

THE WESTERN GUARDIAN

AGENT—Mrs. John Pond, 107 Harvard Street... Phone 289 SUMMERSIDE, AND PRINCE COUNTY

The Guardian may be bought daily at any of the following stores in Summerside...

—BUY general purpose Shovels, Spades, Scoops, Coal Scoops at 2c each.

—MEN'S TRAVELLING SETS in waterproof values at Taylor Drug Co., Kensington.

—JUST ARRIVED, the latest in Yachting gear sets. Call and see your selection early.

—SELECT YOUR Xmas decorations for trees and house now. The assortment is good at the Box 5 and 10, Summerside.

—FURNACE CEMENT. Asbestos and Furnace covering and pipe parts in stock at Braces'.

—FREE—Beautiful 4 by 6 engagement with each film sent to you for developing and printing.

—RETURNED FROM FREDERICTON—Mrs. John C. Jack has returned to her home in Sherbrooke from Fredericton, N. B., where she had been visiting.

—SMALL ROOF FIRE—Summerside firemen were called out shortly before eleven o'clock yesterday morning for a small roof fire at the business shop of Mr. George A. Bess. A spark from a nearby engine was thought to be the cause of the fire; very little damage was done.

—BUR BUYER at B. Graham Rogers' office, Summerside, is now buying again on Friday morning of this week and will remain here for some days.

—THE FINEST silver fox pelt ever purchased by Mr. Harry Kirsh at Summerside was from J. M. Mosher, Timish. The price paid for this skin was fifty dollars.

—HOLDING FIELD DAYS—Mr. John C. Jack, Supervisor of the Fox Hunting Station in the Maritime Provinces is at present in Nova Scotia holding fox and mink field days at Antigonish, Drummond and New Glasgow, N.S. He will also be holding mink field days at Bathurst and Woodstock in New Brunswick. He expects to be home the latter part of next week.

—QUILT WEDDING—St. Mary's Rectory was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday evening when Miss Nina Schurman was united in marriage to Roy Wilbur Murphy of Macpherson's Mills. They were attended by Miss K. R. Harrison and Rev. U. R. Harrison.

—CARD PARTY—The regular card party held under the auspices of the O. C. and C. W. was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Waugh. The winners were as follows:—1st, Mrs. J. W. Waugh; 2nd, Mrs. J. W. Waugh; 3rd, Mrs. J. W. Waugh.

—ORGANIZATION MEETING—A meeting of the young women of the church was held in St. Mary's Rectory on Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing a committee to look after the welfare of the young women of the parish. The meeting was held in the presence of Rev. U. R. Harrison and a number of ladies.

—Fiery Itching Skin Gets Quick Relief—Home Treatment Eases Unbearable Soreness—Diarrhea

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to ease the itching and burning of Eczema, Itching Toes or Rash and many other external skin eruptions and the best way to apply the Eczema Oil is at night and morning and people who suffer from such embarrassing or unsightly skin troubles would do well to try it.

Just ask any first-class druggist for an original bottle of Moon's Eczema Oil and you will receive anything else. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that a small bottle lasts a long time and penetrating oil, clean, powerful, healing falls to give you full and complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Hughes Drug Co., Ltd., and Summerside, N.S.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

Mark Twain's HUCKLEBERRY FINN MICKEY ROONEY

ALSO 'OUR GANG' SHOWS AT 7:30-9:15 MATINEE SATURDAY AT 3

CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

Fresh Upsets In Currencies

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Fresh upsets in many major European currencies were scored today in the aftermath of Europe's latest war.

The pound sterling dropped two cents to $3.88 1/2 in relation to the United States dollar in closing. Foreign exchange dealings, sterling was 13 3/4 cents below the buying rate of $4.02 established by the bank of England.

The French franc fell 0.1 3/8 to 2.20 and the Belgian belga 0.3 cent. The Swiss franc, however, held unchanged at 1.73. Under a new foreign exchange deal, the Netherlands guilder advanced slightly.

The Canadian dollar at a discount of 1 1/8 per cent, fell 1-8 cent of 13 1/8 per cent, fell 1-8 cent.

