Secret Protocol Attached German-Japanese Pact?

Long Rumored Treaty Signed Yesterday

over the radio tonight asserted the alliance was directed solely against the Moscow Internationale and not against any state.

MORAL DUTY, CLAIM

"It was not only the perfect right of Japan and Germany to sign this treaty," he said, "it was a political moral duty."

(In Tokyo, the foreign office expressed similar views).

The alliance, long reported to have been in effect, bound Japan and Germany for five years to:

1. Consult on co-operative anti-Communist moves.
2. Invite third parties to join them.
3. Exchange police data on the subject.
4. Invoke stiff penalties for internal agitators, and
5. Set up a permanent Japanese-German commission.

The document contains a preamble, three articles and a supplementary protocol binding the signatory nations to exchange recommendations to combat Communism.

JAPANESE STATEMENT

TOKYO, Nov. 25—The Japanese Foreign Staff tonight declared the Japanese-German agrement to combat Communism was "not directed against the Soviet Union or any other specific power."

Rather, the announcement asserted, Japan entered the pact solely to counter Komintern activities "in support of Chinese Communist armies in order to fight Japan."

At the same time, the Japanese statement held the door open for Poland to join the alliance and declared Poland was the next step "in the further objectives of Komintern activities."

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP-Havas) —A secret protocol partitioning the Pacific into zones of influence is annexed to the anti-Communist pact signed in Berlin today by Germany and Japan, the Evening Standard reported tonight.

The paper's report of a secret protocol was not given much credence in diplomatic circles, however.

On the basis of "authoritative information," the newspaper's diplomatic editor asserted the two countries have drawn an imaginary line through the Pacific to designate their respective zones of influence. Under the reported arrangement, the Dutch East Indies fall within Tokyo's jurisdiction, with Germany exerting sway over its former Pacific colonies mandated to Japan by the League of Nations.

The Evening Standard asserted Germany had renounced all privileges in the Marianes, Caroline and Marshall Islands, as well as all other territories lying northeast of the line, running through the Java, Sunda, Banda and Arafura seas.

This line separates the Dutch Islands of Sumatra, Java and Timor from Borneo, Celebes and the Philippines. Under the protocol, Japan's economic prerogatives would be recognized in Borneo and Celebes, with Sumatra and Java falling within the German zone of influence.

legations that the German embassy building seized and sealed with the Italian embassy the day before, had been a "veritable fortress."

These officials said militia had seized in the German building 21 revolvers, 12 shotguns, one anit-aircraft piece, seven rifles, one bomb thrower, three cases of hand grenades, one case of shell fuses and four cutlasses.

Subsequent investigation, it was said, showed the former embassy 'sheltered refugees storing arms and ammunition."

There were 45 Spaniards arrested in the building.

"Ghost Cars"

The Defence Junta tonight was disturbed by the activities of a fleet of "ghost cars" which roam the city at night and snipe at militia cars.

TALAVERA DE LA REINA, SPAIN, Nov. 25-(CP HAVAS—A government contingent of heavy artillery suddenly appeared across the Tagus River from this Insurgent centre today and temporarily caught Insurgent officers off guard with a violent barrage of 75-millimetre shells.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the civil war ensued. Twenty-three Insurgent planes participated, winning a victory after more than two hours of fighting.

Friends Welcome Couple To New N. Tryon Home

The home of Mrs. and Mrs. Sawler of North Tryon was the scene of a very pleasant event on Wednesday evening when a large number of their friends and neighbors gathered to welcome them in their new home.

The spacious and comfortable residence formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Leard of Tryon was filled to overflowing for the occasion.

As the friends assembled they were introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Sawler by Mrs. Frank Dixon in her usual happy style.

During the evening an address was read by Mr. Elmer Gamble, and a beautiful floor lamp was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Sawler on behalf of the friends present. Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Sawler responded in a fitting speech, thanking the friends for their gift, and expressing the hope that they would feel free to visit at any time. The needs of the inner man were not forgotten and the ladies of Tryon and vicinity lived up to their reputation in the culinary art, when they served a bounteous lunch to all.

The remainder of the evening was spent very pleasantly in social intercourse. Mr. Sawler received his initiation in the form of a hearty bounce before the gathering dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawler came to the Island from Nova Scotia, where Mr. Sawler held a lucrative position. Mrs. Sawler is an Island girl, formerly Miss Mabel Clark, R.N., of Cape Traverse.

