ENOUGH WHEAT FOR 20 YEARS

OTTAWA, Sept. 24—(CP)—When Canada has harvested her crop this year she will have enough wheat on hand to meet her normal requirements of this product for human food for 20 years, officials estimated today.

When the new crop, estimated at 615,243,000 bushels, has been garnered it will be added to a carryover of about 400,000,000 bushels from previous crops to make a total of at least 1,000,000,000 bushels. Annual domestic consumption of wheat for food has been running about 50,000,000 bushels annually.

strength of war industries through increased introduction of women, sharp curtailment of less-essential industries, and increased industrial efficiency.

Methods of increasing plant efficiency and using labor strength at present in industry to the full capacity are being closely studied in an effort to meet increasing demands of war plants without drawing upon additional manpower.

The army's requisition for men in September was 20,000, compared with 25,000 in July but informed officials do not accept this as any indication that there will be a slackening off of army requirements. The extent of Dieppe casualties — more than 3,350 killed, wounded and missing from a Canadian army force of about 5,000 men — have indicated the need for strong reinforcements.

In some circles it is predicted the army manpower requisitions are likely to be stepped up, rather than decreased.

War Services Minister Thorson last week said the pool of men in the present age group eligible for call-up, 20 to 40 years, inclusive would soon be exhausted and that it would become necessary to call 19-year-olds. The extension would make available about 100,000 men.

The possibility is seen also of a tightening of regulations and closer check of industrial needs which might make available some men who have been granted postponements.

aroused among the American public also shows that though you may have had a hearing, the half-baked isolationism you are still crying is now dead and damned.

"Your are, of course, an eminent novelist. It is only that fact that gives your statements any sort of interest. You specialize in morbid psychological studies of human character.

"I suggest your next analysis should be into the queer mentality of Mr. Dreiser.

"Finally, Mr. Dreiser, you are guilty, say reports, of this unpardonable lie:—

" 'Mr. Churchill has no intention of opening a second front. He is afraid the Communists will rule the world, so he does nothing except send thousands of Canucks to slaughter at Dieppe. He didn't send any English, so far as I know.' "

"I shouldn't say too much about that to the Canadians if I were you. Dieppe was primarily a Canadian show and magnificently they performed it. But they are not so ignorant as you about the part of British commandos, the navy, the R.A.F. and the contingents of United States Rangers and Fighting French troops.

"After the poisoned words you have spoken it is good to hear that Canada has banned you from speaking and that you are not likely ever to step into another lecture platform in your own country."

The letter concluded: "Your most famous novel, Mr. Dreiser, is 'The American Tragedy.' What a tragedy it would be for America, if you and other oddities who think like you were to have their way."

No reports have been published in the United States regarding any federal inquiry into Dreiser's statements in a Toronto interview, nor has there been any report that he may never make another lecture platform appearance in the United States.

A spokesman for the Canadian Justice Department said Monday that an order had been issued banning Dreiser from making any public statements or speeches in Canada after complaints had been received covering anti-British statements made by the novelist in the interview.

Dreiser's remarks were called to the attention of Justice Minister St. Laurent by Attorney-General Gordon Conant of Ontario "for investigation. . . With a view to prosecution" under the Defence of Canada regulations.

Dreiser was scheduled to speak before the Town Forum Committee, a discussion group, which cancelled its meeting after learning of the protests of authorities yavino area in the Leningrad defence belt. One Russian sergeant alone was credited with demolishing nine light German tanks and wiping out a German platoon in the fighting there.

The Russians emphasized that Stalingrad still is in peril because of the Germans' disregard of "colossal losses," but the Red garrison thus far has held out for a month since the Germans began their direct assault on the city Aug. 25.

The Germans claimed a penetration of the southern part of the city as long ago as Sept. 13, but the Russians first acknowledged fighting on the northwestern outskirts on Sept. 17.

At the end of a month of direct assault Stalingrad was a city of flame, bursting bombs, charging tanks and ruined buildings spouting fire from machine-guns and automatic rifles.

German tanks, in masses as large as 200, smashed again down the street; furious fire from the barges and boats of the Volga river flotilla, moving back and forth amid bombs and mines, pounded into the Axis lines and positions on the banks above and below Stalingrad.

Heavy Raid On Flensburg

LONDON, Sept. 24 — (CP) — R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers flying at house-top levels dumped huge loads of explosives on the heavily-reinforced German submarine works at Flensburg last night in a renewal of the campaign to stamp out the U-boat menace at its source. At least two squadrons of R.C.A.F. bombers took part.

For greater accuracy, many of the big four-motored Lancaster and Halifax bombers swooped to a few hundred feet to drop their bombs squarely on the submarine yards. After explosions in the yards clouds of black smoke filled the sky.

Machine-gunners raked gun-posts and searchlights from as low as 50 feet and many of the attackers flew back across German territory at roof-top height to escape anti-aircraft fire.

The Air Minstry announced 10 bombers were lost, considered a small price for a heavy blow at this U-boat breeding nest which ranks with Bremen, Hamburg and Emden as a submarine fabricating centre.

Flensburg, a Baltic port in the Prussian province of Schleswig-Holstein, near the Danish frontier, has been bombed five times before, three times in July.

Canadian fliers dropped bombs from hilltop level after flying through cloud patches, they reported, while their machine-gunners opened fire from this low altitude, putting several searchlights out of action.

The R.C.A.F. fliers were led by Wing Cmdr. Len Fraser of Vancouver.

PO. C.W. Higgins of Charlottetown said his altimeter showed 100 feet above sea level as he flew home.

