SUMMARY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Toronto: Market well mixed; trading moderate.
New York: Market mixed; trading slow.
Montreal: Market continued lower, trading moderate.

CURRENCY

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar closed at a premium of 7⅝ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, unchanged from Friday's close.
Pound sterling closed at $3.01 9-16, up ⅛.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected issues were strong as a late wave of buying pushed a previously sluggish stock market to the upside on Tuesday.
During most of the session, trading was barely more active than Monday. Volume was only a sub - average 2,340,000 shares compared with 1,950,000 Monday.
Brokers said some items of corporate news helped improve usual issues but that prominent forecasts of a rising short interest were an important factor in the late strength. This refers to the number of borrowed shares sold short, that is, with a commitment to repay the borrowed shares in the future—with the intention of buying the stock at lower prices, thus profiting.
The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.09 to 587.18. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .7 to 218.4.

STRENGTHENS REBOUND

Korevette, the most active stock, strengthened its rebound from recent selling as it rose 1⅝ to 31⅛ on 41,700 shares. Polaroid was second, up 3¾ at 120½ on 39,300 shares. Third was Ford, up ⅜ at 43⅝ on 37,100 shares.
Woodward Corp., possibly prodded by a revival of merger rumors, gained 2⅞ to close at 16½. IBM rose 6½.
Chrysler seemed depressed by the news that the air force has stopped free distribution of cigarettes to hospital patients because of evidence linking smoking to various diseases. Lorillard slumped ⅞.
Most Canadian issues shifted very little if any. Granby Mining and International Nickel closed ⅛ higher. McIntyre Porcupine was off ⅛.
Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed. Syntex Rainbow Oil was ahead ⅜ and Shawinigan gained ⅛. Canadian Marconi lost ⅛.

Closing sales: Industrials 229, 200; mines and oils 969,500.

TORONTO

TORONTO (CP) — Investors grew quickly disenchanted with western oils in post-Thanksgiving Day stock market trading Tuesday.
The section that provided most bounce last week deflated steadily, closing with an index drop of more than two points. Industrials wavered between gains and losses all day, finishing fractionally ahead.
Biggest loser in the oils was Central Del Rio, the trading favorite a week ago. Central dropped $1 to $8.10, turning over 71,000 shares.
In the main list, Atlas Steel showed the most pronounced strength, gaining 1¼ to 34. Abitibi rose ¼ and Canadian Celanese ¾.
Losers included Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, down ½. Consolidated Paper fell to a 1962 low of 35, but recovered to close at 35⅝, down ¼.
On the exchange index, base metals fell .19 to 174.81. Industrials rose .81 to 530.81. Closing volume was 3,410,000 shares compared with 4,538,000 Friday.
Among base metals International Nickel gained ¼.

Canadian Whisky Popular In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian whisky has become so popular in the United States that U.S. distillers have asked for increased tariff protection against rising imports.
However, President Kennedy's trade expansion bill may intervene to force a postponement of tariff commission study of the whisky matter for at least two months, well-informed sources said.
Although Canadian whisky must pay a duty of $1.25 a gallon, along with a U.S. excise tax which is about $3 a gallon higher against imports than on domestic production, shipments into the U.S. were 12,500,000 gallons in 1961 — more than triple the 4,053,000 gallons shipped in 1947.

Planning Stage Sub Said Revolutionary

By RALPH DIGHTON
AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — Two years from now developers expect the first test cruise of a submarine that could revolutionize undersea warfare and oceanographic research.
Its hull, spun from glass fibres finer than baby hair, should be many times stronger than steel and one-quarter the weight, enabling it to:
1. Descend safely and swiftly to the deepest trenches in the ocean floor, and even there maneuvre with ease.
2. Shrug off all but direct hits by nuclear weapons.
3. Resist indefinitely the corrosiveness of salt water, which, since the development of nuclear propulsion, is the major factor limiting how long a vessel may stay submerged.
A dozen or more companies are experimenting with glass-fibre submarines. One of them, the missile - making Aerojet-General Corp., recently disclosed some of its findings.

ONLY TWO WEEKS

In an interview Edward L. Rucks, manager of Aerojet's astuchem (advanced structures and chemistry) division, commented:
"It takes a year to fabricate the hull of a polaris - type submarine from steel. We have designed equipment which could fabricate a hull the same size from glass fibres in less than two weeks."
Rucks exhibited a model of a glass - fibre spinning machine which he said could be made large enough to build hulls of unlimited size — up to hundreds of feet long.
The hull is shaped by winding threads of glass fibre around a core, or mandrell, in much the same way that a boy winds kite string around a stick —looping the string over the top, then the bottom, and turning the stick as he winds.
The threads are impregnated with a resin that binds them together as it dries. When the thread has been laid on in thousands of thicknesses, the hull is baked.
The only major drawback so far is the cost, about double that of a hull made of steel.
"Once we get into production I am sure the cost will go down appreciably," Rucks says. "The greater strength of the hull and the speed with which it can be manufactured, however, more than compensate for the extra cost."
"We expect a lot of opposition from the people who build submarines of steel, but there are definite indications that the navy is thinking strongly about glass fibre hulls for both submarines and surface ships."

I often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say!
I wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say good-bye.

Still missed, loved, still mine;
You will live with me in memory
Until the end of time.
Lovingly remembered by mother, father, brothers and sister.
