Quebec Education Changes Suggested By Sherbrooke U

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—The University of Sherbrooke has recommeded that the structure of education in Quebec be based more clearly on North American models.

The university, a French-language, Roman Catholic institution, said in a brief to the Quebec royal commission on education that the present structure — division into primary, secondary and higher levels—is confused.

Much of the confusion would disappear, however, "if only we would agree, once and for all, to mean the same thing as other North Americans when we talk about secondary education."

There are two sectors of secondary or high school education in French-speaking Quebec—public and private. The public sector has only been developed in recent years and its graduates are admitted to university only under special conditions.

The older, private sector—the colleges classiques—dates back to the revival of French education in Quebec a generation or so after the British conquest. It is commonly referred to as secondary education but the upper half of its eight-year program is roughly equivalent to the undergraduate faculty of arts in an Anglo-Saxon university and it is crowned, as in France, by a bachelor's degree leading to a graduate or professional faculty of a university.

SECONDARY 'TOO FRENCH'

The University of Sherbrooke said "our conception of this (secondary) level is too French" for North American conditions.

Secondary education needed to be made uniform in the public and private sectors, like the high schools in the English provinces of Canada and the United States. The colleges classiques, in their upper years, should be recognized as university undergraduate schools.

The royal commission heard a recommendation from Bishop's University, an English-language institution in Lennoxville, that grade 12 be introduced in English high schools throughout the province.

Bishop's said in its brief that most students are finishing high school at too early an age, 16 or 17, and are not "ready to meet the challenge of university work, with its stress on independent study and individual responsibility."

Hees Denies Dollar Peg To Hike Cost

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trade Minister Hees said here people who buy Cadillacs, New York dresses and Georgia melons are the only consumers who will be hurt by devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

The Progressive Conservative cabinet minister said at a press conference:

"Certainly the price of some things will go up. But we Canadians should eat more Canadian food and buy more Canadian articles.

"I've never driven anything but a Canadian car. Buying an American car or a foreign-made car is just a matter of prestige or swank because it upstages the lady next door."

Mr. Hees, in Vancouver to open a new regional trade office, was answering questions about the government's recent action in pegging the Canadian dollar at 92.5 in terms of U.S. funds.

The minister said any firm that tries to post an increase in price because of the pegging of the dollar "is using a completely false and groundless excuse for doing something they obviously wanted to do anyway."

Mr. Hees said "talk" of a big increase in the cost of living was sheer nonsense.

'PRODUCERS' JAILED

TORONTO (CP)—Two "Hollywood producers" were in jail Friday and police were sorting through $75,000 in worthless cheques. Fred R. Craig, 30 and Robert Hicks, 32, are charged with conspiring to defraud. Police said two men posted $25,000 in worthless cheques in Toronto banks to open accounts and then only rented a luxury suite in the Royal York Hotel. Police said the men introduced themselves to bank managers with credentials marked "Peterson Productions." Several accounts were opened. More than $2,500 in cash was withdrawn.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	2♣	2♠
Pass	4♥	Pass	4♠

Opening lead—ace of clubs.

This writer believes strongly in making bidding as simple and easy as possible. It is my belief that the more bidding gadgets you use the more likely you are to run into insoluble problems and partnership misunderstandings.

Of course, there is much to be said in favor of the more commonly accepted conventions such as the values required for a notrump bid (16 to 18 points), the Blackwood convention, (asking for aces), and so on.

But some of the other conventions, devised to govern a set of circumstances that rarely occurs, are of doubtful value, and may in fact do more harm than good.

For example, take this hand where North-South were using an unusual convention. In the sequence shown, the jump to four hearts indicated shortage in hearts (a void or a singleton) and requested Nort to show the high card values he had in diamonds or clubs.

North couldn't oblige, lacking minor suit strength, so he bid four spades which became the contract. In a sense, the convention served its purpose, since South learned North's values were in hearts, but in the end, the convention lost some of its glitter because the defense shrewdly took advantage of the convention to beat the contract.

West led the ace and another club. Declarer took the club and cashed the A-K of spades, nO the second spade West discarded the ace of diamonds! South then couldn't escape going down one, since he eventually had to lose three diamond tricks.

West had diagnosed that the only real chance of defeating the contract lay in playing for declarer to be void of hearts (as intimated by the four heart bid). He had to hope that South was looked out of dummy and that his partner could win three diamond tricks.

With this in mind, he could not afford to hold on to the ace of diamonds, because he would be endplayed on the next trick by a diamond lead. He therefore discarded the diamond ace on the basis that declarer had 7-0-4-2 distribution. In this respect, he couldn't have been more right.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation
