The Prince Edward Island Highlanders in camp at Brighton until after the visit here of Their Majesties paraded to St. James Presbyterian Church at noon yesterday, where they received the colors of the brigade. A detachment of the five companies under canvas, commanded by Lieut. Col. C. C. Thompson, officer commanding the brigade and accompanied by the Highland Pipe Band marched to the Church. The men were drawn up on the street beside the church and Lieut. Col. Thompson with the color party advanced to the church door and rapped with the hilt of his sword.

A voice from within asked: "Who goes there?"

The Commanding officer replied: "Lieut.-Col. Thompson, Officer Commanding the Prince Edward Island Highlanders requesting the King's Colors."

The Colors were then handed to Lieut.-Col. Thompson by Rev. R. Moorhead Legate, D. D., pastor of the Church who said: "Guard well the King's Colors and duly restore them to the sanctity of this sacred building."

The Battalion presented arms to the Colors while the Highland Band played God Save The King.

The Highlanders then returned to their camp at Brighton Shore.

A sword steeped in historical lore will be waved in salute to King George and Queen Elizabeth when they land here Wednesday.

The claymore to be carried by Captain James Coles, M.M., who will command the guard of honor composed of Prince Edward Island Highlanders of the Black Watch, belonged to Sir Duncan Campbell, first Colonel-in-Chief of the Black Watch Regiment. Queen Elizabeth is the honorary Colonel-in-Chief today.

Still a thing of beauty and balance, the basket hilt of the sword was lined originally with oriental silk and decorated with jewels and tassels. The settings for the 16 jewels can still be seen in the metalwork.

Inscribed on the hilt are the initials "D.C." and the date "1601." Known as a "Gentlemen's Claymore," the blade of the instrument is two feet, six inches in length. Sir Duncan, the first owner of the sword, died in 1632 in his 70's.

Present owner of the claymore is Mr. Ernest Ellis of Tyne Valley, P.E.I. Mr. Ellis, who is a descendant of Sir Duncan, loaned the sword to the Highlanders here for the celebration of the royal visit.

His great-grandfather, Douglas Campbell who was a grandson of Sir Duncan, brought the sword with him to Prince Edward Island when he emigrated here about 1783. Douglas Campbell died in the western part of the province in 1828.

Charlottetown's historic Government House, the white pillared colonial home of the King's representative in Prince Edward Island for most of the years since 1834, yesterday, reached its happiest and proudest moment, when it housed for a brief visit the Empire's reigning King and Queen.

Flower decked inside and out, Government House, in the term of the Hon. George D. DeBlois, has attained its ultimate in beauty.

For this particular event a welcoming spruce arch was erected at the entrance gates, the driveway being bordered by standards with colorful pennants bearing the Island and other coats of arms. The Island crest again appears over the portico which is decorated with draperies and banners. Inside, red, gold and blue satin draperies and a profusion of peonies and gladioli give a festive air to the dignified interior.

Yellow roses and lilies of the valley in low cut glass bowls adorned the official luncheon table on which sparkled gold service plates, Crown Derby china and gold rimmed crystal. At this luncheon Paul de Marky noted Canadian musician entertained the guests with a brilliant programme of piano numbers from the works of Chopin, Beethoven, Liszt, Strauss, and his own compositions and arrangements. Interpreted on the new electric piano brought from Montreal especially for the occasion by Governor DeBlois, this programme was one of intense interest to those assembled.

Despite the backward season the formal Gardens at Government House are a colorful sight with the smooth clipped green of the vast expanse of lawn broken at intervals by shell bordered gravel paths flanked by beds of tulips in gorgeous bronzes and coppers, golden daffodils, brilliant hued petunias and countless other flowers.

Here hundreds of guests awaited the climactic moment when, the luncheon over, Their Majesties would appear and meet and talk with many of their people.

Unfortunately the rain prevented the presentations from taking place in the Gardens but those so honored were presented by the Premier to the King and Queen at the foot of the beautiful stairway.

