The Cadre takes a holiday next week --- look for the next edition on Tuesday, October 22.

CADRE

official publication of u.p.e.i

off campus 10¢

vol.6 no.4

oct.8, 1974

ARCHIVES
U.P.E.I.

The CADRE in conjunction with the Universities Objectives Committee bring you a special education edition, featuring:

The University Game

See articles on education pages 2,5,8 & 9

START

Start - spend $600.00 tuition

Freshman arrives on campus- mind almost totally destroyed by high school - the freedom of university may be his only hope - Good Luck

Goes to Pig & Whistle and passes out - lose one turn

Registrar can't find your file - back to one

Computer can't find your card - lose two turns

You can't find a place to live - lose one turn

You join the CADRE staff - free roll: this is a biased game

You decide to live at home - back two spaces

You sign up for your courses thinking that they will be what you always wanted - go back to one

You ask a prof who believes "Students should be rarely seen and never heard" a question - go forward three spaces

You find a professor who is really interesting and can present the subject well - extra roll

You fail to submit your subject change slip to the computer before the time limit is up - lose one turn

You discover after five weeks of studying nothing has any real value or relevance to life - extra roll

You read a feature article in the CADRE and findout just how bad your mind has been destroyed by your previous education - extra roll

Student loan application gets lost in bureaucracy - lose one turn

Eat in cafeteria every day and think the food is great - back to one

Spend $40 for text books the prof never uses - lose one turn

The university forms a committee to study objectives and you think its a good example of concrete action- turn back

Professor notices you in class - gain extra throw, but lose ten marks on exam

Get pissed off with inaction and run for student union promising to promote meaningful change in the university - extra roll

Get elected to student union and do nothing but hang around the Student Union office and drink coffee - back to one

You buy a suscription to the Charlottetown Guardian - lose two turns

You believe what your Poli Sci prof said about democracy and try to apply it to your department - extra roll

Free space - something at the university should be free

Prof decides to have Christmas exam - sit here and cry until your next turn

You get asked into the profs private office for a meeting and you accept - back 3 spaces

Free space to give you time to study for Christmas exams

You or your girlfriend gets pregnant - drop out of game

You lose one turn

You learn to play bridge rather late in the game for that sort of thing - lose one turn

You lose your virginity - lose one turn

Christmas vacation - free space to hear your parents tell you how great university is and that they hope you are not

A) going to lose your virginity

B) smoking pot

C) talking to any radicals

Welcome back - lose a turn for not catching up on all the work you thought you would over Christmas

You join the CADRE staff - extra roll

President gives you nice liberal answer which means "give it time" or "We're dealing with that" Nothing unusual about this square

You start getting mad not only about your own personal problems but those of your fellow students as well - take two extra turns

You participat in a sit-in on a question the administration hasn't dealt with for five years Administration refuses to negotiate "with a gun at their head" Also a standard square

You discover the computer has you writing exams in four courses you never registered for - lose two turns

You can't find the room the exam is being held in - miss one turn

You decide exams are irrelevant to any kind of meaningful life - win game unless you consider making more than $10,000 a year necessary for a meaningful life

All this time you've been at the wrong university - you were accepted at Mt. A. - go back to start - they play the same game

FINISH

.P.E.I.