidable increase, owing to the charge per head of inmates being raised from $150 to $250. That was just an instance showing how unavoidable many of the increases were. The Leader of the Opposition had stated in his speech that there had been "a quarter of extravagance and waste," and he would ask him now to rise in his seat and point out where there was this extravagance and waste and suggest

DROP ONE CHARGE AGAINST SWOBODA.

PARIS, April 20.—French military authorities have decided to drop the charge of setting fire to the steamer La Touraine which was preferred against the man known as Raymond Swoboda, says the Petit Parisien. Capt. Bouchardon, the officer appointed to investigate the case, is credited with having expressed the opinion that there is not sufficient evidence against the prisoner. Swoboda still faces an accusation of espionage, however.

BRITISH TAKE MANY PRISONERS

LONDON, April 21.—Turkish prisoners to the number of 515, including six officers, were taken by British troops in the fighting in Mesopotamia last week, according to an official report issued by the Indian office. The report adds that the British pursuing the party found Turks everywhere in disorganized retreat both by the river in Arabistan and on the road. Twelve of the boats were overtaken and captured or sunk.

LONDON, April 21.—A despatch from Lausanne, Switzerland, dated April 8 says that according to the Suisse Nationale, Professor Gaupp, a nerve specialist of Tubingen has been drawing attention to an alarming increase in cases of madness in the German army.

At the commencement of the war, he says, the state of nerves of the troops was better than could have been hoped for, but even then numerous cases of over-excitement could be observed, manifesting themselves in shape of insomnia and a tendency to abnormal intoxication.
