SUMMARY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto: Market slightly lower; light trading.

New York: Market irregularly lower; active trading.

Montreal: Market lower; fairly active trading.

CURRENCIES

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar in terms of Canadian funds was down 1-32 at $1.07 29-32.

Pound sterling was down 1-16 at $3.01 15-16.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—In a busy day on the New York Stock Exchange, the weight of profit-taking pushed the stock market to a slightly lower level Monday after last week's rise to new highs.

Elements of strength stood out in the irregular decline, but there was no doubt about the trend when all the statistics were in. The market presented an irregular picture most of the day even though the averages were down from the start.

The economic background was a little spotty; private housing starts were reported in their third straight monthly decline, and a Canadian proposal to curtail imports of automobiles tended to dampen sentiment among the motors stocks.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 3.17 to 740.43.

Volume was 5,120,000 shares compared with Friday's 5,310,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 0 to 280.6.

Among Canadian issues traded, International Nickel fell 1⅞, Aluminium Ltd. and McIntyre Porcupine ¼ and Dome Mines ½. Canadian Pacific gained ⅛, Distillers Seagrams ⅜ and Granby Mining and Hudson Bay ¼.

Prices on the American exchange also worked lower on balance. Canadian issues, except for Ford of Canada which gained 7¾, were generally lower. Brazilian Traction fell ⅛, Canadian Javelin ⅞, Preston 1-16 and Jupiter Corp ¼. Scurry Rainbow Oil gained ¼.

Yanks Plan Huge Airlift To Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department announced Monday that an armada of 240 air force transport planes will carry a 15,000-man armored division to Germany late next month in the biggest training and training operation ever undertaken.

The 2nd armored division, 13,500 men strong, will be flown from Texas to Germany along with 1,500 men in supporting truck and artillery units from bases in five states.

The massive airlift, expected to take three days, will be supported by a composite air strike force of 116 jet fighters, reconnaissance planes and other aircraft.

The air strike force will fly non-stop to bases in France and Germany, refueling en route from Strategic Air Command KC-135 jet tankers.

The air strike force will number 1,500 men and the military transport crews another 2,000.

No Threat Seen To Maple Trees

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—You can rest easy — our national emblem isn't headed for extinction.

Dying and dead maple trees along some roadsides and on front lawns in eastern Canada have prompted a rash of worried reports about the fate of sweet saccharum, the sugar maple.

But in the woods, out of sight of most Canadians, the maple is flourishing as it always has, says a federal forestry department scientist.

No mysterious blight is threatening the tree, says Dr. V. J. Nordin, associate director of forest pathology.

"There's nothing happening to maples that hasn't happened before, and been happening for years."

Yet in the last couple of years many inquiries from worried citizens have landed on the desks of forestry experts here and at federal forestry laboratories. The concern has been prompted, perhaps, by growing public awareness of what a blight can do to trees as shown by the ravages of the Dutch elm disease.

One report from Orono, in south-central Ontario, had said all maples in the area were dying from a terrible blight. A scientist checked and found it merely a local problem, caused by poor treatment of trees.

Another citizen elsewhere had asked why his backyard maple was dying. A wire had been wrapped tightly around the trunk.

Dr. Nordin says there are many diseases and pests that attack maples. One type of fungus could kill a tree within a single season.

"But people know of no one malady or disease that is decimating maples in Canada,"

Maples along roadsides or in towns and cities were subject to problems not faced by those in the woods—roads, sidewalks, 2, 4-D weed sprays, water and sewer excavations which damaged roots. Even their exposed position, standing alone without protection of surrounding trees, wasn't healthy.

Then a drought year comes along and the exposed, weakened trees die—"they just can't withstand it."

Dr. Nordin discounted a report from New England putting all the blame for roadside maple deaths on salt used to control winter icing conditions. Salt splashed on trees could cause premature coloring of the leaves and some deaths, but this isn't the main cause.

On the whole, the number of maple deaths was no higher than in the past. Checks of many sample lots maintained in Ontario over many years showed this.

"We can definitely say that it isn't getting worse."

Army's Power In Guatemala Is Producing Restlessness

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemalans are living under a slightly diluted military dictatorship. The enigma is: for how long?

There are signs of restlessness with Operation Honesty, the label given the March 30 coup that terminated the administration of President Manuel Ydigoras. One cause of unrest has been the army's failure to indicate how long it intends to stay in power.

A fragmentary measure of the unpopularity of the military regime became evident to this reporter when a bomb exploded a block away sent movie patrons into frenzied applause and cheers for "Vivan las bombas!" Long live the bombs!

In a four-week period of late August and September about a dozen terrorist bombs, placed mostly in autos or near government offices, exploded in the capital. A carload of armed guerrillas struck daringly at one of the city's outlying police stations, wounding one officer and leaving one of their own bearded, olive-clad mates dead. On the surface, Guatemala City gives the impression of a peaceful, busily prosperous and well mannered community of 500,000 people. Man will tell you, with a sigh of relief "At last we have security and order and an honest government."

HOUSEWIFE APPROVES

"It's good once again," said a housewife, "to see the 13-year-olds going quietly to school and not running about wildly in the streets throwing stones and sticks in the name of what they've been told is liberty."

