DICK RESENTS NAN'S NAGGING

Chapter 54.

When Agnes left us she said she had enjoyed her visit, and complimented me highly upon my housekeeping and cooking.

After she had gone Dick and I compared notes. For the first time in months I was perfectly frank with him about expense—the cost of the dinner, and so forth. I figured it was for his sister, so no need for camouflage.

"My word, but I had no idea food cost so much!" he exclaimed when I went over each item.

"You see it isn't easy to live on your salary—how necessary it is to make money!" I returned.

"I see we would either go to jail or the poorhouse if we gave many dinner parties."

"Well, we won't give dinner parties often. But I do want to feel we can have company once in a while. Did you make any money today?" it was my nightly query.

"Not a cent!"

"You are sure you tried?"

"Sure!"

"Perhaps you will tomorrow."

"Perhaps." Then: "Mr. Burns was in the office. You've heard me speak of him. He told me of a stock to buy. But I am almost afraid to risk it."

"If he told you I shouldn't think there was any risk," I replied in my ignorance.

"If I could take his tip and it turned out right I might make enough money to buy a lot, or to make a first payment on a small house if we could find one to suit us. Then Junior might have a place to run. I feel sort of guilty keeping that youngster in New York."

"That would be lovely!" I exclaimed. Dick must be encouraged in this mood, although I had not yet decided I wanted to leave New York.

We said nothing more until Junior had been put to bed. He and his father had their nightly romp (I always wondered who enjoyed it most, Dick or Junior) before I undressed him.

"I do wish there was some way," I mused as we sat quietly together, I sewed, Dick smoking his pipe. I hated a pipe, but Dick had declared he couldn't afford to smoke cigars, so I couldn't very well say anything.

"I do, too," he returned. There was no need to explain my reference. "It's either the hardest thing in the world to make money or the easiest. If I could make money enough to satisfy you I would be very happy, and perhaps you would stop your everlasting nagging about it. Oh, I beg your pardon, Nan. I didn't mean to speak like that. But, girl dear, you have nagged me unmercifully, you know."

"If I have it has been for your own good."

"Perhaps—perhaps not! Time will tell."

He waited a moment, then:

"Forgive me, Nan, for speaking so roughly, but it's true. Almost every day for months you have said something about my making more money; your need of it; your desires. I would give a good deal to make enough, at least, so that you wouldn't keep everlasting ly saying 'I don't try.' It wouldn't be possible for me to do more than work hard and so have my salary increased—gain a better position slowly—as other men do, were it not for that little legacy rather left me. But perhaps with that I can hurry matters a little. If I lose it we won't be any worse off than before we got it."

"Don't even think of losing it! That would be dreadful!" I exclaimed.

"Be a sport, Nan. You'll have to be if I do as you want me to. The risk one takes in speculating is known to everyone. It's a toss-up, with the odds against you, to make a sort of a bull."

"You just must not lose that $5,000. And you must make money with it. You have chances if you would take them. Every single thing those men told you to do has turned out right. And see how quickly you made that $200."

"Come on to bed, Nan. When you get on money discussions there's no stopping you. You should have been a man."

"I know I would have been a successful one if I had been."

"Perhaps!"—his usual answer.

LETTER FROM CARTER & CO LTD TO THE PUBLIC

IN SATURDAY'S ISSUE OF THE DAILY PATRIOT

The double column scarehead statement is made: "An attempt to damage the reputation of a Toronto Seed Firm, Malicious Letter inserted in Patriot as advertisement and paid for by CARTER & CO., SEEDSMEN, CHARLOTTETOWN"

As this statement is intended to insinuate that CARTER & CO., LIMITED are the chief instigators and responsible for this "Malicious" letter we wish the public to know the facts, as we do not intend to be the scapegoat for the Patriot or any one else.

On August 2nd, 1920, a letter signed by Mr. John Jamieson appeared in the Watchman Newspaper of this City headed "Letter from Sturgeon" which gave what we considered a highly appreciative unsolicited testimonial to Carter & Co.'s seeds.

Our attention was called to this letter some time after the date it appeared in the WATCHMAN and considering the recommendation to purchase clover seed from CARTER & CO., LTD. a good advertisement for us we wrote to Mr. Jamieson on August 26th and thanked him for this gratuitous recommendation of Carter's Clover Seed unsolicited by us (as we do not know Mr. Jamieson, he is an entire stranger to us, we never saw him to our knowledge) and asked him for his permission to insert his letter that appeared in the WATCHMAN in the Charlottetown Patriot or Guardian. We received the following letter from Mr. Jamieson, dated August 30th:—

Sturgeon, August 30th, 1920.

Messrs. Carter & Co.
Wholesale and Retail Seedsmen,
Charlottetown, P.E.I.,

Dear Sirs:—

Your letter of the 26th instant received and I beg to inform you that I highly appreciate the sentiments contained in your letter. I have no objection whatever for to publish my letter in the daily Patriot and the daily Guardian, just the same as I wrote it to the Watchman, for it contains the truth

Yours most truly,
JOHN JAMIESON.

