Aged Mariner Makes Whaling Implements

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 12.—Although New Bedford's famous whaling fleet has vanished from the seven seas, there remains one who is to some extent upholding the traditions of the one time center of the whaling industry. He is Everett Tripp, an ancient mariner of 75 years, who sits at his bench in a little shop down by the waterfront fashioning implements for those who still hunt the monster of the deep.

In the heyday of the industry the little shop was thronged by whaling masters and their mates, who came there for darting guns, bomb lances and other tools of their trade. New Tripp finds no home market for his products. Japan is Tripp's best customer, for the Nipponese whalemen continue to hunt the whale under government supervision. The Norwegian countries and Alaska, and the Isle of Desolation, a French possession close to the Antarctic Circle, in the South Pacific, also send him orders.

Tripp says he is the only man in the world at present manufacturing bombing lances, a deadly contrivance which is discharged when it strikes a whale, shooting an explosive bomb into the animal. The bomb lance was invented by the late Frank Brown, whose name remains over the entrance of the shop and whose family still own it.

Tripp specializes in bombing lances, which can be thrown much after the fashion of the old-time harpoon. The darting gun, a heavy, cumbersome bronze firearm, he says has long since been discarded by whalemen. So great was the recoil of the shoulder gun that oft times the man who fired it was kicked overboard, Tripp declares. Many of these guns were sold by whalers to the Eskimos, who continue to use them in hunting polar bear and other arctic animals.

The shop boasts many cherished trophies of the days when New Bedford vesels ventured into every ocean. There is a bomb lance, made by the inventor, with which the late Captain James W. Tilton took whales valued at more than $20,000. And even more valued is a collection of two dozen charts of the whaling grounds, left on the ship by whaling masters after they had brought their vessels to port from their last voyages. On these charts are carefully designated the places where blubber was found to be most plentiful.

Although there is some talk at the Whalemen's Club of fitting out another whaling vessel, many of the old timers discount the possibility of success from a financial standpoint. Whale oil no longer brings the attractive price it once did, and with the passing of the demand for whalebone for corset stays and horse whips, one of the most lucrative markets has vanished.

Legislative Assembly

Mr. Gordon presented a Petition from The Trustees of the Alberton Presbyterian Church praying for an Act to Incorporate "The Fraser Memorial Presbyterian Church Alberton."

Acts embodying the above petitions were received, read a first time, and referred to the committee on private bills.

An act to amend the Summerside incorporation act, 1903, received its second reading.

Hon. Dr. MacNeill introducing the bill explained that the power sought was to move Pope street, Summerside a few feet north so that it will run in line with Beaver street.

Mr. Arsenault enquired if the Summerside High School was on the street that was being closed.

Dr. MacNeill replied that it was.

Hon. J. D. Stewart enquired if Pope Street was on the official plan. Where is the plan?

Dr. MacNeill replied that Pope street was not on the plan.

Premier Saunders gave the information that about ten feet of Pope Street was included in the school grounds. The registered plan was in the clerk's office at Summerside.

Mr. Allen gave it as his opinion that such a street, officially, had never existed. The property owners, however, wish to be absolutely sure, and that is why they want the bill put through. I have a plan of the town fifty years old. The street does not show on the plan at all.

Mr. Arsenault asked if the corporation of Summerside had got an opinion from the recorder.

Dr. MacNeill replied that the recorder had given it as his opinion that such a street as Pope street exists, and once a street always a street. Other legal authorities presented a different opinion. But the council, he was sure, wanted the act passed.

Mr. Arsenault claimed that the proposed alteration would spoil the alignment of the street. The south line of Pope street should be a continuation of the South line of Beaver street.

Dr. MacNeill said that Beaver street was sixty feet wide. They only wanted Pope street to be forty feet wide. The town wanted the North side of Pope street to be a continuation of the north side of Beaver Street. They were quite willing to let the other twenty feet go to the owners. Clause No. 2 of the act was struck out, and the bill, as amended, passed its second reading.

It reads thus:

WHEREAS in the official plan of the Town of Summerside there are a number of public streets shown in said plan which have never been opened or used as a public street or streets, and which if opened might interfere with private property, and the general plan of the public streets in the said Town of Summerside which have been opened as occasion and necessity has arisen from time to time, and it is deemed expedient to empower the Town Council by resolution of the said Council, to close or change on the said plan, any one or more of the said street or streets so laid down in said plan;

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the Lieutenant Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Province of Prince Edward Island, as follows:

(1) That notwithstanding other provisions in the said "The Summerside Incorporation Act, 1903," the Town Council of the said Town is hereby empowered by resolution from time to time to close, or change on the official plan of the Town of Summerside, any one or more of the said streets so set out or laid down in said official plan; and upon the passing of any such resolution as aforesaid the said official plan shall be considered as altered in conformity with the said resolution.

The Bill embodying An Act to Amend an Act to Incorporate the Trustees of the Peoples Cemetery of Mt. Stewart received its second reading and was passed clause by clause in committee of the whole, after some discussion.

The Registered Motor Vehicle Act and the School Act each received a third reading, and were accordingly passed, also An Act to amend the land assessment act, 1924, an act to amend an act to tax income and personal property.

On motion of Dr. MacMillan an act to incorporate the Oddfellows Hall Company received its third reading, and the bill embodying it was duly passed.

The second reading of "An act to amend an act to provide for the imposition of a tax upon the purchasers of gasoline was resumed in committee of the whole.

In connection with the discussion of clause 3 Mr. Stewart asked if the Premier would supply him with the figures on this subject which he had supplied last night.

Premier Saunders: $8,500.00 for sinking fund; $4,500.00, interest; $25,000.00 patrol; $15,000.00 rebates and expenses; $15,000.00 general revenue. Total revenue expected, $68,000 to $70,000.00.

Dr. MacMillan: I presume that the sinking fund is adequate to retire the debentures in ten years?

Premier Saunders: In eight years. But in any case, under ten years.

The act was passed with minor amendments.

An act to amend "the County Court Amendment act, 1878," next received its second reading in committee. It reads as follows:

BE IT ENACTED by the Lieutenant Governor and Legislative Assembly of the Province of Prince Edward Island, as follows:

(127) When a Judge of any County Court in the Province holds a Court for the trial or hearing of any case in any County for which it has not been appointed, at the request of a Judge of the County Court to whom the duty primarily belongs, and such first mentioned Judge sees fit to adjourn the case for judgment he may forward his judgment or decision by mail from within the County for which he has been appointed to the Clerk of the County Court who issued the summons or capias in the case so tried or heard. This Section shall apply to any pending suit.

An act to amend an act to further amend the Trustee act received its second reading in committee of the whole.

An act to incorporate the Stanley Sporting Club received its second reading, and was considered clause by clause in committee of the whole.

Mr. Stewart: I see there is no capitalization. Why give them incorporation and power to hold property when they have no capital stock?

The Premier gave it as his opinion that it was a common practice for such incorporated sporting clubs to have no capital.

He referred the hon. member to the act incorporating the Abegweit Amateur Athletic Association, passed in 1924 under his government.

The act was passed as read.

(At 12:50 p. m. the House adjourned till 3 p. m.)
