NEW YORK STYLE LETTER

FROM
ANNE M. GRIFFIN
Peerless Fashion Service
121 West 19th Street

If, somewhere in your wardrobe, there is a plain black frock which could stand a lift, here are two ideas straight out of Hollywood. You can trick it up with real flowers, a la Dorothy Lamour. Dorothy's favorite is pink and white carnations, strung in a lei around her neck, or made into bracelets of living flowers. On other occasions, she fastens a single carnation to a black grosgrain ribbon which she ties around her neck. (This idea is for bracelets, too — but not both necklace and bracelets at one time). Another way to dress up a black dress is to don an apron. Anna Neagle has always like the idea of apron overdresses, sometimes has them made that way originally. Aprons work nicely with both full and straight skirts. Make it like any apron, the size depending on the fullness of your skirt. Use cotton, chiffon, lace, any fabric that goes well with the material of your dress. Ruffle it around the edges, embroider it stud it with sequins or beads, or applique flowers to it. Tie it on with a huge bow in back. Result: a new dress neatly tucked into the corners of the budget.

By this time you are probably used to the down-in-back hats which cover all your hair, your neck and even your shoulders, but leaving your forehead too, too exposed. But you can have both style and flattery. There is, for instance, the novel hat which Anne Shirley wears with a beige frock in RKO Radio's "Unexpected Uncle." It's a silky felt, a perfect oval in shape, the long part of the oval running up in front, halo style, and down in back in the best modern style.

Pucheu, of Vichy Cabi net, Seen as Axis "Dark H orse" To Succeed Marshal Petain

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Hitler's No. 1 dark horse on the Vichy merry-go-round is Pierre Pucheu, pro-Fascist banker, industrialist and Minister of the Interior.

Although Admiral Darlan and former Premier Laval have been hitting the headlines as pro-Nazi "collaborators," despite the steadying influence of aged Marshal Petain, experienced observers here have tabbed Pucheu as a "foxy grandpa" and the most dangerous of them all.

He's comparatively young, tremendously ambitious and is reported to be ready to lay his cards on the table when the time is ripe. Besides his wealth, he is armed with a cabinet position that makes him boss over all the police in France and — the secret service agents as well.

Vichy's Pierre Pucheu... "dark horse"..."foxy grandpa"

Pucheu belongs to that class of big businessmen who have hated Premier Blum and Daladier and reportedly envisioned a Fascist France that could do best only by being pally with Hitler's "New Order."

There would be no such "nonsense as trade unions, collective bargaining and strikes" in Pucheu's picture. The working class would be dominated just as it is in present-day Germany and Italy being closer and closer to the horizon.

TIME OF COUP IS UNCERTAIN

When the iron will be ready for Pucheu to strike is problematical. Observers contend he is busy preparing the skids for Darlan and perhaps waiting for the day when the octogenarian, Petain, dies, to remove the biggest barrier to pro-Axis schemes. As for Laval, his star is already dipping closer and closer to the horizon.

Despite all, however, Pucheu's course will probably be a rocky one. One indication came recently when the mangled body of Yves Paringaux, Pucheu's chief of cabinet was found on a railroad tracks near Paris.

What happened is supposed to be a mystery. The fact remains, however, that Paringaux was performing the pro-Nazi services of suppressing anti-German activities among the French. Then one day his body was found.

Meanwhile, behind Petain's tactics of stalling and irritating the Nazis and their hopes and demands for a "final settlement" of differences, loom successes of the Russian Army and America's entry into the war. Both factors may have given Petain encouragement stubbornly to refuse to go beyond terms of the French-German armistice.

A third factor is the American admiral, Ambassador William D. Leahy. In troubled France, Leahy has become a man to be reckoned with as he has quietly and efficiently gone about his work.

OLIVE IRENE McLURE

The Angel of Death called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester McLure, Murray Harbor North in the early morning hours of Monday, January 26th, and carried away to the Heavenly home the spirit of their eldest daughter, Olive Irene.

Ollie, as she was familiarly known, was born March 23rd, 1924, so that at the time of her death she was nearly eighteen years of age. Almost all her life she had been an invalid and was therefore denied the joys of childhood. During all this time she was most tenderly cared for by her devoted parents, who will oftimes look sadly at the vacant chair, but who bow submissively and say "He doeth all things well" and look forward to a glorious reunion when time shall be no more.

Despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance at the funeral held from the Murray Harbor North Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, January 27th. Services were conducted by Rev. A. C. MacPhail. The choir sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "When He Cometh" and "There is no Night in Heaven."

Interment was in the new cemetery at Murray Harbor North. The little white casket was tenderly borne to its last resting place by four relatives, Willard McLure, Laurie McLure, George McLure and Preston McLure.

MISS LILLIE MacDONALD

The death occurred at the City Hospital on September 28th of Miss Lillie MacDonald of West St. Peters, at the the age of 68, fortified by the last rites of the Holy Catholic Church by Rev. Father O'Hanley.

The late Miss MacDonald was a wonderful Christian, living her religion from day to day in the home of her brother Mr. James B. MacDonald, J. P., with whom she always resided.

Miss MacDonald, who is an aunt of Father Reginald MacDonald now Chaplain overseas and Mr. Aeneas brakeman on the C. N. R., also took a mother's part to them as they were early bereaved of their own mother, Rev. Reggie being three and Aeneas six years old, and they have grown up to call her blessed. The deceased lady was of a quiet, loving and unassuming disposition, always first in helping any good cause in her Church and in the school district and was always an interested and helpful attendant at the school examinations. Only a month before her death she and her brother James B., who is now 79 years of age opened their home for an entertainment in aid or St. Andrew's church, and they graciously welcomed all who came to their hospitable home. She was dearly beloved by young and old and her death is deeply regretted, but she has left an example of good living that many may follow.

Father Peter MacDonald, P. P., Butte, Montana, came home by plane to be present at the funeral of his sister and on his return back to Butte, was accompanied by his brother Mr. James B. who will reside with him. Mr. MacDonald's son Aeneas, with his wife and family have moved into the old home, as his father and Father Peter are the only remaining members of a family of 18—six sisters and twelve brothers and to them is extended sincere sympathy.

The funeral on October 3rd was largely attended from the residence of her brother Mr. James B. MacDonald, West St. Peters to St. Andrews Church, where Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by her brother Rev. Peter MacDonald (of Butte, Montana), assisted by Rev. Kenneth McPherson, deacon, Rev. A. L. Sinnott Sub-Deacon and Rev. Louis Callaghan, Master of Ceremonies.

Present in the Sanctuary were: Right Reverend Monsignor J. A. Murphy, D. D., Rev. Ronald MacDonald, Rev. Basil Croken, Rev. George MacDonald and Rev. Leonard MacDonald.

The pallbearers were: Hon. J. P. McIntyre, Hon. H. H. Cox, Peter O. MacDonald, Lloyd McEwen, John T. Valley and Peter McAdam.

The family deeply appreciate the kindness extended in their bereavement and for the following tributes:

PRESIDENT AND DIRECTOR'S REPORT

Today, we meet at the first annual meeting of our Association. In the six months since organization, it has progressed far beyond our expectations.

We are greatly indebted to our Provincial Department of Agriculture and "Poultry Service" of the Dominion Department of Agriculture for the assistance that made our organization possible. Also to a favourable set of circumstances that contributed not a little to our success.

First, we are fortunate in having an experienced and competent manager, also insecuring a building that is ideal for its purpose, and starting to do business in a rising market. And again, in personnel of the directorate, who gave unstintingly of their time to promote this new venture.

After a period of low prices for our poultry products, many of our farmers were discouraged because there was no profit over cost of productions, and in many farms the poultry equipment fell into disuse. The old system of marketing our eggs seemed to have outlived its usefulness. Still, many were dubious that this registered grading station was the answer to our problems. "We were not the last to lay the old aside—nor yet the first, by whom the new was tried". But in the last few months, an interest has been wakened that, stimulated by better prices and Britain's willingness to take large quantities of our products should make this one of the best grading stations in Prince Edward Island. Britain's need of eggs for food, and her desire to place large orders for delivery in 1942 makes our egg production a patriotic venture.

We can all, in this way, make our contribution towards victory, by producing the essential food for those who are keeping the foe from our shores.

