G. M. Unveils "Aerotrain"

LAGRANGE, Ill., (AP)—General Motors unveiled its experimental "Aerotrain" Monday designed to reduce the high cost of carrying railroad passengers.

The train seats 400 persons in 10 coaches. Each 40-foot car rests on four wheels instead of the eight used under standard-sized coaches.

N. C. Dezendorf, vice-president of GM and general manager of its electro-motive division, said the new, low-built train presents several "firsts" in railroad history.

The diesel-electric locomotive is powered by a 12-cylinder, 1,200-horsepower engine. Its top speed is 102 miles an hour. The low centre of gravity—45 inches above the rail—and its light weight permit faster average speeds than with present, large equipment.

The 53-foot locomotive consumes about 1.3 gallons of fuel oil a mile at its top speed with full load. This means that 400 persons could be hauled from Chicago to New York for approximately $125 worth of fuel, or about 32 cents per passenger, Dezendorf said.