Carleton and Vicinity

Mr. J. Albert Walker of Kensington was in Carleton Tuesday on a business trip.

Mr. James Patterson of Cape Traverse is on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Francis of Carleton and Mr. and Mrs. Hazard Gardiner of Cape Traverse motored to Moncton last Saturday to spend the week-end with friends and relatives.

Dr. A. M. Bell of Carleton left Friday morning by motor for Gaspé, New Brunswick to join Mrs. Bell, who was called there some time ago, by the death of her nephew. They will be the guests of Mrs. Bell's sister, Mrs. J. Leonard Mohr for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. William Pye of Cape Traverse have returned from a motor trip to Boston and other American cities.

CAPE TRAVERSE YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION: Met Friday evening, November 10, at the home of Deane Bell. After quiet meals by Mary Mutart, David Murphy, and other members, a meeting in which who was in charge of the devotion at period read a beautiful poem and the hymn "O Brother M'm and the hymn "O Heart thy Brothers," was sung, followed by prayer by Rev. Ralph Baker. The Scripture was read and the president gave a reading on the Armistice. Next, the hymn, "Where Christ the Crowded Ways of Life," was sung. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Sixteen members responded to roll call and several visitors were welcomed. The first time in the Dominion's history, seal skins will be sold here at auction this year.

Over 3,000 dressed and dyed Alaskan seal skins have been brought here from London, where they have been sold in recent years but where the market has been greatly reduced since the outbreak of war. They are expected to go on sale December 11.

These glossy, rich skins, considered among the finest in this type of fur, have just arrived from England and are now being sorted at premises of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Limited, on Laguardie street, west. The Dominion Government to sell the furs.

F. H. Pingree, president and general manager of the company, explaining the novel arrival and commission, said: "Under the trade agreement between Canada and the United States, the Dominion receives 15 per cent of the total Alaskan seal catch each year, which is under control of the U. S. Government. Incidentally, Japan receives a share of this catch.

"Up to a few years ago the Dominion shipped its share of the seals to St. Louis, Missouri, along with balance of the catch, and took its due in cash. Then a few years ago it was decided to take the skins, instead of the money, where they were dressed and dyed, and later sold.

"Owing to the war conditions prevailing, it has been thought advisable to bring part of the Dominion's share in this year's catch to Canada and sell them by auction here. The 1939 total Alaskan seal catch probably will amount to 55,000 skins, leaving Canada's share about 9,000, so that this shipment is one-third of the year's total for us. It is a sort of test shipment.

"It will be the first time in the history of the fur business in Canada (which of course extends back to the earliest settlement of any country) that seal skins in any form, raw or dressed, have been sold within the borders of the country. It will, hence, be an experiment, but I do not see any reason why we cannot dispose of the dressed skins here. They will probably be bought by manufacturers and retailers from various parts of Canada, as we do not anticipate any American buying owing to the duty and the large supply of God-fearing men.

Land of the brave and honest, Land that we love and ken, Exiled sons their hearts turn to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

Loyal are these bairns o' things; Mither of Scots, here's love to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

"Scotland, gentlemen," said Dr. MacDonald, "has changed in changing world. To you who have never been to Scotland, to you whose ancestors came out of the Highlands and glens of Scotland a hundred years or more ago, your people of Scotland have not changed. The bards and historians who filled your hearts and mine with praise for our ancestors would not find the same romance to write about in Scotland today.

"True, the generosity, the hospitality, the clansmanship, and God-fearing amongst the people still exist, but the day of the clansman is no more.

"There are more people of highland extraction in Canada today than in the highland of Scotland. They were broken up over 150 years ago and their members scattered all over the world. I went to visit Skye and was amazed to find the true highland spirit. There are men as they did 50 to 100 or more years ago. It is almost a sin to have the name of a highland man, an extreme ambition to get away from his native land; a tendency to carry on his normal activities in lowland cities. Apparently highlanders would rather go to new lands than work under a Lowlander.