Immediately after Their Majesties braved the rain and to the heartfelt cheers of the guests walked around the gravel driveway, stopping occasionally to speak to the Girl Guides who were stationed at the edge of the drive. On return to the House they chatted for a few minutes in the drawing room repeatedly looking out of the window so those on the verandah might have another glimpse—needless to say, eagerly awaited. The rain may have drenched the Gardens but it did not dampen the general enthusiasm.

The King and Queen are two people, who are, apparently never a disappointment. The King's quiet dignity and genuine friendliness make an instant appeal. And of the Queen—she walks in beauty," always, it seems, with "smiles that win, with tints that glow."

Attired in one of her favorite pastels, a lovely hyacinth blue, ankle length frock, Her Majesty was the embodiment of softly flowing graciousness. Her matching blue hat was an off the face model, her shoes were grey, and she wore a double strand of exquisite pearls.

Mrs. DeBlois, charming Chatelaine of Government House, wore an ensemble of the beautiful greenish blue aqua, a dainty crepe dress with aqua lace yoke, a slim-fitting matching coat and a small hat of the same shade trimmed with rosemist veil and small pastel flowers. Her corsage was of orchids.

Miss Helen DeBlois's dress was of soft French blue with belt and shoes of deep claret hue, and tiny adorable blue hat with claret velvet streamers.

The Queen's ladies-in-waiting, Lady Nunburnholme was dressed in a street length costume of wine red with matching hat, and Lady Katherine Seymour in blue with off the face flower trimmed blue hat.

Of the luncheon guests, Mrs. Dunning was attired in grey; Mrs. Cyrus Macmillan in a navy and white silk dressmaker suit with white accessories; Mrs. Thane Campbell, in a soft bois de rose top coat and a figured sheer dress in pastel shades, Mrs. Boak in a grey ensemble with small blue flower trimmed hat and grey accessories; Mrs. John Sinclair in a full length dusty rose lace dress with navy hat and accessories; Mrs. J. A. Macdonald in a navy figured sheer with redingote style coat and large navy hat with high osprey trim. Her corsage was of orchids; Mrs. Creelman MacArthur in a Queen's blue sheer coat and printed dress with large wine hat and accessories. Mrs. J. A. Mathieson, wore a long dove grey dress of lace and georgette with grey silk coat and violet hat. Mrs. A. E. Arsenault wore a long Mediterranean blue gown and black hat with rose trim. Mrs. E. A. Foster's dress was black sheer with white applique, with it she wore a large white picture hat with black feather trim. Mrs. A. E. MacLean wore a long azure blue gown with large white hat and silver fox fur. Mrs. T. V. Grant's suit was navy with white accessories. Mrs. L. Douglas's ensemble was a navy coat and rose dress with large navy flower trimmed hat. Mrs. W. J. P. MacMillan's was rose lace and black hat with rose flowers.

Mrs. Noel DeBlois wore a Queen's blue and white print ensemble and large white baker straw hat; Mrs. G. E. Full a powder blue chiffon dress with shirred jacket and navy hat and accessories; Mrs. J. R. Paton a turquoise blue crepe with white hat and accessories and Miss Evelyn Sinclair was dressed in a pale pink two piece costume with large white panama hat.

Of some of those presented, the former Government House hostess, Mrs. F. R. Hearts was dressed in a long black net gown with all over pattern in white, large white hat and corsage of pink roses and forget-me-nots; Mrs. Murdock MacKinnon in full-length olive green heavy satin-backed crepe trimmed with velvet roses of the same shade and matching hat and accessories; Mrs. Paul Murray in long black taffeta dress with white coin dots and lipstick red trimmings, large black hat. Mrs. C. J. Stewart, in a powder blue crepe with jacket and large hat of purple and blue.

For the occasion, Mrs. Lord, daughter of one of the Fathers of Confederation, wore an imported black lace gown, from England, black hat, black fox fur and a valuable two hundred year old cameo brooch.

Of a few of the other guests, Mrs. W. S. Stewart's dress was of pearl grey chiffon with which she wore a large purple hat and pearl jewellry. Mrs. Bartlett wore a pink brocaded chiffon dress with a large pink hat. Those serving at the tea which was held in Government House after the departure of Their Majesties—about seventy of the younger guests all wore long dresses. Blues perhaps predominated but many other lovely colour combinations and soft subtle fabrics were in evidence. A most colorful reception and memorable event.