LLOYD GEORGE

"No one reached the highest ranks in the British army except those who were there or thereabouts when the war began. Seniority and society were dominant factors in army promotion. Deportment counted a good deal. Brains came a bad fourth."

Assails Haig

The volume shows Lloyd George viewing Earl Haig, the British Commander-in-Chief, and others in no kinder a light than in earlier books. His attitude is actually more harsh.

"Haig ordered many bloody battles and only took part in two. He never saw the ground of the greatest battles fought, either before or during the fight. Field-Marshal Sir William Robertson, Haig's chief adviser, never even saw a battle.

"The solicitude with which Generals in high places avoided personal jeopardy is one of the debatable novelties of modern warfare.

Lloyd George asserts that before the Passchendaele offensive he gave the Cabinet and Haig and Robertson the reasons why he thought the attack would not yield results worth the losses. He was unable to veto it because nearly half the Cabinet accepted the view of the military leaders.

ONTARIO MAN ARRESTED IN MERCY KILLING

Planned to Also Shoot Aged Mother and Self But Gun Failed to Discharge.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

MEAFORD, Ont., Nov. 25—In an undertaking parlor, where gray-haired 58-year-old Irwin Pentland went to buy a casket, the story of a "mercy killing" became public today. Pentland mentioned he required the casket for his sister—"I shot her last night."

Unkempt, unexcited, he was taken to Owen Sound and charged with the murder of his sister Ola, 55, whose body police found in a bed in the summer cottage-home of the three Pentlands at Kiowana Beach, 3 1-2 miles north of here on Georgian Bay.

Since 10.30 last night, when Pentland lifted his .38 calibre rifle and fired a bullet into the back of his sister's head, nothing was said about the shooting by either Irwin or his 78-year-old mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Pentland, who witnessed it, until the son visited the undertaker's.

Took Notion

"I just took a notion to shoot her," he explained quietly to Provincial Constable Harry Noble and Meaford officers who went to Kiowana Beach to arrest him. "She'd been complaining about her health. I intended to shoot my mother and take my own life."

But the rifle wouldn't fire a second time, though Pentland said he took aim at his aged mother and pulled the trigger. "The trigger wouldn't work," he said. Police said the reason was that the gun was unloaded.

Authorities indicated Pentland would be examined mentally at once.

The Pentlands had little money, apparently living on Mrs. Pentland/s old age pension. Neither Irwin nor Ola was employed.

Walked To Undertaker

Irwin walked the 3 1-2 miles to town today and went directly to the undertaking establishment.

"I want a casket to bury my sister in," he said. "I shot her last night."

Then Pentland went back to his home and police were not far behind. When they reached the cottage, Pentland and his mother were called outside and both admitted readily that Ola had been shot the night before and that her body was on a bed inside.

Neither was excited as police handcuffed Pentland. They described what took place and, within hearing of his mother, Pentland told how he had planned to kill the white-haired old lady before shooting himself.

When "the trigger wouldn't work" Pentland said he picked up his sister's body and carried it to a bed. He washed off the wounds. The bullet entered the back of the head and emerged from the forehead.

Completes Plea On Behalf Of Workers

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL, Nov. 25—Living indices prepared by the Dominion Government should not be taken into consideration by the Railway Conciliation Board in deciding on the plea of some 100,000 standard railroad workers for restoration of a 10 per cent wage cut, Howard B. Chase, labor representative, told the board today.

Chase, in completing his three-day plea on behalf of railroad workers who took the wage reduction in 1931, held the indices "were merely estimates not founded on comprehensive budgetary studies." For this reason, he said, "they cannot be a reliable basis for wage adjustment."

The employees' witness told Justice A. K. MacLean, board chairman, he would submit a written summary of the 150-page brief which he read to the board. Tomorrow George Hodge, Canadian Pacific Railway representative, will argue the case for the companies.

Annual Meeting Children's Aid

Dr. J. A. MacPhee was re-elected president at the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Prince County held on Tuesday evening in the Town Hall.

Dr. MacPhee presided and in a very fine address reviewed the work of the Society since its inception and during the past year.