"The different accents used in Scotland are amusing and to say the least confusing. I remember taking a case history from a man from Fife, who spoke in a broad Scotch, and I began saying, Pardon? would you please repeat, etc. This exasperated the God-fearing man and he burst out the King's English.

"The Scots are supposed to be mean, but to me they are the most generous people on earth. No derided caution, while directly forming the virtue of thriftiness, is in other directions. A Scot is generous by a spontaneous generosity which is often displayed in princely beneficence, and in the second place by the very sincere and cordial custom of hospitality which extends to the home of the humblest crofter.

The success of the Scot as a pioneer, not only in British countries but throughout the world, has become proverbial to every schoolboy. The Premier continued, "The deep religious fervor of the Scot, his life of industry and maintenance of the triple ideal which has become fundamental in all countries where Scotsmen are found, has been a source of inspiration to the school. The Premier quoted, in this connection, Sir James Barrie's warning to the students of St. Andrew's University, "Never forget that you are a Scot, and that you are a poor man's son."

Another institution for which Scots have always had a sincere reverence is the individual, consequently Scotsmen have always had a profound influence in the direction of tolerance and liberty. Entertaining passages from Boswell's "Life of Johnson" were quoted, relative to Scottish characteristics.

FOR HANG-ON COUGHS DUE TO ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS

and other Respiratory Ailments Take the Old Reliable BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

He was financial secretary for about twenty-five years. We hope that he will soon be restored to his usual good health.

"We have received greetings from sister societies in the following places: Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, London, Ontario, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, Fredericton, St. John and Boston. We have sent our greetings to each of the above societies, and to a number of former speakers and patrons. All these greetings will be published in the local press.

"Those of you who are regular attendees at our annual summer fetters is missing. This presentation was an annual gift from Miss Donaldson of Paisley, Scotland. Every year she spent her holidays at the home of her brother. Because of the war her brother's home was taken this year for the children evacuated from the cities and for this reason, she did not visit there in a letter to Mrs. Fraser of this city, she expressed regret that she was unable to send the heather for this occasion.

"I am sorry that I am not so gifted as our Chief. He can tell a story that would amuse you. I can tell stories, but I never appear to amuse anyone, and will therefore refrain from attempting to tell.

"I again welcome you all, and hope you enjoy yourselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester: Champlon were recent visitors to French River.

The Messrs. Stewart Ferguson and Vernon MacLean of French River were recent visitors to Carleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kennedy accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Brooking motored to Charlottetown on Wednesday evening.

Mr. John MacKay of Stanley Bridge was a visitor to Kelvin recently the guest of Mrs. William Staver.

The ladies of Kensington met together in the town hall on Monday, Nov. 20th at 7:30 p. m. to organize a Kensington branch of the Prince Edward Island Red Cross Society. Mrs. James Jardine was appointed chairman for the evening. Section of officers was as follows:—President, Mrs. William MacLean; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. James Jardine; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. Donald MacKenzie; 3rd vice-pres., Mrs. Lloyd Howard; treasurer, Miss Mary MacNutt; secretary, Miss Olive Thompson. Plans were made for the purchase of a motor trip to Boston and other American cities.

CAPE TRAVERSE YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION: Met Friday evening, November 10, at the home of Deane Bell. After quiet meals by Mary Mutart, David Murphy, and other members, a meeting in which who was in charge of the devotion at period read a beautiful poem and the hymn "O Brother M'm and the hymn "O Heart thy Brothers," was sung, followed by prayer by Rev. Ralph Baker. The Scripture was read and the president gave a reading on the Armistice. Next, the hymn, "Where Christ the Crowded Ways of Life," was sung. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Sixteen members responded to roll call and several visitors were welcomed. The first time in the Dominion's history, seal skins will be sold here at auction this year.

Over 3,000 dressed and dyed Alaskan seal skins have been brought here from London, where they have been sold in recent years but where the market has been greatly reduced since the outbreak of war. They are expected to go on sale December 11.

These glossy, rich skins, considered among the finest in this type of fur, have just arrived from England and are now being sorted at premises of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Limited, on Laguardie street, west. The Dominion Government to sell the furs.