On every farm we can increase the quality, quantity and value of our product by giving a little more attention to the comfortable housing and better balanced rations to the flocks we have, and to the care of the eggs, such as gathering often and cooling thoroughly before packing.

On many farms it is possible to increase our flocks and greatly enlarge our production of both meat and eggs.

The Provincial Government "Brooder House Policy" in which they pay half the cost on a brooder-stove, should be a great inducement to put up brooder houses and raise a uniform flock of pullets for egg production for the coming season of top prices.

This grading station is stocking the necessary poultry feeds and selling as near to cost as possible, and the "Poultry Services", Charlottetown, are always willing to supply any information desired.

"Canada expects every registered grading station manager to do his duty". We have no doubt of our manager fulfilling his obligation, if we, as members, do our part in increased production and quality of all we market.

There will be no dawn of peace over this shattered, suffering world until all of us rouse ourselves to the task ahead, until every one of us accepts our responsibilities.

"No easy hope
Shall bring us to our goal,
But iron sacrifice
of body, will and soul."

As farmers, we can and will contribute largely to the final victory. Food for the fighting forces and our brave, enduring fellow beings in Britain, must be ever available, or else what use our guns and tanks and planes.

Let us all work a little harder during this coming year, and use our grading station as a clearing house for our individual war efforts.

Scottish Medical Philanthropist Dies Abroad

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Dr. George C. Cossar, C.B.E., M. C., known throughout the United Kingdom and particularly familiar to the people of New Brunswick as the founder of the Cossar Farm, Lower Gagetown on the St. John River passed away in his Clydesdale home, Scotland, yesterday after a decline caused latterly by an ordeal through which he went early in the present war when the refugee ship Volendam was torpedoed enroute to this continent with hundreds of children aboard.

At the time the ship was hit Dr. Cossar, in charge of the children called them to the careening ship's deck where they knelt with clasped hands whilst their friend and conductor implored divine help. Not a passenger or crewman was lost. Dr. Cossar, who had frequently complained of a weakness of the heart, received a severe setback on this occasion and since then had been a semi-invalid.

The Scottish medical-philanthropist, in his early sixties and unmarried, had a colorful career. At the beginning of the last Great War he purchased an ambulance, loaded it with copies of the Gospels and arriving in France began distributing them among the soldiers. The story goes that he was severely rebuffed by a ranking officer and made to leave the vicinity with his caravan.

Nothing daunted, Dr. Cossar, who was not then a qualified medical man, returned to England and supplemented his engineering education with special studies. Before the war ended he acquired enough proficiency in medical and ambulance work to return to France in uniform and serve through the critical last stage of the strife. He was decorated with the Military Cross for bravery while serving in the front lines. Singularly enough, he once related, the very officer who denied him his Bible mission years before, was cashiered for quite another cause whilst the persistent Cossar was helping the sick and wounded

Dr. Cossar who will be remembered as a man of deep religious conviction, was president of the National Bible Society of Scotland for two years; credited with having been instrumental in placing the Bible in the public schools of that country. The people of Canada, especially those in the Maritimes know him as a promoter of agricultural education among street boys and orphan youths gathered through his mission organizations in Glasgow and othe United Kingdom centres.

To the people of New Brunswick the Cossar Farm is a familiar institution and in its 20 years of operation has taught hundreds of Scottish lads scientific farming and stock raising. A special line has been a pedigreed strain of Scottie terrier dogs, known to fanciers throughout the continent. Cossar Farm apples, too, have been a particularly fine product of this youth-conducted agricultural school.

Sat In Tom Brown's Seat

Though the late Dr. Cossar was a familiar personality to hundreds of Saint John citizens, very little of his colorful background has been known to even his closest friends. As a boy he sat in Tom Brown's seat at Rugby, was a graduate civil and mining engineer which took him to the Inca India terraced hamlets of the Peruvian mountains. Whilst there he purchased a considerable number of standard-bred Canadian cattle to assist a missionary post located in that strange country.

The doctor later became deeply engrossed in the early missions of Peru, the Argentine and Brazil. J. Stewart Smith of this city, who was born in Buenos Aires of missionary parents, told a Telegraph-Journal reporter last evening that Dr. Cossar spent a great real of money in importing Canadian corn and wheat to "crop" in Peru, some 10,000 acres being put under cultivation eventually.

