Two Congressmen Renew Bomarc Missile Attacks

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Two United States congressmen have renewed their attack on the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile on the grounds of what they described as confidential evidence received during a defence appropriations committee hearing.

Pennsylvania Democrat Daniel Flood and Ohio Republican William Minshall, committee members, said the evidence was merely confirmed their views that the Bomarc, which Canada has adopted to bolster its anti-aircraft defences, cannot provide an adequate defence against a massive enemy air attack.

"The Bomarc wouldn't survive the first wave of such an attack," said Minshall in an interview. He quoted Defence Secretary McNamara as informing the committee that one of the weaknesses in the Bomarc system is that it is dependent on the electronic communications and computation system known as SAGE which is above ground and vulnerable to air attack.

Flood said some of the information received during closed-door committee hearings is of a highly classified nature but none of it revised his view that the Bomarc system is not of much use.

AIR FORCE HAPPY

Asked for comment on this criticism, U.S. Air Force officials associated with the Bomarc said they are "quite happy" with the results of flight tests and are confident the weapon would prove itself capable of doing the job for which it was designed.

A censored transcript of the committee hearings showed that Flood and Minshall peppered Pentagon witnesses with a number of questions dealing with Bomarc flight tests and how the missile would stand up against Russia's new supersonic medium-range bomber. Essential points in the replies were eliminated from the published record.

The Bomarc, of which Canada is obtaining two B model squadrons, is ground-controlled by electronic guided towards its target through speedy computations made by giant computers forming part of the SAGE system. On the basis that SAGE might be knocked out by enemy bombers, the U.S. Air Force is developing a manual backup system of communication and computation, but this may slow down the process. The enemy bomber might be out of range by the time the computation is ready.

Du Pont Considers Water Plant

MONTREAL (CP) — Du Pont of Canada Limited has confirmed it is studying the possibility of building a multi-million dollar plant to refine "heavy water" for nuclear power reactors.

A spokesman for the company said the study is "at an extremely early stage," and no definite decision to build the plant has been taken.

No location has been chosen, the company said. As large amounts of hydrogen sulfide gas are needed in enormous bulk supply was needed to manufacture the compound deuterium oxide, southwestern Alberta was considered a possible site.

SOUTHERN KINGS CRIB CHAMPS

Athol Robertson and "Duke" MacDonald above were the winners in Zone No. 8 which includes Georgetown and Montague of the cribbage competition. They will represent the zone for the provincial competition sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion to be held later this spring. More than 50 members of the two branches took part in the competition. During the competition interest grew and it is expected that many more of the members will take part next year.
