Construction Volume Up 12 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—Value of all construction in Canada could be "well over" $9,000,000,000 for the first time, Donald H. Jupp of Toronto, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said today.

This would compare with an estimated $8,600,000,000 program in 1964. That was a 12-per-cent gain from 1963, with more than half the increase in terms of volume rather than prices.

Mr. Jupp indicated the forecast 1965 construction activity will be well within the industry's capacity. After the volume of construction had levelled off after 1958, that capacity continued to grow and it now was estimated "that for some time the industry could handle a $10,000,000,000 program without serious strain."

Construction materials were in good supply, generally. But there were shortages of skills in some areas where construction activity was concentrated.

Wholesale prices of construction materials had risen less than five per cent during 1964. Most of this was attributed to the rise last April 1 to eight per cent from four in the federal sales tax. The tax goes to a full 11 per cent Jan. 1. Construction wage rates also had continued an upward trend.

'64 Air Traffic Showed Growth

MONTREAL (CP)—The International Civil Aviation Organization said today 1964 showed the highest rate of air traffic growth since 1955.

ICAO, a United Nations affiliate with headquarters here, said in a press release year-end figures show its 107 member-airlines carried 156,000,000 passengers in 1964, an increase of 16 per cent over 1963. The passengers travelled a total of 107,000,000,000 miles, an increase of 17 per cent over the 1963 figure.

ICAO said cargo increase, by 30 per cent in 1964 over 1963 to 3,930,000,000 ton-miles.

The average airline passenger flew 684 miles in 1964 at a speed of 171 miles an hour.

The Soviet Union and Communist China do not belong to ICAO.

Opening lead—king of spades.

This hand occurred in the South American championships in a match between the ladies' teams of Venezuela and Colombia. At both tables, the final contract was five diamonds. The contract was made at one table and defeated at the other.

At the first table, the Venezuelan declarer ruffed the spade lead in dummy with the jack and returned the king of diamonds.

East took the king with the ace and returned the five of diamonds. Declarer won the five with the six and ruffed her last spade in dummy with the king. South would now have won the rest of the tricks against ordinary distribution, but when she led the A-K of clubs in an effort to come to her hand to extract the last trump, East ruffed. East also had to get the queen of hearts later in the play, and the outcome was that South went down one.

The Colombian declarer played the hand more cautiously and made the contract as a result. After two rounds of spades and two rounds of diamonds had been played, she arrived at exactly the same position as the declarer at the first table.

But at this point, after cashing the ace of clubs, she played the two of clubs from dummy, not the king. This safety measure assured the contract. East discarded a spade on the club and West won the trick, but there was then nothing that the defense could do to stop the contract from being made.

West led a spade, which declarer ruffed, and South was now able to draw East's last trump and then dispose of her heart loser on the king of clubs.

Obviously, declarer's play at the second table was more sound than her opposite number's play at the first table. The Colombian South might conveivably have cost herself a 20-point pick by making the safety play, but she had at least 30 times as much to gain as to lose.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
