English Clergyman's Wife Jailed as Spy; Another Woman Gets Ten Years.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Mrs Luise (part of the name of the Kaiser's daughter) S. C. Herbert, wife of a curate of St. Luke's Church, Darlington, has been sent to prison for six months in the first class on charges of espionage under the Defence of the Realm Act. It was stated by Mr Latmer, who prosecuted, that the accused's husband, the Rev. Edward Herbert, was formerly a missionary in India and was a British subject. His wife's parents were of German origin.

For having an unobscured light in the church tower, the Rev. C. E. Pratt, vicar of St Michael's, Eastbourne, was fined 15s. The light was visible from the sea. Mr Pratt said he could not find one who turned on the light.

Two persons, a man and a woman, of German origin, were charged with attempting to communicate to persons abroad information regarding His Majesty's fleet of a nature directly useful to the enemy, with the intention of assisting the enemy. Both prisoners were found guilty. The male prisoner was sentenced to be shot, and the female prisoner, who was considered by the court to have been acting under the influence of the male prisoner, to be kept in penal servitude for ten years.

"CASCARETS" FOR A COLD, BAD BREATH OR SICK HEADACHE

BEST FOR LIVER AND BOWELS, STOMACH AND CONSTIPATION.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Salty Skin and Miserable Headaches come from torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing too.

GERMAN PAPERS ON BALKAN SITUATION. LONDON, Oct. 5.—German papers received in London devote nearly as much space to the Balkan situation as to the western front. They bestow special attention on the attitude of Greece, in an endeavour to persuade the British cabinet, while expressing disbelief in the Allies' ability to equip 150,000 men for the landing at Saloniki, warns Greece against permitting such a landing "because history teaches where England once plants her foot she generally stays." Arguing a policy of neutralism, the Zeitung tells Greece what a tragic fate it would be for her to see the Italians controlling Aylona, the Russians in command at Constantinople and the British masters of Saloniki.

The Kreuz Zeitung also is skeptical about the Entente Powers undertaking to help the Serbs with an expedition landed at Saloniki.

HEBREW RACE IN WORLD MOVEMENT. ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 5.—A worldwide movement among the Jews to secure better conditions for members of their race in every country at the conclusion of the present war has been inaugurated. A conference of Hebrews from all parts of Canada will be held in Montreal on November 22, and St. John, among other cities, has been asked to send delegates. At this Canadian conference delegates will be selected to represent Canada at an international gathering of Jews in New York next spring. The object of the movement is to prepare to secure representation at the peace conference which will conclude the present war, with the intention of having the status of the Jews in all the countries represented put upon a more satisfactory basis. The need for such a movement arises chiefly in continental Europe and parts of Asia, and the Hebrews in North America are interested chiefly on behalf of members of their race in other countries.

THE REGION OF LENS

A SCENE OF DESOLATION

British Headquarters in France, Sunday, Oct. 3, via London, Oct. 4.—The scene of the British attack in the Lens region is a flat mining country—slag heaps, mine pits, ruined buildings splintered and felled trees, and earthworks churned by explosions—with slightly rising ground toward Loos and Lens.

Nothing is visible except the soft puffs of shrapnel bursting, and volumes of black smoke from British and German high explosive shells, marking positions where the British troops are organizing their gains and the Germans are preparing a new defensive line.

It is with infinite satisfaction to the British, who had long looked at the eye-sore twin towers of the mining works at Loos, that they now have in their possession this German position. The church at Loos, which had been used as an observation post, is a heap of stone as the result of the bombardment preceding the attack.

The normal population of Loos is 10,000 people and their families. Three hundred of these remained during the battle, taking shelter in the cellars of their wrecked, miserable homes. One old woman who cooked for the British is now cooking for the British.

As the skirmish line approached the town it saw six women and a child coming toward it in the midst of the battle. Some of the British soldiers turned from the fierce business of the charge to rescue them, but before they could get the women under some sort of shelter two of them were wounded.

Germans Had Faith in Security of Line. The elaborateness and permanency of the German trenches indicated the apparent conviction of the Germans in the security of their line. Dugouts thirty feet deep were cemented and contained electric lights and arm chairs. Some of them were impenetrable even to high explosive shells of big calibre.

The British bombardment cut the wire in front of the German trenches to bits and battered the firing trenches and traverses into irregular piles of earth. Under such a falling of shells it was suicidal for the Germans to attempt to remain outside the dugouts or to try to man their machine guns or use their rifles.

When the artillery work was perfected the British infantry sprang over the parapets at a given moment. Sprinting toward the German trenches they arrived almost without opposition. Then the German trench was theirs with the Germans who were alive huddled in their caves. Some of the dugouts had been demolished and had in their fragments of German bodies mixed with the debris. Others had their opening blown in by shell explosions, and their occupants were either buried or suffocated.

When a dugout had been unharmed the British soldiers with bayonets fixed on their rifles, appeared at the entrance to find the Germans still inside or perhaps just starting out. All in the dugout might surrender, or on the other hand, if a British soldier started to enter, or even showed himself, he was received with a fusillade. In case of refusal to surrender bombs were thrown into the dugout without the thrower of them exposing himself. The Germans surviving the explosion usually gave in, though not always, for some of them died to the last man.

Some incidents had a humorous as well as a tragic side. In these sudden encounters at close quarters, where the charging Briton met a German emerging from his dugout, the bayonet, bombs, and even fists were sometimes brought into play in the ensuing melee.

A difficulty was the gathering and guarding of prisoners in such a confined space as the irregular wrecked trenches. With rifles and bombs lying to seize them and rush to the cover of a traverse trench or into a shell crater and renew the fight.

BERLIN PAPERS COMPARE GRECIAN KING TO KING ALBERT.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(By wireless to Sayville).—Berlin newspapers characterize the landing of British troops at Saloniki as an act of violence, and dwell upon what they term the incongruity of the Entente Powers, which denounced the German invasion of Belgium, is now overriding the neutrality of Greece. Military critics are discussing the question where the Entente Powers will obtain the forces for the landing, and whether they are being withdrawn from the Dardanelles. The position of King Constantine of Greece is compared with that of King Albert of Belgium.

TORPEDO BOATS HAVE SHELLED ADALIA

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—(By wireless to Sayville).—Reports from Adalia say that two torpedo boats, one of which was French, have shelled that city, says the Overseas News Agency. The municipal hospital, which flew the Red Cross flag, was destroyed and one of the inmates was killed.

Adalia is a seaport of Asia Minor, on the Gulf of Adalia, with a population of about 30,000, probably three fourths of which are Mohammedans, and the remainder Greeks.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. Isn't a question of how you lock or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and many thin men and women who have been unable to add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it aims to turn the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten, into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—prepare it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. Much of this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol works to stop the waste and do it quickly and to make the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop into pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive, all other leading druggists in this vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in each large box.
