Morning Stock Letter

(Received over Pitfield and Co's Private Wire)

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—The London market is firm again today. There is no improvement in the labor situation as far as General Motors and the glass industry is concerned. The strikes seem to be spreading in the General Motors various plants. We would expect another active and irregular market today, there may be some profit taking towards the close today based on the thought that there will be some profit taking on January 2 to realize a profit for 1937. The usual pattern at this time of the year is for strength toward the last few days of December to carry over the first few days of January followed by a trading range and then higher prices in February. All the rail equipment stocks gave a good account of themselves yesterday and look higher. One stock in this group which acted well yesterday and looks immediately higher is General Railway Signal. We would also expect the oils, steels, coppers and building stocks to do better today.

TORONTO, Dec. 31—Northern Mines News Items—

Coniarum—Next year will see the end of the long preparatory campaign at Coniarum in sight, and with it the ending of extraordinary expenditures for forward development and heavy duty equipment.

Macassa—An ore width of 20 feet on the 3,375 foot level and 8 feet on the 3,175 foot level indicated with average grade well above the mine average.

Hard Rock—Ore assaying $157.50 across 2.5 feet for a length to date of thirty feet has been obtained in drifting west of Hard Rock's No. 2 shaft. Drifting west from No. 1 shaft has encountered ore in contact with the property at a point approximately 1,400 feet east of No. 2 shaft area. This discovery is believed to be significant of the continuation of the ore making conditions in the area between this point and No. 3 shaft.

Kerr Addison—Confirmatory evidence of the vertical continuation of ore indicated by recent diamond drilling is revealed in initial sampling returns from the old workings at the 175 foot level. Resampling of this face yielded four sections averaging 15 feet of $15.70 grade.

TORONTO, Dec. 31—Madsen Red Lake—The important new discoveries on the property of Madsen Red Lake Gold Mines in the Red Lake District made during 1936 and the exploratory work are summarized in a report from W. S. Hugheson, secretary. So far as the work has progressed to date there is indicated by incomplete exploration on the north zone an ore body at least 800 feet long from 25 to 30 feet thick and of indetermined depth with gold content of $6 per ton.

NOTICE

PAVED HIGHWAYS CLOSED TO MOTOR VEHICLES

Commencing on this date, until further notice, all paved highways in this Province are closed for motor vehicle traffic, except in such cases where the total weight of vehicle and load does not exceed 4,000 pounds, and except in the case of regular passenger bus services and in other cases where special permission is obtained from the Minister of Public Works and Highways.

Anyone driving on Provincial highways contrary to this order shall be duly prosecuted.

Dated the 31st day of December, A.D., 1936.

Financial Review

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—(CP)—The year 1936 was an almost unbroken succession of happy days for investment and speculative markets of the United States.

The quoted value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange swelled $15,000,000,000, continuing with only occasional interruptions the persistent ascent that began in March, 1935.

Prices of the principal grains pushed steadily higher, spurred by below-normal grain harvests and the hoarding by war-worried nations of every available bushel of cereal.

The bond market progressed uphill to some of the highest levels on record—and this in face of a heavy supply of new issues. Long-term bond issues floated up to the $3,500,000,000 mark; more than $2,700,000,000 of this total represented efforts of corporations to save money by issuing bonds at lower interest rates.

Basic commodity prices finished the year more than 10 per cent above quotations at the beginning of 1936. The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale commodities stood at 86 per cent of the 1926 average—the highest level since May 1930.

The Wall Street stock market set a dizzying pace for other markets. The average price of all shares listed on this principal exchange recovered to the highest point since early 1931.

It was notable that many of the sharpest gains were made in heavy industry issues such as steels and railway equipment. Other leaders were farm implements, rubber tires and electrical equipment. Rails came forward substantially and utilities advanced moderately.

A heavy influx of foreign funds, reflected fears of devaluation and armed conflict in some parts of the Old World, was regarded as a contributing factor to the rise at times. This inflow was so large as to prompt the United States government to consider means of controlling it, on the grounds that it was "hot" money, subject to quick and, perhaps, unsettling withdrawal.

Despite a scant increase in the use of credit in the stock market, the potentialities of cheap credit and rising prices caused several leaders to warn against dangers of excessive speculation.

The Federal Securities Exchange Commission steadily developed its program of contraol over trading. Investigators followed trading and charges of manipulation were preferred against a few members of the exchange, including two of the larger houses.

As the year closed on grain exchanges, wheat, corn, oats, and rye quotations stood at the highest point since early 1929. Approximate gains over prices at the beginning of the year were: corn and oats, 73 per cent; rye, 58 per cent; wheat, 10 per cent.

Commodity circles explained wheat's comparative lag as stemming from the high prices carried over from 1935. The world's supplies of many cereals were at record low-levels. Wheat stocks, for example, were recently reported shorter than at any time in the past decade.

Robert P. Boylan, President of the Chicago Board of Trade, viewed as a notable feature of the year "the fact that in all grains, and at all times, the cash markets have dominated the situation rather than any speculative activity."

A record post-depression demand for all types of base metals was created by widespread industrial recovery and the race to re-arm by many important world powers.

Copeer, late in the year, touched 11 cents a pound, a rise of 19 per cent from the year's opening quotation; lead had an 18 per cent advance; tin and antimony followed with eight and nine per cent gains, respectively; zinc was four per cent ahead.

The steel industry had by far the most romantic chapter in the book of recovery. Ingot production moved upward from 48 1-2 per cent of capacity to around 77 per cent, with 90 per cent of demand coming from makers of ploughshares and other peace-time materials, rather than swords.

Silver was dominated largely by the United States treasury's buying policy. The open market price fluctuated between 44 3-4 cents and 49 3-4 cents a fine ounce, with the lower quotation in effect as the year drew to an optimistic close.