Dr. MacPhee deplored the lack of interest by the general public in a work which is doing so much good among the juveniles of the county.

Last year Dr. MacPhee was pleased to report that delinquency had decreased, but this year he was sorry to say that this was not the case. It is due in some measure to the fact that no truant officer has yet been appointed by the town for this school year. Heretofore the agent for the Society has acted in a dual capacity as agent and truant officer. But this year he was not reappointed as truant officer. Truancy and delinquency have both increased, and Dr. MacPhee suggested that the Society's Agent occupy this position. Parental neglect and economic conditions have something to do with juvenile delinquency.

The Juvenile Court is doing great work with regard to this matter. Some people are critical and some even hostile to this splendid institution.

We are fortunate in having Judge Inman presiding at this Court. He has understanding and sympathy and many children have benefited from his advice. In the Juvenile Court children are placed on trial and given a chance and then if they do not reform they are sent to reform schools.

Dr. MacPhee said he would like to see people more interested in the work of the Society and he felt quite sure that if they knew the amount of good that is accomplished that they would be much more enthusiastic over these things.

The Society has done far more than its finances can afford for the welfare of needy children. The total number of children that the Society is responsible for at the present time is twenty-six. Some are actual wards and others are under supervision. Ten of these are in St. Vincent's Orphanage and five in the Protestant Orphanage. Seven are in reform schools, the remainder are being cared for in private homes and in hospital.

Dr. MacPhee closed his remarks with an appeal for more members and expressions of thanks to the officers of the Society, to Mr. Harrington, the retiring agent and to the press for the part they have all taken to promote the welfare of this very worthy Society.

AGENT'S REPORT

Mr. V. J. Harrington submitt his annual report of the work accomplished by him during his term of office.

As truant officer up to June 30th, 1936, I have made 131 visits to the school to see that the children were in regular attendance.

Together with my visits to the school I made 166 visits to the homes of various children to get them back to class or to investigate the cause why they were not attending; in most cases, the trouble was illness or want of clothing.

Since June 30th, 1936 there has been no truant officer appointed. Such being the case there has been an epidemic of shop lifting, thefts from autos parked on the streets and many garage managers report the loss of tires and other stock. Boys and girls from seven to fourteen years of age are said to commit these crimes.

Chief of Police Kinch reports to me that he and his officers are acting truant officers along with their other duties, but are unable to cope with the delinquency situation and truancy.

As Agent for the Society, I made three visits to the country investigating cases for the Society. Three children were placed in St. Vincent's Orphanage. Three in St. Huberts Orphanage. Two boys were placed in St. Patricks home, Halifax and two young girls in the home of the Good Shepherd, St. John, N.B. The Matron of this home reports that the girls are making good progress.

There were nine cases in the Juvenile Court. Most of the boys were placed on probation for a certain period, except for those mentioned above who were sent to the Boys and Girls Homes.

The trustees of the High School have been obliged to supply books to a number of children whose parents were unable to purchase them. The Children's Aid Society in conjunction with the Catholic Women's League have supplied at great expense clothing and footwear to poor and destitute children who were unable to attend school. This year has been a particularly expensive one for the Society along these lines, in spite of the fact that, I have clothed a number of children from second hand clothing supplied by citizens who were anxious to help out in this work.

I think further comment is unnecessary.

Yours truly
V. J. HARRINGTON

TO APPOINT NEW AGENT

It was decided to leave the appointment of a new agent for the Society to the next regular meeting of the new Board.

A motion was made thanking Mr. V. J. Harrington retiring agent for the excellent work he has accomplished during his term of office.

As the appointing of a new agent is a very important one the President asked that there be a full attendance of the Board at the next meeting.

The secretary-treasurer's report was read an approved.

CHIVALRY STILL HOLDS FORTH IN ENGLAND

Court of Claims Meets in Traditional Garb to Hear Coronation Claims.

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 25—(CP Cable)—Remembrances of the days of chivalry hung over the chamber of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today with the assembling of the court of claims appointed by the King to hear the suits of those who claim to perform certain services at the coronation.

For some weeks the Chamber has been occupied by their Lordships hearing appeals over the constitutionality of Canadian "New Deal" Government legislation but this court never meets on Wednesdays.