Dr. Cossar's missionary sympathies prompted him to assist enterprises of that kind in India, Spain and elsewhere. Many will recall his gracious approach upon this subject, usually accompanied by the presentation of one of the Gospels in booklet form, with the remark: "May I present you with the best Book in the world?" Another favorite remark when handing out a Gospel copy or an inscribed medallion, to, possibly an elevator boy, waitress, or it may have been to service club members to whom he might be speaking on a secular subject: "Here's a little novelty all the way from Scotland."

Founded Many Enterprises

Friends of the doctor will also say he did not prate his religion. He lived it boldly, gracefully, and effectually. A man of considerable wealth he founded all his mission enterprises, farm schools and hospices on a sound business-like basis, making them, in many instances, quite self-sustaining. Some of his mission expenditures were picturesque. At one time he was said to have a special edition of the Gospels printed in a certain Chinese dialect and distributed along the Yangtse River, now so much in the war news. He used to claim that this "investment" yielded several converts to Christianity, including a Chinese lawyer of prominence, who afterwards became a missionary in his new faith.

Dr. Cossar leaves a sister in Scotland and a few distant relatives. The late King George V conferred upon him a Companionship in the Order of the British Empire for his widespread philanthropics, particularly among foundling children. Saint John people will remember him as having occupied pulpits here and as addressing service clubs. Word of his passing was received here with profound regret last evening.

The WEEK at S.D.U.

At a recent meeting of the S. D. U. A A A, Ronan MacDonald was elected to the position of Secretary of the Athletic Association. The office had been left vacant by the departure of John Hughes.

DEBATING

The Grade XII public speaking group held a debate on the subject, "Resolved that the Japanese attack on the U. S. was really beneficial to England." Speakers for the Negative Side, Bill McGuigan and Ezra Gallant defeated Alexis Kelly and Joe J. MacDonald.

In Grade XI— X — Commercial Public-Speaking Group "Resolved that wealth is essential to happiness was the subject under discussion. A Lamontagne and Joe Pitre were successful in defending the resolution against G. Haddad and Fred Whelen.

HOCKEY

The Saints' Senior team played two games during the week. For the first they decisively defeated a team from Beach Grove Training Centre while in the second they, carried a 5-all draw with Holman's.

S. D. U. second team met P. W. C Second Team Saturday, Feb. 7, at College Rink. The game was a see-saw battle from start to finish and ended in a 2-all draw.

The second team also met a team from the Navy Saturday, Feb. 4, and gained a hard-fought victory, 4-1.

Thursday evening saw the classic encounter of the season when F. P. Aylward's outlawed Seniles met Jimmy Kelly's all-star juveniles at college ring The game was a hard-fought struggle with the Ancients putting up great opposition against superior numbers High light of the epic struggle was a penalty shot awarded to the Oldsters while the Juvenile goalie was serving a penalty. Captain Aylwards elected to shoot, and with customary coolness flashed down the ice on the unprotected net, stickhandled in close, and fired a hard high backhander. But luck was against the big defenceman and the drive missed the open corner. Such hard luck dogged the Seniles throughout the game and they lost 6-0.

Rev. Fr. Fournier, W. F., a visitor at the college during the past week, gave an illustrated lecture on the work of the White Fathers in Africa, to the students Friday morning.

Howard Wight, Eccl., and Sub-Lieut. Robert Morris, R. C. N., were visitors at the college during the week.

Instead of having bath oil, powder, toilet water and perfume in different perfumes, why not co-ordinate them? Fortunately, the average face powder, lipstick and hand lotion scents do not remain for very long, so if you have or wish to indulge in a very special aroma that's available in perfume only, you need not worry about its creating aroma confusion.

"The sharp increase in the proportion of bonds in this portfolio reflects the attitude of the Directors of Empire Life Insurance Company towards the Dominion War Loan issues in which practically the entire excess of income over disbursements was invested. The average earnings on these assets was 4.59 per cent.

"The earnings on operations for the year were again satisfactory, with a total surplus of $866,596.00. The security for the protection of policyholders is at a new high point, and the company is in an excellent position to meet whatever tests lie ahead."
