THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1911.

CHARLOTTETOWN GETS NO UNDESERVED PLUMS.

A correspondent who styles himself Onlooker wrote to the Summerside Pioneer some days since that in his opinion the sooner the loss of one of the four representatives comes the better it will be for the Province. His reason for this singular contention is that the "double team" for Queen's County and the "single teams" for King's and Prince do not pull together, and hence "Queen's County gets most of the plums."

The Pioneer itself cannot agree with Onlooker in his contention that the representatives of the east, center and west do not pull together, or that it would be an advantage to have our representation reduced, but holds that "other portions of the Province are not so well provided for in the matter of mail and railway accommodation as Charlottetown is." This latter contention is no doubt true, especially during such time as the winter boats ply direct from this port to Pictou. But there is no special favor shown to Charlottetown in that regard and no "plums" given by the political powers. It comes of what Charlottetown is in itself, its location and its relation to the other towns and rural communities of the Province.

Charlottetown contains a much larger population than any other town in the Province, and in fact more than all the others taken together. Its population now is probably one-eighth of that of the entire Island. It is the seat of Government and legislation, headquarters of the Supreme Court, of the educational system, of the P. E. Island Railway, and its two colleges embrace a large number of students. These conditions along with its central situation, being close to the actual centre of population, make of this city a very important centre for the receipt and distribution of the mails. The gross postal revenue is more than one-third of that of the whole Province, and the proportion of money orders paid here is nearly one-half.

We submit that these circumstances warrant the best service that can be given, not for the benefit of this city alone, but of the surrounding country as well. At least most of the other portions of the Province which are not so well served as Charlottetown in mail and railway arrangements are not really, so important as this city, and we trust the esteemed Pioneer will be fair enough to admit the fact. At the same time we agree with our western contemporary that when, in midwinter, the boats are transferred to Georgetown both mails and passengers should be promptly despatched to the west as well as to Charlottetown.

Our contemporary is frequently disposed to criticise The Guardian unfairly while this journal has always insisted upon fair play for Summerside and the west, although such fair play has not always been meted out. The fact must be admitted, however, that with the changes from summer to winter steamers, and with the shifting of the winter boats from one port to another from time to time, it is extremely difficult to furnish such mail and passenger service by rail within the Province as can satisfy all sections. The Guardian will always help cheerfully toward getting an improved mail and passenger service where it may be needed, whether that be west, east or elsewhere.

MOVEMENT AGAINST TIPPING.

The constant outlay for tips by travellers to porters, waiters and other servants has become an admitted nuisance and burden. It spread years ago from the old world, where tips were relatively small, to the new world, where they are now relatively large. Persons of great wealth set the pace which those of modest means are expected to follow and if they do not, they are met with incivility or neglect. In many fashionable American and Canadian hotels the guest who from objection to the system, or for want of spare cash or other cause neglects or refuses the expected tip, or offers a small coin instead of a big one will receive very contemptuous treatment.

But the poor worm will turn, it is said, and here and there the poor worm who travels is making up his mind to burst his bonds of slavery to the tipping habit. So the "no tip" hotel has come into vogue to supply him with a place of refuge. One such hotel was opened in London the great a year ago in September last and has announced profits of $200,000 on the year's business. The company now announces that it will build another hotel, a palatial structure containing 1000 rooms, the largest in London, and to be run on the same plan. The plan is this: no employee is allowed to accept a tip on pain of dismissal, and any guest offering a tip is ejected from the hotel if his offence becomes known.

The movement is gathering some strength among hotels and restaurants but apparently has not yet reached the Pullman cars in America where the colored porter, who ought to be paid by the company that employs him, levies two hundred to five hundred dollars a month upon the passengers in his car. It is a sort of beggary after all, only tolerated by most travellers from the dread of being singular, or from the love of ostentatious giving. Railways, restaurants and hotels should pay their servants sufficient remuneration for the work they do and forbid the giving or receiving of tips. The day when all will do so, is, however, probably far distant.

Influenza is again prevalent in Europe and America, and this year "the grip" has the new feature of attacking the stomach and bowels.

Down to a year ago the number of air-men killed in two years was five. The record of deaths from flying or attempts to fly last year made a total of thirty.

Since 1868 Mr. Balfour is the only party leader in the United Kingdom who has met with three successive defeats. He was defeated in 1906 by Sir Campbell Bannerman, and in January, 1910, and in December, 1910, by Mr. Asquith.

Whether our representatives are or are not aware of the fact, the question of our representation in the Senate and of the appointment of a Judge have become painfully acute. Somebody is at fault, either those holding the patronage at their disposal, or the Government, or both. The question will not down. The studied silence of the Government organ in regard to these matters only accentuates the well-grounded impatience of the public.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

Railways Offices, December 23th, 1910

Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Edmonton and other towns in British Columbia and the Northwest have adopted the principle of taxing land values and holding all improvements free. "Vancouver," says the St. John Telegraph, "has only three taxes, a tax on liquor, which is a Dominion tax; a tax on dogs, because they do not want dogs, and a tax on land because they do not want unused land." It goes on to tell how in the second month after the law went into effect in Vancouver contracts were made by citizens for the outlay of $1,750,000 in new buildings. And Vancouver is now drawing population from all the nearby American cities which collect their taxes in the old way.

OURRAGEOUS AND DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT ON MURRAY HARBOR TRAIN.

Mr. Editor:—

Referring to the above heading, I beg to state, that a few weeks ago, I was a passenger on the train from Charlottetown to Murray Harbor, and in all my travelling, I never experienced such vulgar, filthy and obscene language, also, cowardly dastardly, ruffianly and unbecoming conduct as I witnessed on that disagreeable and memorable trip.

The continuous and incessant unmanly and immoral actions, sayings and doings, were the outcome of two professional, low, mean, contemptible rowdies, who, not content with smashing and breaking car windows and indulging in low epithets, (too vulgar to herein mention) insulted ladies, gentlemen and all passengers, indiscriminately, notwithstanding the admonistions and remonstrances of the conductor and train hands, the latter being powerless to suppress such wholesale rowdyism, and attend to their respective duties.

Now, Mr. Editor, is there no reasonable or perfect immunity of person and property for the travelling public: Are passengers and the public after buying their ticket going to suffer insult, delay and injury in this manner? Is such rowdyism going to be tolerated on our Government Railways without protection for our conductors, railway officials and train hands? If so, the time may not be far distant, when we will be confronted, besieged and showered with full fledged modern Russian Anarchists fortified with Ross rifles. No doubt the genial and obliging conductor, (Mr. Tanton) was alive to a sense of his duty, and reported them at headquarters and if he did, in the name of Heaven why are not the wheels of justice put in motion the Superintendent, Attorney General, or whoever may be in authority and a salutary and never-to-be forgotten object-lesson taught to those two moral assassins? Surely in the interests of law, order and morality some one in authority, will not let these notorious scallawags go unpunished but will, I hope bring them to the ring bolt and give them their due. Awaiting anticipated action by the powers that be,

I am, Yours reluctantly
A DISGUSTED PASSENGER.

NFLD. PREMIER DISCUSSES FISHERIES

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—Sir Edward Morris, premier of Newfoundland, who was entertained at the chamber of commerce today, said that he anticipated no trouble with the Gloucester fishermen. Regarding trade relations between Newfoundland and the United States, the premier said:

"If reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland comes within the realm of reasonable diplomacy, my country will participate. Newfoundland has three or four items to offer the United States, the value of which is not to be disregarded. The first is an enormous catch of codfish, the distribution of which through the inland states of this union would help materially, in my opinion, to solve the question of the high cost of living.

"At the present time the United States stands first in the list of countries from which Newfoundland obtains her imports."

Sir Edward smiled when asked if Newfoundland was likely to unite with Canada and remarked that this is less likely than ever. "The question," he said, "has not been a plank in the platform of any party in the island for forty years. In Newfoundland the idea is not at all an agreeable one to the people and the fishermen think that confederation would be disastrous to them. Canada would have little to offer them by way of inducement that would prove of any lasting advantage to the country or to the people, and as Newfoundland's prosperity increases there is a correspondingly equal reduction in the possibilities of any such political departure."

MISS ADELAIDE FRENCH IN SUCH A LITTLE QUEEN.

In presenting Adelaide French as a star in Channing Pollock's delightful comedy success, "Such A Little Queen," The Paul Gilmore Co., guarantees to the play going public the same satisfactory returns for their investment as they received whenever witnessing a performance of any of the plays under their banner. While Miss French is virtually a new star her great work in "The Wolf" the "Mummy and the Humming Bird," and the "Third Degree," has earned her the place she now occupies. Miss French is equally clever in comedy or emotional roles, and her comedy work in "Such A Little Queen" will be a revelation.

The story in brief of "Such A Little Queen" is that of a Queen of Herzegovina who has been compelled to flee from her own country, by reason of a revolution. Accompanied by her prime minister, she seeks refuge in America. Coming to this country she becomes acquainted with a young American, to whom she is attracted by his straightforward manner and brisk cordiality. Without funds and without friends she is compelled to earn her daily bread by her own labor. Through the influence of the young American, she finally secures employment in a business office copying letters and doing other clerical work. She rents an inexpensive Harlem and her efforts at house keeping are ludicrous in the extreme. She is followed later by the young King of Bosnia, who is also exiled, to whom she is betrothed; and the novel idea of a king and Queen working for a living as every day Americans furnishes the author for ready opportunities for comedy and pathos. In the end the Queen is recalled by her subjects and again she takes up her sceptre and the story ends as all stories should, in a manner most interesting.

The staging of "Such A Little Queen" will be under the supervision of H. B. Harris, own general stage director, and Channing Pollock, the author, will also assist in the rehersals, which insures a complete production. The company supporting Miss French will be a carefully chosen one and each member will be chosen for his or her fitness to the part assigned them, which will insure a first class presentation of "Such a Little Queen."

CONDITIONS AT MORIEN IMPROVED

PORT MORIEN, Jan. 5.—The situation at this colliery has considerably improved during the past few days and little trouble is anticipated as a result of the recent cut in miners' wages. A large number of the men have returned to work, and accepted the reduction, tho there are still many of the miners idle. Should the men now idle wish to return to work the company will make places for them in a short time. The statement made that the management have violated the terms of the Lemieux act is not correct. The men were notified in November of the proposed cut in wages.

A number of the officials of the U. M. W. are in town, among whom are President William Watkins, of Springhill. It is said the U. M. W., through its solicitor, have notified the company of their violation of the act. As far as can be learned, there is little doubt that all the men will be back at work within the next few weeks, as it is the desire of the men, as well as of the company, that all trouble be avoided if possible.

Dear Sirs:—Permit me through the columns of your largely circulated paper, The Guardian, to extend my heartfelt thanks to all those, at home and abroad, who so willingly helped my daughter Margaret J. to secure the beautiful prize she was successful enough to win in your recent contest. I know that without their kind support such a result could never have been accomplished. I also wish to thank the manager and his staff for their endeavors to carry out the contest in an honest and straightforward manner, which I am led to believe they did. We have received the organ and it is well worthy of praise. Our friends are highly pleased with the instrument. All those who supported my daughter are cordially invited to call at my home any time to see the organ. Thanking you again, one and all, I remain,