This was an illusion to anti-government riots of the past.

There is much in support of the champions of the military government headed by a 55-year-old, taciturn, old-fashioned disciplinarian, Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia. The government has shown determination — and sometimes clumsiness — in undertaking measures designed to put Guatemala back on a financial even keel.

The regime has increased some taxes, ordered new ones to get social projects going and liquidate a $1,000,000 quetzal (officially — but not with the U.S. dollar) budget deficit left behind by the deposed Ydigoras.

When businessmen protested over too much government interference and the heavy tax bites, Peralta dismissed them as so much noise from the "get-rich-quick" set.

But the government's explosive reaction to criticism of the suppression of constitutional rights aroused widespread suspicion and fear of it intentions.

IMPOSES SIEGE

Reacting to a wave of violence, President Ydigoras suspended constitutional guarantees shortly before he was ousted. The succeeding military government imposed an indefinite state of siege.

The government has warned newspapers and radio stations it will not tolerate criticism of its measures. A radio station, Radio Centro Guatemala, was closed for "alarming the public," when it reported the police station attack. Commercial cable companies submit doubtful material to government officials for "consultation."

The government unwittingly revealed it was checking the mail when it tried a young military cadet, Roberto Trapaga, on a charge of subversion. He had written a letter, intercepted at the post office, giving a friend in the police forces an account of discontent with the government. He faces five years in prison.

Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar, 43, twice told the government in open letters distributed clandestinely that suppression of basic human rights "presages with all clarity the implementation of a prolonged dictatorship."

For his efforts, Col. Cruz Salazar, a former member of the Ydigoras cabinet, had to go into hiding. His home was ransacked.

At his hideout, the stubby, cheerful Col. Cruz said:

URGES ELECTION

"The only solution to this mess is a quick restoration of the constitution, then a summons to elections within four months.

"If they wish to get rid of the problem of Arevalo, then they should call a constituent assembly and amend the constitution to forbid re-election."

The reference was to Juan Jose Arevalo, leftist — leaning former president who still commands a wide following. With bitter memories of the 1954 Communist takeover in Guatemala, the army moved swiftly against Ydigoras last spring just after Arevalo arrived to promote his presidential candidacy.

Longshoremen Postpone Strike Threat

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal longshoremen have postponed their scheduled strike that could hamper the shipment of Canadian wheat to Russia.

Paul Asselin, president of Local 375 of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), said Monday the union's members are satisfied with the progress of a conciliation board's attempt to solve the dispute, and have called off a strike scheduled for Thursday.

He said they decided to hold another general meeting Sunday to see what further progress will have been made by then, and decide future action on the basis of that report.

The longshoremen struck for two days earlier this month against what they called delays in the negotiations between their union and the Shipping Federation of Canada.

The union said the strike was unauthorized and urged the men to go back to work.

Mr. Justice Robert Lafleur of Quebec Superior Court heads the conciliation talks.

The last contract between the ILA and the federation expired Dec. 31. The longshoremen are seeking a 35-cent-an-hour raise retroactive to Jan. 1, plus improved fringe benefits.

Much of Canada's huge grain sale to Russia would move through Montreal. One Soviet freighter is already here to pick up the first shipment.

FISH SALES DOWN

BURIN, Nfld. (CP) — Burin Fishery Products, largest Newfoundland supplier of fish to U.S. markets, reports a drop in sales of frozen codfish. Lower U.S. prices for chicken and meat products are one reason. Another is the recent deaths of two persons in Detroit after eating contaminated tinned tuna.

OBITUARY

MR. PERCY R. BEATON

"The death of Mr. Percy R. Beaton occurred in Souris Hospital on July 26th after a long illness, borne with christian fortitude and patience. A devout Roman Catholic, he was frequently visited by his Pastor and Clergy from surrounding parishes.

Mr. Beaton was in his 69th year and a life long resident of East Point, where in partnership with his brother he operated very successfully a large farm business. Kennly interested in all matters relating to agriculture, he had during his lifetime been active in various organizations furthering the industry. In truth it can be said that wherever help was needed, whether for church, school, hospital or charitable work of any nature, Percy was always called upon and always gave freely his time and energy.

Truly a fine citizen and good neighbor, his home long a centre of hospitality, many who had the pleasure of visiting there will long remember his convivial ability and genial witty nature. In politics he was a staunch supporter of the Liberal party, and for many years, one of the Deacons of his parish.

His remains were forwarded on July 27th from the Perry Funeral Home to his late residence, from where on July 29th a large concourse followed the remains in funeral procession to St. Columba Church, H.L.S. Mass was celebrated by his pastor, Rev. W. D. MacDonald, who also conducted services at the graves. Pall bearers, Bobby Bay was present in the sanctuary.

Mr. Beaton was unmarried and leaves to mourn his sisters; Ella and Josephine at home; Mary, Mrs. (Dr) J. T Sullivan, Melville, Sask. and one brother, Angus, East Point. Several brothers and sisters predeceased him.

Pall bearers were: George E. MacDonald, Victor MacDonald, Ronald C. MacDonald, Daniel Jarvis, Stewart Cameron, John A. Cheverie.