At the great oak oval table today there sat in full-bottomed wig and full legal robes Lord Chief Justice Hewart, with Lord Wright, Master of the Rolls, similarly attired.

The Duke of Norfolk wore the scarlet uniform of the Earl Marshal. Lord Normand, Lord Justice General of Scotland, Lord Onslow, Lord Thankerton and Lord Cromer, the Lord Chamberlain, wore court dress.

Sir Claude Schuster, as clerk of the Crown in chancery, recited the particulars of each claim. The Lord Chief Justice gave the answer: "There will be the same order as on previous occasions." This meant the claim was granted.

The first petition was from the Dean and Chapter of Westminster to instruct the King in the rites and ceremonies of the coronation. The Bishop of Durham claimed the right "to support the King during the coronation" with certain other priviliges. H. J. Scrymgeour-Wedderburn, youthful under-secretary for Scotland, claimed the right to carry the Royal Standard of Scotland as hereditary standard bearer.

The Duke of Newcastle claimed the right to provide a glove for the King's right hand and to support His Majesty's right arm while holding the sceptre. The Earl of Shrewsbury claimed the right to carry a white wand as Lord High Steward of Ireland. The Lord Mayor of London claimed the right to attend the King and carry the city's crystal mace.

Two claims were passed over, at least temporarily. The first was that of Frank Dymoke, to bear a standard as the King's champion. The second was that of Rev. H. Catton Smith to be present at the coronation by virtue of tenure of land in Nottingham.

Separated From Dead Brother

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—Simplicio Godino, 29-year-old Siamese twin, in hospital tonight recovering from one of the most unusual operations ever performed, a "detour" surgery which separated him from his dead brother, Lucio.

There was no apparent sign that Simplicio had been infected with the rheumatic fever which caused his brother's death late night.

Within 45 minutes after the death of the twin, four doctors had completed the amputation of the dead body. Barring the effects of shock from which Simplicio suffered, his chances of recovery were announced as good.

The brothers' blood circulatory and nervous systems were almost completely separate. This made it possible to perform an operation from which complete recovery could be expected.

PRESTON, Lancashire, Nov. 25—The National Government tonight won a by-election here when Captain E. C. Cobb, Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons to fill the seat vacated by W. M. Kirkpatrick on receiving a Government appointment in China.

Youngsters Return Sadder And Wiser From Stolen Trip

When the Charlottetown-Summerside bus arived in Summerside Tuesday night on its last trip about 8.45, two young boys of eleven years of age were found hanging on to the steel ladder at the back of the coach nearly perished with cold. The boys had jumped on to the ladder unknown to the driver as the bus was leaving Charlottetown.

They were thinly clad and had only one pair of mitts between them. They told the police that they wanted a ride, but had intended to get off at Reads Corner about one mile east of Summerside, but the driver was going too fast and they did not want to get killed.

The driver told the police that he always had to look round to see if anyone was hanging on, but that night he did not see anyone about and did not think there were any hangers on.

The boys had a terrifying experience which they are not likely to repeat. They were kept in the Police Station all night and given their breakfast in the morning before being sent back to their homes, inside the bus this time and not outside.—S.

UNEMPLOYMENT

and allowances for the blind.

The Canadian Act relates to unemployment insurance only.

Both laws are to be administered by boards, in the United States the Social Security Board, in Canada the Employment and Social Insurance Commission.

Both have instructions to look in to wider fields. The United States board is to study and report on the most effective means of providing economic security.

The Canadian Commission is to explore the feasibility of a general scheme of social insurance including sickness, invalidity and old age protection.

In Canada the employment tax or premium would be collected from both employer and employee in the United States from the employer only. In Canada it would be fixed and in the United States it varies with wages paid.

In Canada each male employee over 21 years of age would pay 25 cents a week and each female 21 cents. Lower taxes would be paid by workers under 21. The employer in each case would pay the same tax for each worker.

The United States plan imposes a payroll tax on employers, starting at one per cent for 1936 and increasing to three per cent for 1938 and thereafter.

Employees must have a certain record of employment to obtain benefits uner either scheme when they become unemployed.

In the United States the benefits are half the normal wages of the worker with a maximum of $15 per week.

In Canada the benefits would be fixed, like the tax and would be $6 per week for a male over 21 and $5.10 per week for a female with smaller benefits for younger workers.