F. H. Pingree, president and general manager of the company, explaining the novel arrival and commission, said: "Under the trade agreement between Canada and the United States, the Dominion receives 15 per cent of the total Alaskan seal catch each year, which is under control of the U. S. Government. Incidentally, Japan receives a share of this catch.

"Up to a few years ago the Dominion shipped its share of the seals to St. Louis, Missouri, along with balance of the catch, and took its due in cash. Then a few years ago it was decided to take the skins, instead of the money, where they were dressed and dyed, and later sold.

"Owing to the war conditions prevailing, it has been thought advisable to bring part of the Dominion's share in this year's catch to Canada and sell them by auction here. The 1939 total Alaskan seal catch probably will amount to 55,000 skins, leaving Canada's share about 9,000, so that this shipment is one-third of the year's total for us. It is a sort of test shipment.

"It will be the first time in the history of the fur business in Canada (which of course extends back to the earliest settlement of any country) that seal skins in any form, raw or dressed, have been sold within the borders of the country. It will, hence, be an experiment, but I do not see any reason why we cannot dispose of the dressed skins here. They will probably be bought by manufacturers and retailers from various parts of Canada, as we do not anticipate any American buying owing to the duty and the large supply of God-fearing men.

Land of the brave and honest, Land that we love and ken, Exiled sons their hearts turn to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

Loyal are these bairns o' things; Mither of Scots, here's love to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

"Scotland, gentlemen," said Dr. MacDonald, "has changed in changing world. To you who have never been to Scotland, to you whose ancestors came out of the Highlands and glens of Scotland a hundred years or more ago, your people of Scotland have not changed. The bards and historians who filled your hearts and mine with praise for our ancestors would not find the same romance to write about in Scotland today.

"True, the generosity, the hospitality, the clansmanship, and God-fearing amongst the people still exist, but the day of the clansman is no more.

"There are more people of highland extraction in Canada today than in the highland of Scotland. They were broken up over 150 years ago and their members scattered all over the world. I went to visit Skye and was amazed to find the true highland spirit. There are men as they did 50 to 100 or more years ago. It is almost a sin to have the name of a highland man, an extreme ambition to get away from his native land; a tendency to carry on his normal activities in lowland cities. Apparently highlanders would rather go to new lands than work under a Lowlander.

"The different accents used in Scotland are amusing and to say the least confusing. I remember taking a case history from a man from Fife, who spoke in a broad Scotch, and I began saying, Pardon? would you please repeat, etc. This exasperated the God-fearing man and he burst out the King's English.

"The Scots are supposed to be mean, but to me they are the most generous people on earth. No derided caution, while directly forming the virtue of thriftiness, is in other directions. A Scot is generous by a spontaneous generosity which is often displayed in princely beneficence, and in the second place by the very sincere and cordial custom of hospitality which extends to the home of the humblest crofter.

The success of the Scot as a pioneer, not only in British countries but throughout the world, has become proverbial to every schoolboy. The Premier continued, "The deep religious fervor of the Scot, his life of industry and maintenance of the triple ideal which has become fundamental in all countries where Scotsmen are found, has been a source of inspiration to the school. The Premier quoted, in this connection, Sir James Barrie's warning to the students of St. Andrew's University, "Never forget that you are a Scot, and that you are a poor man's son."

Another institution for which Scots have always had a sincere reverence is the individual, consequently Scotsmen have always had a profound influence in the direction of tolerance and liberty. Entertaining passages from Boswell's "Life of Johnson" were quoted, relative to Scottish characteristics.

The best wishes of the citizens of Charlottetown were conveyed to the gathering by His Worship Mayor Foster, the next speaker who referred to the civic house-cleaning which had taken place during the year and which, he hoped, would result in the city being placed in a better position financially than it has been since it was incorporated.

He cited the civic relief undertakings carried on in conjunction with the federal and provincial governments, each of which contributed one-third of the cost. He then referred to the consideration they had shown when approached for assistance. The Premier had returned from Ottawa recently with another $50,000 contribution toward the breastwork at Victoria Park.

