American Official Recalled For Criticism Of Canada

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — The American nuclear energy liaison representative in Canada has been recalled to Washington for criticizing publicly Canada's role in the Cuban crisis, it was disclosed here.

Robert W. Ritzmann, liaison officer for the United States Atomic Energy Commission at Canada's atomic energy establishment at Chalk River, Ont., will leave Canada Dec. 3 on the orders of the commission and with the approval of the U.S. state department.

Mr. Ritzmann, liaison officer at Chalk River since Sept. 1, 1961, commented in a letter published in the Washington Post Monday on an editorial in the newspaper praising Canada for its quick support of U.S. action in the Cuban crisis.

The published letter said that "Canada is most happy to let the United States carry the entire burden of defending the North American continent." It also said that "the image that Canada is our good friend to the north who can always be counted on, is not true."

LETTER MAIN FACTOR

An AEC official in Washington said Mr. Ritzmann was recalled because "his effectiveness as our liaison between the AEC and the Canadians has been impaired." He said the letter was the "leading factor" in the recall.

In Ottawa, an official of the U.S. embassy said Ritzmann's recall was ordered by the U.S. state department after publication of the critical letter. He said the letter was spotted in Washington Monday by officials who went into action immediately.

The official said the U.S. government does not permit diplomats or other American government representatives in foreign countries to comment on the affairs of the countries to which they are accredited. He said Mr. Ritzmann "was way out of his field on this one."

Mr. Ritzmann, who resides at Deep River, Ont., adjacent to the Chalk River plant, had no comment on his recall. A U.S. embassy official said he has been instructed to make no statement.

NO CANADIAN PROTEST

The U.S. embassy spokesman said that as far as he knows there was no protest by Canada to the U.S. state department over the letter. He added that he believes Mr. Ritzmann's recall is the first involving an American government representative in Canada.

In Washington the AEC said Mr. Ritzmann will not be disciplined but will receive another assignment in his division of international affairs, either in the U.S. or abroad. The AEC has liaison offices in Brussels, Buenos Aires, London, Paris and Tokyo.

In the letter, Mr. Ritzmann said the Washington Post editorial "served to misinform your readers, and further delude Canadians into thinking that the United States doesn't really expect them to uphold their end of commitments."

The letter added:

"While Canada did search a Russian plane seven hours before the time of the actual quarantine (of Cuba), the United States has been urging the Canadian government to stop providing navigators and co-pilots to, and refuelling, Russian planes bound for Cuba for several months."

Joseph Reap, press officer for the U.S. state department in Washington, said he had "no comment" on this statement.

CLOSED AIRPORTS

External Affairs Minister Green said in Ottawa Oct. 23 that the closing of Canadian airports to Russian planes bound for Cuba occurred a "few days ago." A Cubana Airlines plane carrying missile technicians to Cuba was searched at Goose Bay, Labo., Oct. 24 and allowed to continue to Havana).

Mr. Ritzmann's letter continued:

"Canada's quick search action (of the plane) was one more of trying to catch up in the event of a hot war than one of a performance in the spirit of wholehearted co-operation. Many Canadians are criticizing their government's indecisive and delayed action."

The letter also said:

"I think the American public should know more of the Canadian attitude. The image that Canada is our good friend to the north who can always be counted on, is not true. To be sure Canada does not lean to communism, but Canada is one most happy to let the United States carry the entire burden of defending the North American continent."

"I believe our foreign policy regarding Canada should be changed to that of wooing friendly conviction while insisting that she uphold her end of commitments on all occasions," the letter concluded.

Martin Critical Of Government In Cuban Crisis

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin (L — Essex East said here that Canadians of all political persuasions were ashamed of the government's handling of the Cuban crisis.

He said in the Commons that he had the right as a Canadian to "complain about the leadership which the government, particularly the prime minister, is giving."

The latest example was the lack of leadership received from the government during the Cuban crisis.

Addressing government benches, he said members should return to their constituencies where they would find that not only opposition parties, but their own supporters as well, were "ashamed" of the government's conduct over Cuba.

The bidding:

Opening lead—nine of clubs.

Good defensive play rests heavily on partnership cooperation. The defenders work together as a team, helping each other in every conceivable way to solve the mystery of declarer's unseen hand. Only by guiding each other through the use of conventions and ordinary common sense can they hope to achieve a high degree of effectiveness.

Look at this hand, for example, where West leads a club. East doesn't have to be a genius to read the lead as a singleton. After all, he had bid hearts, and West presumably wouldn't lead a club instead of a heart unless he had a good reason. That reason, particularly in view of East's club length, has to be that the club is a singleton.

So East takes the ace and returns the ten of clubs. He chooses the ten, a high card, to show that he wants the high suit (as between hearts and diamonds) returned when West ruffs. This is a use of the suit-preference convention.

West trumps with the six of spades and obediently leads the four of hearts (his fourth - best heart). The queen loses to the ace and South leads the king of spades, West playing the two and East the ace.

At this point East has a critical decision to make. If he tries to cash the king of hearts, which he might be tempted to do, he hands South the contract. South would ruff and make the rest of the tricks.

But if he leads a club, West ruffs and South goes down.

How can East know which to lead? He would surely play a club if he knew West had another trump. But he knows that if declarer started with a six-card trump suit, West will not have a spade with which to ruff a club return.

Actually, East solves the problem quite easily. West earlier played the six and then the two of trumps. This high -low, called a trump echo, signals that he started with three trumps. East therefore returns a club to defeat the contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