Searchlights were extinguished by PO. Larry Murphy and PO. Floyd Luxford of East Angus, Que., and PO. Phil LePage of Quebec, gunners.

Murphy told of a heavy explosion and red glare after the bombing and said it may have been a gas works or a submarine plant, but smoke over the target prevented him from seeing what was hit.

The Flensburg attack was accompanied by a raid of coastal command planes, manned by Netherlands fliers, on an Axis convoy along the Netherlands coast. Three ships were hit, authorities reported. Canadian fliers also hit at enemy shipping in this area.

Three Nazi bombers raided Britain during the night. One was destroyed.

Explosive-type incendiary bombs were reported on a town in north-east England and one or two fires were started but authorities said they were extinguished quickly.

Two Beaufighters of the coastal command shot down two German bombers in the Bay of Biscay this morning, the Air Ministry reported.

176,789 Unemployed Women Registered

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Selective Service Officials tonight reported 176,789 women in the 20-24 age group registered as unemployed in tabulations compiled up to Monday night. Hundreds of rural points are still to be heard from.

Of this total 35,694 — just more than 20 per cent —signified willingness to work full time in the nation's war effort and 10,826 indicated they would be able to work part time.

Officials have reported to Ottawa that many women younger than 20 years have reported to employment offices expressing their willingness to work, and a record has been made of these women.

Large numbers of women older than 24 years have also reported, telling officials they are prepared to accept work if arrangements are made to care for their children.

Peak of the registration was reached at the end of last week, with a considerable number of registrations still coming in this week.

A break-down of the figures so far compiled for the three Maritime Provinces shows that 17,138 registered with 1,180 prepared to take part time work and 4,005 full time.

In Quebec 43,499 registered, 1,683 willing to work part time and 5,194 full time. For Ontario the registration was 62,824 with 4,322 for part time work and 12,195 for full time.

The prairie region reported a registration of 39,785, 2,444 part time and 11,003 full time. In the Pacific region with a registration of 13,543, there were 1,196 prepared to take part time employment and 3,297 full time.

Death of Mrs. Margaret J. Merkel

HALIFAX, Sept. 24—(CP)—Margaret Jane Merkel, 83, widow of Rev. Andrew DeBlois Merkel, one-time Anglican rector of Chester, N.S., died early tonight.

Mrs. Merkel was the daughter of John and Lucy (Kaiser) Thomas and was born at Martin's River, Lunenburg County, where her father, a licensed lay reader of the Church of England, taught school in the days preceding Confederation. Later the family took up a grant on the Chester-Windsor road near Chester.

Mrs. Merkel was married at Oak Hill, N.Y., by the Rev. Joseph Norwood on Christmas Day, 1883. Surviving are three sons, Andrew D. Merkel, Superintendent of The Canadian Press, Halifax, James W. Merkel, postmaster, Digby, N.S. and Gerald C. Merkel, Chicago; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

An active and consistent church worker, she will be long remembered in Trinity Parish, Digby, where she spent most of her adult life.

The funeral will be held from Trinity Church, Digby, at 2.30 p.m., Saturday.

10,000,000 MORE

OTTAWA, Sept. 24—(CP)—Agriculture department officials estimated today 10,000,000 more hens and chickens are parading the farm-yards of Canada than in pre-war years.

The gain in numbers which has brought the total population to about 68,000,000 birds is a direct reflection of the demands of the United Kingdom market for Canadian eggs. During the present calendar year contracts for 45,000,000 dozen eggs are being met.

Canada's First Magnesium Plant

OTTAWA, Sept. 24 — (CP) — Canada's first magnesium plant which went into operation near Renfrew, Ont., a few weeks ago is surpassing the most optimistic expectations and turning out metal equal in purity to that of laboratory tests, munitions and supply department officials said today.

The $5,000,000 plant, financed by the government to meet urgent war needs for magnesium, seems likely to give Canada an important place in the post-war world as producer of a metal which has rocketed to new importance.

Located near a dolomite deposit at Haley's corners, close to Renfrew, the plant uses a new process developed by Dr. L.M. Pidgeon of the National Research Laboratories and now in commercial use for the first time. Laboratory tests proved so successful that it was almost immediately adopted for new plants in the United States where magnesium has peviously been produced from sea water.

Not until the war did magnesium assume great importance but expectations are that it will play a large part in post-war changes, particularly in the transportation field, with streamlined trains, lighter automobiles and new type airplane.

For war purposes magnesium is being used as an alloy with aluminum, adding strength without adding weight, and alone in castings for airplane engines.

Large quantities of magnesium are also required for incendiary bombs and flares.

The Renfrew plant now is in only partial production but is expected to reach a capacity of 10 tons a day next year.

General Situation Is Unchanged

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 25 —(Friday) —(CP) —Allied patrols have made contact with the enemy in the Owen Stanley Mountains of New Guinea, a communique reported today, but the "general situation" in that area is unchanged.

The report of renewed activity in the mountain jungles through which the Japanse have advanced upon Port Moresby was the first in more than a week. There was no indication whether it presaged a large-scale resumption of the enemy push southward against the big Allied base.

While the land fighting was reactivated, Allied air forces continued to press their relentless attacks on Japanese centres behind the front in New Guinea and outlying isands.

Bombers probably sank a medium Japanese merchantman at Rabaul, New Britain, the High Command said, while other Allied planes bombed and strafed Buna and Kokoda on New Guinea, as well as Buka at the northern tip of the Solomons Islands.