On getting Mr. Jamieson's permission we asked the Editor of the Patriot to insert Mr. Jamieson's letter to the Watchman, a copy of which was handed him at the time and he was also shown Mr. Jamieson's letter of permission to use same. The Editor of the Patriot agreed to publish this letter, and we told him that we would pay for same if he did not wish to insert it free. Well the letter appeared once in the Patriot under date of September 2nd. Not knowing Mr. Jamieson personally but supposing him to be a truthful man, and that what he stated in his letter was correct, we asked him to allow us to use his letter. Now what do we find? Mr. Jamieson retracts all he said in his letter and says that his statements were wrongfully made and without foundation in fact. Then what under the sun was Mr. Jamieson's idea in publishing such statements over his own signature to the public, which he stated in a subsequent letter to us contained the truth. Again, in Mr. Jamieson's apology he states that the said letter was forwarded by him to the Patriot at the request of CARTER & CO., SEEDSMEN of Charlottetown. Here is another false statement. The letter in question was not forwarded to us by him but was taken from the columns of the Watchman by ourselves. When Mr. Jamieson again writes letters to the public and undertakes to advise the public, he had better see to it that his statements are truthful and founded on fact, and be man enough to back up his statements if they are true.

Now, as to the Patriot's part in the matter, we must certainly object to be made the scapegoat of the Patriot newspaper, and we most emphatically state that there was no malicious intentions whatever on our part. We had no thought whatever by having Mr. Jamieson's letter published in the Patriot for the purpose of injuring the reputation of the Wm. Rennie Co., with whom we are on friendly terms, or any one else. Had we the slightest knowledge that the statements of Mr. Jamieson were without foundation and wrongfully made we would not for a moment had his letter republished. As to any malicious intentions on our part, (as the Patriot would lead the public to believe) to injure the reputation or reflect on the reliability of any person or firm the same was far from our minds. But we were mislead by Mr. Jamieson's seemingly truthful statements, which now turn out to be pure fabrications and without an element of truth in them. We now demand from the Patriot an immediate apology for using the words, "Malicious letter inserted in the Patriot and paid for by CARTER & Co., SEEDSMEN' CHARLOTTETOWN."

We are, etc.,
CARTER & CO., LTD.,
ISAAC CARTER, President.

Hints for the Motorist

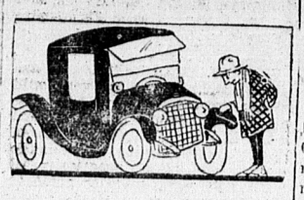
BY ALBERT L. CLOUGH

RUNNING FAST ON MIDDLE GEAR

L. W. C. asks: Does it harm a car to run it fast on middle speed?

Answer: It is never well to run much over one-half as fast on middle gear as you consider prudent to run on direct-drive, as at any higher speed the engine would be turning over fast. Some manufacturers advise never exceeding 10 or 15 m. p. h. on second speed, but this is probably out of consideration for the transmission. The "pilot bearing," between the clutch-shaft and the final drive shaft of the transmission operates at high speed, when other than the direct drive is in use and, when a car is speeded up on "second" this bearing may heat and wear badly, in protracted service, unless lubrication is of the best. If there is any doubt as to the ability of transmission parts to withstand them, high speeds on second should be avoided and they should never be allowed unless the pulling is too hard to admit of the direct-drive being used.

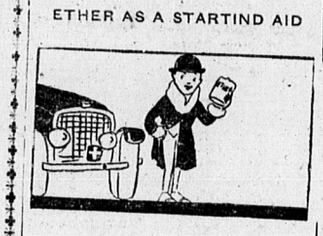
RIGHT SPRINGS HAVE SAGGED



A. B. S. writes: After two years of service, my car became considerably lower on the right than on the left side. I had the springs reset, but this remedied the trouble but temporarily, as the right springs have again settled. What do you advise in such a case?

Answer: Resetting the springs is the only remedy for this trouble, but it would seem that the work was not done properly in your case. There are very few blacksmiths that understand how to do this properly, for unless the exact nature of the steel and its required heat-treatment are known and followed the results will be unsatisfactory. The factory that built your car could probably reset these springs so as to give good service or furnish you new ones and we suggest that you take it up with them. Perhaps their branch in your nearest large city, could do the same.

ETHER AS A STARTIND AID



W. E. R. asks: Why is ether good for starting a cold engine and how is it used?

Answer: Ether evaporates freely and produces an explosive mixture with air at very low temperatures, at which present day gasoline vaporizes, but very slightly, and thus it is easier to make an explosive mixture in engine cylinders with ether than with gasoline. A mixture of say one part of ether and two of gasoline, introduced to the amount; of a teaspoonful into each cylinder, through the priming-cock, priming-plug or spark-plug opening is pretty sure to fire, no matter how cold it is or it may be used in a manifold primer. It can also be used as follows: When the car is garaged in cold weather shut off the buretor supply from the tank, draw off the gasoline in the float chamber and fill it with the regular fuel supply. When the engine is next started it will be on the ether mixture and the operation will be easy and quick. If the float chamber cover is readily removable this procedure is quite practicable.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

IT is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestines, while others would act only on the lower or large intestines, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefitted by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.
