New Zealand's Snell Has Excellent Chance

Written for the Associated Press By BERT NELSON

NEW YORK (AP)—If Peter Snell of New Zealand decides to run the 800 as well as the 1,500 metres at Tokyo next month he will have an excellent chance to become the first athlete since 1920 to win this difficult Olympic double.

But this world record holder in the mile and half-mile has indicated he probably will run only the 1,500—the metric mile. He's entered in the 800, though, and reserves the right to change his mind.

No clear-cut favorite steps in if Snell decides not to defend the 800 title he won in 1960.

Bill Crothers of Toronto was the winter-book favorite but hasn't developed as expected, with a best time of 1:47.1 this year. Jamaica's veteran George Kerr (1:45.8), third in 1960, is faster than ever and has a brilliant 18-year-old teammate in Neville Myton (1:46.5).

Europe sends Manfred Kinder (1:47.5) of Germany, Noel Carroll (1:47.6) of Ireland and Valery Bulshev (1:46.9) of Russia. Japan has an experienced performer in Mamoru Morimoto (1:47.4).

In an event always won by an English-speaking nation, the United Sates offers two prospective winners. Veteran Jerry Siebert (1:46.8) and U.S. record holder Morgan Groth (1:45.7) are as good as they come, while third - string Tom Farrell (1:47.5) could make the finals. My pick in order of finish: Siebert, Groth, Kerr, Crothers, Kinder and Morimoto.

Snell never has run the 1,500 metres but holds the world's mile record at 3:54.4 and has a potential of better than 3:50. He approached his record in 1963 while out of shape and again is dedicated to producing his best.

STRONGEST U.S. TRIO

The U.S. offers the strongest trio it has sent into international competition. Tom O'Hara (3:38.1) is the U.S. record holder but loses regularly to Dyrol Burleson (3:38.8), sixth-placer at Rome in 1960. At 17, Jim Ryun (3:39.0) has a good chance to make the first six.

Best in Europe are Witold Baran of Poland (3:39.8), new European record holder in the mile, and Alan Simpson (3:39.1) of Britain, recent conqueror of Baran. Michel Jazy (3:39.8) of France would be the No. 1 man but probably will run the 5,000.

My pick: Snell, Burleson, O'Hara, Baran, Simpson and John Davies (3:39.6) of New Zealand. Place Jazy third if he runs.

Dominating the 3,000-metre steeplechase with an unbeaten record for the last three years is Gaton Roelants (8:31.8) of Belgium. The world record holder overcame a serious injury last winter and is a strong favorite.

Behind Roelants the fight for medals and places is intense. Russia's crew is highly regarded, led by Ivan Belyayev (8:35.4) and Lazar Nardoitsky (8:35.6). Europe also offers experienced Maurice Herriott (8:38.0) of Great Britain, Guy Texereau (8:35.2) of France and Slavko Span (8:35.3) of Yugoslavia.

Australia pins its hopes on Trevor Vincent (8:39.0) and the United States cannot be counted out with George Young (8:42.1), Jeff Fishback (8:40.4) and Vic Zwolak (8:42.0).

My pick: Roelants, Vincent, Herriott, Belyayev, Young, and Naroditsky.

Gen. MacArthur Almost Quit Six Months Before Firing

NEW YORK (AP)—The late Gen. Douglas MacArthur said he almost resigned his Far Eastern command during the Korean war six months before he was fired by former president Harry S. Truman.

He wrote this resignation, MacArthur said in his book, "Reminiscences," after hearing a bitter question from a dying American bomber pilot.

MacArthur died April 5.

The book, completed by the general last March and published during the weekend, spelled out the bombing restrictions imposed on him — Manchuria and certain North Korean spots were restricted.

MacArthur wrote:

"One of those bomber pilots wounded unto death, the stump of an arm dangling by his side, gasped at me through the bubles of blood he spat out. 'General, what side are Washington and the UN on?' It seared my very soul."

MacArthur said he was prepared to resign his command at that moment, but was persuaded to stay by his chief of staff, Gen. Doyle Hickey.

"I tore up my dispatch," MacArthur added.

The general asked if Peking did not have access to intelligence that MacArthur would not be permitted to hit Manchuria. He published what he said was an "official leaflet" by the top Chinese commander, Gen. Lin Piao, which read:

"It would never have made the attack and risked my men and military reputation if I had not been assured that Washington would restrain Gen. MacArthur from taking adequate retaliatory measures against my lines of supply and communication."

MacArthur elaborated on his belief that Russia would never have gone to the aid of China if the United States had bombed strategic points in metropolitan China.

The book mainly is devoted to MacArthur's 52 years as a soldier, which began when he entered the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. in 1899.

The bidding:

3♥	4♣	4♥	5♣

Opening lead—ace of hearts.

It is certainly not difficult to make five clubs if you see all four hands. After the opponents cash two hearts, you take the rest of the tricks by simply drawing two rounds of trumps and cashing the A-K of diamonds. Since the queen of diamonds falls, your jack becomes a trick and the rest is easy as pie.

However, in real life, you don't know the queen is going to fall, and you might take a diamond finesse at some point and wind up going down one, all of which would indicate that a peek is better than a finesse.

Well, the purpose of this column is to prove that declarer should make the contract even if he lacks the advantage of seeing the adverse hands. He does this in a perfectly reasonable manner, without craning his neck surreptitiously for a casual look at West's cards.

Let's assume normal defense. West leads the ace and another heart, East wins and shifts to the jack of spades. Declarer takes the ace and ruffs a spade high. He then plays a trump to the nine and ruffs another spade high. Next he plays the queen and another club, drawing West's last trump, and then leads a fourth round of trumps to bring about this position.

When the last club is now led from dummy, East is forced to discard a diamond; otherwise, South would easily make the balance. Declarer, after discarding a heart, then plays king and another diamond and goes up with the ace, knowing full well that the queen, the only missing diamond, will fall. A finesse would be absurd, since East's only concealed card is known to be the king of hearts.

Canadian Economy Steady During Year's 2nd Quarter

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian economy as measured by total output practically stood still in the second quarter of this year.

Production value of all goods and services advanced one per cent from the first quarter but virtually all the gain was due to higher prices, the bureau of statistics reported.

It said most of the price increase was attributable to the April 1 step-up to eight per cent from four in the newly-imposed sales tax on building materials and production equipment.

Residential construction prices rose by almost two per cent between the first and second quarters.

Gross National Product — value of all goods and services produced in Canada—was estimated to be running in the second quarter at an annual rate of $46,000,000,000.

COMPARISON MADE

This compares with a first-quarter rate of $45,512,000,000 and a 1963 average of $43,007,000,000.

Excluding farm income, GNP in the second quarter was at an annual rate of $44,420,000,000 compared with $44,244,000,000 in the first three months of the year.

Finance Minister Gordon recently predicted that the third quarter of this year again will show only moderate growth, but the pace of activity will rise again in the final three months.

He has forecast an over-all GNP increase this year of eight per cent, "or possibly even more." About two per cent of this gain would be price increases.

Over-all demand in the second quarter showed signs of weakening.

Consumer spending rose by about one-half of one per cent, but so did prices of consumer goods and services. Thus real consumption marked time.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
