

I.A.T. Celebrates 30th Birthday

MONTEAL, Aug. 24 (CP)—International Air Transport Association tomorrow will celebrate its 30th birthday, an anniversary described by its General Sir William Hildred as one of "international co-operation in air transport."

Sir William said the celebration will be marked merely by "the routine operations of over 70 airline members of the I.A.T.A., whose public services have, in less than a generation, diminished the world and speeded the tempo of its affairs."

International Air Transport started 30 years ago with six companies, a handful of airplanes, and a few hundred miles of routes. Today, the 250 aircraft of I.A.T.A.'s members fly the flags of more than 40 countries over a world air network of more than 500,000 miles of routes.

In 30 years, the passenger loads of the world's airlines have grown from 3,500 to 20,000,000 persons a year. The number of miles flown annually has increased from 600,000 to 1,000,000,000. The amount of mail and cargo carried has mounted from 47 tons in 1919 to 500,000 tons this year.

Between 1919 and 1940, the speed and reliability of air transport has been tripled, its safety quotient multiplied by 25, and its cost to the public cut by seven-eighths.

As a result of 30 years of cooperation through I.A.T.A., the airlines all speak the same language, use the same documents and manuals, measure with the same rule and follow the same procedures. In all matters, they pool their knowledge and experience for the good and safety of all the peoples who use them.

Unconcerned Over Rich Radium Source

PORT RADIUM, N. W. T., Aug. 24 (CP)—Although they eat, sleep and work on top of one of the world's chief sources of uranium, Port Radium's 250 miners go about their daily chores with a quiet indifference to the worries of the outside world.

Their life is not a normal one—it couldn't be in an Arctic circle town whose entire existence is based on the ore that is vital for atomic fission.

Port Radium is a tiny little cluster of huts perched on a finger of rock jutting out into Great Bear Lake, 900 miles north of Edmonton. It is connected with the outside world only by air, except for a boat service which functions during the lake's brief summer navigation season.

The entrance to its famed Eldorado mine is an insignificant little wooden shack atop the mine shaft, a paradoxical facade to the riches that lie beneath.

Eldorado Mining and Refining Company, which operates the mine under Dominion Government supervision, dominates the everyday life of the community, both at work and play.

The town's economic existence is based on uranium oxide ore hauled from the earth beneath it. The ore is shipped by air to Edmonton, and then by rail to the company's refinery at Fort Hope, Ont.

The miners live a pleasant, though isolated life. Few make less than $300 a month, and they pay only $125 a day for food, much of which must be flown in at great expense. Living quarters are roomy and comfortable.

But despite idyllic conditions above ground, working conditions are tough. Temperatures underground hover a few degrees above freezing throughout the year, and the pits are damp. About one-third of the total mine-mill horsepower is required to man the pumps which keep the mine from flooding.

The miners are hired on one-year contracts to reduce "floating" security, a vital problem for Eldorado, and among other things, their year and leave for good, but a surprising number keep coming back each year after an annual holiday outside.

Security is a vital problem for Eldorado, and among other things, the mine's production figures are labelled "not for publication."

New Dean Arrives For Osgoode Hall

TORONTO, Aug. 24 (CP)—Prof. Charles Ernest Smalley-Baker arrived here today from the United Kingdom to take over duties as dean of Osgoode Hall Law School. He succeeds Dean Cecil A. Wright who resigned early this year.

Prof. Smalley-Baker left Canada 22 years ago as a captain in one of Nova Scotia's highland regiments. After the First World War, he remained in Great Britain.

He practised law in London and was later appointed dean of the faculty of law at Birmingham University.

Osgoode Hall is Ontario's only law school from which candidates may enter the bar and is operated by the Law Society of Upper Canada, an organization of professional lawyers.

Change Site Of Dock Facilities

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 24 (CP)—New railway and dock terminal facilities will be built at nearby North Sydney and not at Sydney as originally announced, officials here said tonight.

An order-in-council approved last week appointed A.E. McCullough, Montreal engineer, to conduct a survey for "railway and dock terminal facilities."

Entry of Newfoundland into confederation is held as one reason for providing additional facilities for handling traffic—outgoing and incoming—which is reported reaching unprecedented proportions.

Defending Champ In Tough Match

By GEORGE BRIMMELL
Canadian Press Writer

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP)—Defending champion Grace Lenczyk, of Newington, Conn., won her second round Canadian ladies' open golf championship match today, but she was almost outdone by her opponent, 19-year-old Dainty Chisholm, of Montreal.

Playing the final holes of their match in light rain over rolling Capilano golf course, the pair drew the largest gallery of the tournament as they battled it out to the 17th green.

It took sub-par golf to beat dainty Dainty. Two down to strapping Miss Lenczyk going into the turn, Dainty picked up the 17th hole with a birdie two and the 18th with a par three.

But Miss Lenczyk fired three birdies in a row at the Montreal blonde to win the match. The final score was 1 to 1, and Miss Lenczyk was four under par to the 17th green.

Pat Lesser, 16, of Seattle, continued her phenomenal play as she defeated Marjorie Todd of Victoria 3 and 2.

An eagle three on the par-five 15th hole helped her keep one under par to the 16th where the match ended.

Sport Briefs

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
LONDON, Aug. 24 (CP)—Six-foot Frank Trotter of Ottawa, former Wembley Monarchs' hockey player, is planning a bout of heavy work this winter.

Trotter, 38-year-old cousin of Dave Trotter of Montreal Maroons fame, was appointed coach of Sweden's national hockey team last April. And he's been hard at work since then preparing for the task.

One of his biggest problems has been to gain a working knowledge of the Swedish language. So far he has taken 20 lessons and he says he now knows just about enough to get by.

Besides coaching the Swedish national team Trotter will be responsible for seeing that the 12 teams in the two senior Swedish Leagues are progressing along the right lines.

He will also travel the country to give hockey lectures to school-boys.

Trotter expects to return to Britain early in 1950. If the world ice hockey championships take place in London then, as expected in puck-chasing circles, he will be in charge of the Swedish team.

News that boxing impresario Jack Solomon has invited former world champions Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Gene Tunney, Max Baer and Jimmy Braddock to the Bruce Woodcock-Lee Savold fracas in September has caused almost as much excitement as the fight itself.

The fight is for the European version of the world heavyweight championship. The five former champions would stay a week and "it won't cost 'em a thing," says Solomon.

No Substance To Reports Of Attempted "Fix"

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—Top baseball officials today shrugged off as of "no substance" a report that satisfactory progress had been made in recent years to fix baseball games in the United States.

The New York Post-Home News carried the report in one of a series of articles on what it calls a $5,000,000-a-year betting racket.

The newspaper said "sums up to $10,000 have been offered players" and in some instances there have been threats of violence.

The mistake was cited tampering letters it said were sent recently to a Brooklyn player and to Eddie Dyer, manager of St. Louis Cardinals.

Baseball leaders acknowledged there have been such letters but described them as of a "screwball" variety.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said in Cincinnati that reports of widespread attempts to fix games are without foundation.

He said Dyer received a telegram from Dallas, Tex., which read: "Just bet $5,000 on tomorrow's game." There was no request made in the wire, Mulbry said.

An investigation by Commissioner A.B. Chandler's office showed the letter was sent from a fictitious address.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, said Bruce Edwards, Brooklyn Dodger catcher, received a letter several weeks ago in an apparent attempt to fix a game. He described it as a "fuzzy letter."

The mistake was turned over to Chandler's office and a check disclosed it was sent by a mental case.

Makes Drastic Economy Move

MELBOURNE, Aus., Aug. 24 (Reuters)—A spokesman of the Australian ministry of defence said today that satisfactory progress had been made in the secret defence talks between Australia and New Zealand service chiefs.

The conference, convened by the Australian Government, is discussing defence plans for the southwest Pacific, the co-ordination of defence forces of Australia and New Zealand in an emergency, and closer liaison between these forces in peace time. The conference is expected to end Friday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—Defence Secretary Louis Johnson today slammed a massive brake on military spending in the United States, amid pained cries from legislators.

Johnson ordered the discharge of 135,000 civilian employees of the army, navy and air force, and the locking up of 50 installations, ranging from navy yards to recruit training camps. Heavy reductions will be made in many others.

Some 12,000 reserve officers will be cut off the active duty list. It was the most drastic military economy move since the reductions at the end of the war. If expected, Johnson's office said, to save $200,000,000 between now and next June 30, and $500,000,000 a year thereafter.

Suicides Over Tooth

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 24 (CP)—A young Chinese youth committed suicide here because of a home-made brass tooth.

Goon Ing Kow, 16, left a note saying he had poisoned himself because "it is better to die than suffer like this so long."

Relatives said he had suffered severe back and leg pains. Doctors said they were probably caused by poison from a false tooth he had made of brass for himself.