"Our money has been well expended on these projects," His Worship Mayor Foster said, "and the improvements to Government Pond, Victoria Park, Fort Edward and other undertakings. Other expenditures to provide employment would likely be necessary in the future. The banquet concluded with the hearty singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

ST. ANDREWS

(Continued from page 1)

He was financial secretary for about twenty-five years. We hope that he will soon be restored to his usual good health.

"We have received greetings from sister societies in the following places: Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, London, Ontario, Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, Fredericton, St. John and Boston. We have sent our greetings to each of the above societies, and to a number of former speakers and patrons. All these greetings will be published in the local press.

"Those of you who are regular attendees at our annual summer fetters is missing. This presentation was an annual gift from Miss Donaldson of Paisley, Scotland. Every year she spent her holidays at the home of her brother. Because of the war her brother's home was taken this year for the children evacuated from the cities and for this reason, she did not visit there in a letter to Mrs. Fraser of this city, she expressed regret that she was unable to send the heather for this occasion.

"I am sorry that I am not so gifted as our Chief. He can tell a story that would amuse you. I can tell stories, but I never appear to amuse anyone, and will therefore refrain from attempting to tell.

"I again welcome you all, and hope you enjoy yourselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester: Champlon were recent visitors to French River.

The Messrs. Stewart Ferguson and Vernon MacLean of French River were recent visitors to Carleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kennedy accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Brooking motored to Charlottetown on Wednesday evening.

Mr. John MacKay of Stanley Bridge was a visitor to Kelvin recently the guest of Mrs. William Staver.

The ladies of Kensington met together in the town hall on Monday, Nov. 20th at 7:30 p. m. to organize a Kensington branch of the Prince Edward Island Red Cross Society. Mrs. James Jardine was appointed chairman for the evening. Section of officers was as follows:—President, Mrs. William MacLean; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. James Jardine; 2nd vice-pres., Mrs. Donald MacKenzie; 3rd vice-pres., Mrs. Lloyd Howard; treasurer, Miss Mary MacNutt; secretary, Miss Olive Thompson. Plans were made for the purchase of a motor trip to Boston and other American cities.

CAPE TRAVERSE YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION: Met Friday evening, November 10, at the home of Deane Bell. After quiet meals by Mary Mutart, David Murphy, and other members, a meeting in which who was in charge of the devotion at period read a beautiful poem and the hymn "O Brother M'm and the hymn "O Heart thy Brothers," was sung, followed by prayer by Rev. Ralph Baker. The Scripture was read and the president gave a reading on the Armistice. Next, the hymn, "Where Christ the Crowded Ways of Life," was sung. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Sixteen members responded to roll call and several visitors were welcomed. The first time in the Dominion's history, seal skins will be sold here at auction this year.

Over 3,000 dressed and dyed Alaskan seal skins have been brought here from London, where they have been sold in recent years but where the market has been greatly reduced since the outbreak of war. They are expected to go on sale December 11.

These glossy, rich skins, considered among the finest in this type of fur, have just arrived from England and are now being sorted at premises of the Canadian Fur Auction Sales Company, Limited, on Laguardie street, west. The Dominion Government to sell the furs.

F. H. Pingree, president and general manager of the company, explaining the novel arrival and commission, said: "Under the trade agreement between Canada and the United States, the Dominion receives 15 per cent of the total Alaskan seal catch each year, which is under control of the U. S. Government. Incidentally, Japan receives a share of this catch.

"Up to a few years ago the Dominion shipped its share of the seals to St. Louis, Missouri, along with balance of the catch, and took its due in cash. Then a few years ago it was decided to take the skins, instead of the money, where they were dressed and dyed, and later sold.

"Owing to the war conditions prevailing, it has been thought advisable to bring part of the Dominion's share in this year's catch to Canada and sell them by auction here. The 1939 total Alaskan seal catch probably will amount to 55,000 skins, leaving Canada's share about 9,000, so that this shipment is one-third of the year's total for us. It is a sort of test shipment.

