U.S. Committee Okays S. Viet Nam War Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara has defended American planes and material in South Viet Nam as "the best equipment available for the unique task at hand."

And, as he tried to refute charges that obsolescent planes in South Viet Nam had caused the death of two U.S. flyers, the secretary received a firm vote of confidence from the House of Representatives' foreign affairs committee.

The committee, complying with a request of McNamara and President Johnson, added $125,000,000 to the U.S. foreign aid bill to step up the war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

The foreign affairs committee acted while McNamara was testifying at a closed session of the house armed services committee.

After the meeting, McNamara told reporters he had assured the committee that the equipment in South Viet Nam is the best available in three qualified ways. He said the equipment was chosen with regard to "the enemy threat," "the capability of the (South) Vietnamese to operate it" and "the effectiveness of it (the equipment) in . . . operational requirements."

Representative Carl Vinson (Dem. Ga.), committee chairman told reporters:

"I am behind the position of the secretary in the prosecution of this war."

Lesage Boosts Speculation On Steel Plant, Power Deal

QUEBEC (CP —Premier Lesage did little here to discourage speculation that decisions are to be made soon on a Quebec steel complex and on export of power from the Hamilton Falls project in Labrador.

He told reporters that a cabinet meeting he had just attended had been devoted to consideration of legislation, a part of which would be added to the "extremely heavy" legislative program he cited in the legislative assembly Tuesday night as a reason the session could last as long as mid-September.

Tuesday night he had said tabling of a bill on the steel complex is "probable" and he indicated bills on the export of Hamilton Falls power and on the Quebec-Newfoundland border might be tabled this session.

"I am a born optimist," ae replied to reporters questions on the Hamilton Falls project Wednesday.

QUESTIONED IN HOUSE

Later in the assembly, Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson asked Mr. Lesage whether he plans to appoint an arbitration board to bridge the difference between Rene Levesque, Quebec's natural resources minister, and Joseph Smallwood, premier of Newfoundland.

Quebec and Newfoundland authorities have been negotiating on the terms by which the power from Hamilton Falls would travel through Quebec from Labrador to the United States border where it would be exported.

Mr. Smallwood has raised the possibility of bypassing Quebec by using undersea cabels to get the power to the U.S. border. Mr. Levesque has said that transmission through Quebec is the only economic way of doing it.

Mr. Lesage replied to Mr. Johnson that the arbiter would "certainly not be the chief of the opposition."

Quebecers Said Masters Now In Own Province

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage said Quebecers are masters in their own province and criticized those who say otherwise.

Citing the recent announcement that General Motors Corporation is establishing a passenger car plant near Montreal, Mr. Lesage took issue with the "few preachers of doom who saw all in black and claimed that the government's economic policy discouraged foreign investors."

"Only the timorous, the defeatists, the independence-seekers . . . and perhaps also a few shady or jealous politicians still refuse to acknowledge that we Quebecers are at last masters in our own home."

The premier was speaking at a $50-a-plate dinner put on by the Liberal Federation of Quebec, before which he reviewed in detail the accomplishments of his government in the last four years.

Text of his speech was released to the press before delivery.

Of his government's work, Mr. Lesage said:

"It is my profound conviction that it would not be possible for anyone to do more or do faster," what the Liberal administration has done to transform Quebec into a modern province.

On federal - provincial relations, it was difficult to keep intact "the primacy of our province's objectives" without taking away from the legitimate interests of the country.

But, the premier said, Quebecers could "count on me to see that our point of view continues to triumph."

1. You are declared with the West hand at Four Hearts. North leads the five of hearts. You win the nine with the ten and return a high heart. North takes the ace and returns the eight, which you win, South having discarded two low diamonds. How would you now play the hand?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the queen of diamonds. The contract can be made regardless of how the opponents' cards are divided, but how would you play the hand to assure nine tricks?

1. There is a possibility of winning the rest of the tricks by taking a club finesse, but there is also the possibility of going down by taking the club finesse. This could occur, for example, if South had the queen of clubs and North the A-Q of spades.

The contract can be guaranteed 100 per cent by entering dummy with a diamond and returning a low spade. Assume that South follows low and you play the ten. Even if the ten loses to the queen the contract is still safe.

Let's say that North wins with the queen and returns a club. Go up with the ace and lead another spade. The king will presumably lose to the ace, but the jack in dummy now takes care of the potential club loser. The most you can lose with this method of play is a heart and two spades.

2. Win the diamond in either hand, cash the ace of clubs, and then play a low club. If South follows low, finesse the nine. This safety play assures the contract even though the nine loses to the jack. It is impossible to give North - South any spade holding that would permit them to cash four spade tricks at this point. You cannot lose more than three spades and a club with this method of play.

If you neglected to finesse the nine of clubs, you could be defeated by going up with the king if South had some such holding as:

You would have only eight sure tricks, and if you attempted to establish an extra trick by driving up a club, South would take the jack and return a low spade, whereupon the defense could cash four spades to defeat the contract one trick.