Prince Edward Island resembled England, King George told Lieut.-Governor George D. DeBlois at luncheon yesterday. The King made this remark, the Governor said, after he had looked intently for some time at the red cliffs and green meadows across Charlottetown Harbor.

Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. DeBlois were presented with two photographs of Their Majesties, framed in silver, by the Monarchs.

Mrs. Artemas Lord 94-year-old resident of Souris and a daughter of one of the Fathers of Confederation, was among those presented to Their Majesties. Mrs. Lord was present at the meeting here in 1867 at which her father Col. John Hamilton Gray was chairman. She also attended the Quebec meeting which resulted in the formation of the Dominion of Canada.

His Worship Ernest A. Foster, Mayor of Charlottetown was presented last night with a beautiful silver tray by members of the City Council "to commemorate the visit of Their Majesties, the King and Queen to Charlottetown, June 14, 1939" at a dinner at the Queen Hotel. Mayors from other incorporated towns in the Province were included in the list of guests. Coun. B. Roy Holman, deputy mayor presided while Coun. R. C. Chandler gave the address of presentation and Coun. J. E. Blanchard handed the gift to Mayor Foster.

Miss Anna O'Brien of O'Leary, and Mr. Hillard Moase of Kensington were in hospital last night following an automobile accident on the Malpeque Road five miles from Charlottetown yesterday morning. They were suffering from bruises and shock, hospital authorities said.

A coupe driven by Cliff Young of Toronto in which Miss O'Brien and Moase were passengers was forced off the crowded highway, according to Young, and it crashed into the ditch. The car, bearing an Ontario license plate, was badly damaged. The accident occurred on what is known as Hall's Hill.

A marriage of local interest was solemnized at the Roxbury Gospel Tabernacle, Roxbury, Mass., U. S. A., June 4, when Miss Mary Martha Essery, daughter of Mrs. Edna Essery of Saugus, became the bride of Harold Eugene Crocker, son of Mrs. Wilbur C. Crocker, of 24 Church St., Wakefield, Mass. The double ring ceremony was used at 4.30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Robert D. Kilgour, in the presence of about 300 guests.

The bride was gowned in a navy blue sheer traveling suit and wore a large white hat and was attended by her aunt Miss M. Elizabeth Bagnall as maid-of-honor, and Robert Buck, friend of the groom was best man.

King George took a great interest in Mr John Duffy, aged butler at Government House yesterday. It was Mr. Duffy's 73rd birthday, and he said his best present was his conversation with Their Majesties.

After the Royal Couple had been introduced to more than 60 of Prince Edward Island dignitaries, King George strode up to the butler who was standing by the door and asked him how long he had been at Government House.

"Fifty-two years, Your Majesty."

"My, that's a long time. How old are you?"

"I'm 73 today Sir."

"Isn't that wonderful," said King George turning to the Queen. The Queen who had been laughing at all the questions His Majesty had been asking, advanced and shook hands with Mr. Duffy.

King George, who had been at Government House in 1913 when he was a midshipman on the H.M.S. Cumberland, did not recall Mr. Duffy had been butler then Arlene, two-year-old daughter of Constable A. J. Dowling and Mrs. Dowling of Charlottetown is in the Charlottetown Hospital with an ordinary straight common pin lodged in her stomach. The child swallowed the pin as she played with her doll yesterday morning it was learned.

McQUAID - DUNSFORD — A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Holy Redeemer Church on Wednesday morning, June 7th at 8 o'clock when Miss Clara McQuaid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McQuaid of Lot 65 was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Keith Dunsford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunsford of Cornwall. The ceremony was performed and nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Father Wm. Howard C. SS. R., in the presence of a few immediate relatives and friends. As the bridal party proceeded up the aisle Mr. Alex McLean rendered the wedding march and presided at the organ during the mass. The bride was attractively gowned in pink with white accessories and was assisted by Miss Bella Arsenault who was att