"It will be the first time in the history of the fur business in Canada (which of course extends back to the earliest settlement of any country) that seal skins in any form, raw or dressed, have been sold within the borders of the country. It will, hence, be an experiment, but I do not see any reason why we cannot dispose of the dressed skins here. They will probably be bought by manufacturers and retailers from various parts of Canada, as we do not anticipate any American buying owing to the duty and the large supply of God-fearing men.

Land of the brave and honest, Land that we love and ken, Exiled sons their hearts turn to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

Loyal are these bairns o' things; Mither of Scots, here's love to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

"Scotland, gentlemen," said Dr. MacDonald, "has changed in changing world. To you who have never been to Scotland, to you whose ancestors came out of the Highlands and glens of Scotland a hundred years or more ago, your people of Scotland have not changed. The bards and historians who filled your hearts and mine with praise for our ancestors would not find the same romance to write about in Scotland today.

"True, the generosity, the hospitality, the clansmanship, and God-fearing amongst the people still exist, but the day of the clansman is no more.

"There are more people of highland extraction in Canada today than in the highland of Scotland. They were broken up over 150 years ago and their members scattered all over the world. I went to visit Skye and was amazed to find the true highland spirit. There are men as they did 50 to 100 or more years ago. It is almost a sin to have the name of a highland man, an extreme ambition to get away from his native land; a tendency to carry on his normal activities in lowland cities. Apparently highlanders would rather go to new lands than work under a Lowlander.

"The different accents used in Scotland are amusing and to say the least confusing. I remember taking a case history from a man from Fife, who spoke in a broad Scotch, and I began saying, Pardon? would you please repeat, etc. This exasperated the God-fearing man and he burst out the King's English.

"The Scots are supposed to be mean, but to me they are the most generous people on earth. No derided caution, while directly forming the virtue of thriftiness, is in other directions. A Scot is generous by a spontaneous generosity which is often displayed in princely beneficence, and in the second place by the very sincere and cordial custom of hospitality which extends to the home of the humblest crofter.

The success of the Scot as a pioneer, not only in British countries but throughout the world, has become proverbial to every schoolboy. The Premier continued, "The deep religious fervor of the Scot, his life of industry and maintenance of the triple ideal which has become fundamental in all countries where Scotsmen are found, has been a source of inspiration to the school. The Premier quoted, in this connection, Sir James Barrie's warning to the students of St. Andrew's University, "Never forget that you are a Scot, and that you are a poor man's son."

Another institution for which Scots have always had a sincere reverence is the individual, consequently Scotsmen have always had a profound influence in the direction of tolerance and liberty. Entertaining passages from Boswell's "Life of Johnson" were quoted, relative to Scottish characteristics.

The best wishes of the citizens of Charlottetown were conveyed to the gathering by His Worship Mayor Foster, the next speaker who referred to the civic house-cleaning which had taken place during the year and which, he hoped, would result in the city being placed in a better position financially than it has been since it was incorporated.

He cited the civic relief undertakings carried on in conjunction with the federal and provincial governments, each of which contributed one-third of the cost. He then referred to the consideration they had shown when approached for assistance. The Premier had returned from Ottawa recently with another $50,000 contribution toward the breastwork at Victoria Park.

"Our money has been well expended on these projects," His Worship Mayor Foster said, "and the improvements to Government Pond, Victoria Park, Fort Edward and other undertakings. Other expenditures to provide employment would likely be necessary in the future. The banquet concluded with the hearty singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Land of God-fearing men.

Land of the brave and honest, Land that we love and ken, Exiled sons their hearts turn to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

Loyal are these bairns o' things; Mither of Scots, here's love to thee, Scotia, thee, thee, frae thine."

"Scotland, gentlemen," said Dr. MacDonald, "has changed in changing world. To you who have never been to Scotland, to you whose ancestors came out of the Highlands and glens of Scotland a hundred years or more ago, your people of Scotland have not changed. The bards and historians who filled your hearts and mine with praise for our ancestors would not find the same romance to write about in Scotland today.

"True, the generosity, the hospitality, the clansmanship, and God-fearing amongst the people still exist, but the day of the clansman is no more.

"There are more people of highland extraction in Canada today than in the highland of Scotland. They were broken up over 150 years ago and their members scattered all over the world. I went to visit Skye and was amazed to find the true highland spirit. There are men as they did 50 to 100 or more years ago. It is almost a sin to have the name of a highland man, an extreme ambition to get away from his native land; a tendency to carry on his normal activities in lowland cities. Apparently highlanders would rather go to new lands than work under a Lowlander.

"The different accents used in Scotland are amusing and to say the least confusing. I remember taking a case history from a man from Fife, who spoke in a broad Scotch, and I began saying, Pardon? would you please repeat, etc. This exasperated the God-fearing man and he burst out the King's English.

"The Scots are supposed to be mean, but to me they are the most generous people on earth. No derided caution, while directly forming the virtue of thriftiness, is in other directions. A Scot is generous by a spontaneous generosity which is often displayed in princely beneficence, and in the second place by the very sincere and cordial custom of hospitality which extends to the home of the humblest crofter.

The success of the Scot as a pioneer, not only in British countries but throughout the world, has become proverbial to every schoolboy. The Premier continued, "The deep religious fervor of the Scot, his life of industry and maintenance of the triple ideal which has become fundamental in all countries where Scotsmen are found, has been a source of inspiration to the school. The Premier quoted, in this connection, Sir James Barrie's warning to the students of St. Andrew's University, "Never forget that you are a Scot, and that you are a poor man's son."

Another institution for which Scots have always had a sincere reverence is the individual, consequently Scotsmen have always had a profound influence in the direction of tolerance and liberty. Entertaining passages from Boswell's "Life of Johnson" were quoted, relative to Scottish characteristics.

The best wishes of the citizens of Charlottetown were conveyed to the gathering by His Worship Mayor Foster, the next speaker who referred to the civic house-cleaning which had taken place during the year and which, he hoped, would result in the city being placed in a better position financially than it has been since it was incorporated.

He cited the civic relief undertakings carried on in conjunction with the federal and provincial governments, each of which contributed one-third of the cost. He then referred to the consideration they had shown when approached for assistance. The Premier had returned from Ottawa recently with another $50,000 contribution toward the breastwork at Victoria Park.

"Our money has been well expended on these projects," His Worship Mayor Foster said, "and the improvements to Government Pond, Victoria Park, Fort Edward and other undertakings. Other expenditures to provide employment would likely be necessary in the future. The banquet concluded with the hearty singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

KINGSTON, Nov. 27.—Two McGill University debaters, Alex Stalker and Lloyd Henderson, Prince Edward Island, defeated John McLeod and Mildred Henderson of Queen's University in an intercollegiate debate held here this evening. The Montreal debaters opposed the resolution that the interest of democracy can best be served by United States neutrality, rather than by active American participation in the war.

The McGill team stressed the fact that the present fight against Nazism could be more rapidly and more effectively won if the entire strength of the democratic nations was ranged against Germany. The Queen's University speakers, on the other hand, maintained that the United States could serve democracy better by assuring the maintenance of democratic institutions during the war, and by influencing peace as a neutral rather than as a belligerent.

Use Minard's for axes.

Fox Pelts Wanted

Bring me in your best pelts. Paying highest cash prices. Also buying mink and muskrat skins.

F. R. MacLaine

L-1189-11-30-31

SPECIALS

THURSDAY FRIDAY SATURDAY FLOUR, 98's, $2.15-$2.95 FLOUR, 24's, 75c-$1.50 ROLLED OATS or OATMEAL, 10 lbs., 45c TEA, bulk, per lb., 45c TEA, 1 lb. Package, 55c LARD & SHORTENING, 2 lbs., 25c BULK RAISINS, 2 lbs., 27c CREAMERY BUTTER, 2 lbs., 63c

It will pay to stock up at these low prices. PHONE 246-J WE DELIVER

MacPHEE BROS.

PRINCE STREET L-1161-11-30-21

PAY LAST TR