Ecumenical Council Committee Is Named

By EUGENE LEVIN

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John has created a presiding committee of 10 cardinals and laid down rules, including a call for secrecy of both participants and observers, for the Roman Catholic ecumenical council opening Oct. 11.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the college of cardinals, were among those named to the body. The 10 committeemen will take turns presiding over working sessions.

The pope named 10 other cardinals—all with regular positions in the Vatican—as presidents of council commissions whose assignments range from faith and customs to TV and motion pictures.

In addition, a secretariat for extraordinary affairs was created to handle any problems not anticipated in the preparatory work. The president is Amelto Giovanni Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state.

TO BE 'GREATEST'

In a "motu proprio," an apostolic letter framed by his own hands, the leader of the Roman Catholic church said the council "will evidently be the greatest (in size) yet celebrated by the church."

The council, the 21st in the 2,000-year history of the church, will bring together almost 3,000 prelates.

As a result, Pope John said, it is necessary to put down rules for the procedure "of an assembly so numerous."

His letter—dated Aug. 6 but made public only Wednesday—outlined a long list of rules including:

Mass should be celebrated at the start of each day; Latin will be the official language; Decisions will be made by a two-thirds vote; and work will be divided into public sessions, general congregations (closed working sessions), and various commissions meetings.

Observers from non-Catholic churches, in accepting invitations to the council, implicitly agreed to talk to no one about the council except their own church groups, Vatican sources said. This rule was outlined in the Pope's letter.

ship and knowledge available to it at universities.

Dr. Douglas Johnston of the University of Western Ontario told 150 delegates to the fifth annual seminar sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University Students that all levels of government would benefit by giving college professors a hand in policy-making.

Their failure to do so was robbing the university of one of its key roles in the community —its responsibility for social improvement.

"The teacher should be encouraged to play a part in the key communal roles of intelligent appraisal and recommendation as part of the larger public process of policy - making," the law faculty member said.

Teachers are uniquely qualified for such a role because of their impartiality and independence.

HAS THREE ROLES

Dr. Johnston, discussing the role of the university in Canada and abroad, said there are three other functions discharged by universities. These are the pursuit of knowledge and beauty, acting as the centre of specialized vocational training, and as a finishing school providing for the perfection of individuals.

To help universities perform these functions, a revision in their curricula should take place.

The basic arts and sciences programs should be largely untouched but the courses should be broadened and extended to five years from the present four. Professional students should take a more modest program in general higher education for two years before turning to their special training.

Dr. Johnston said such a revision in college curricula would also solve the problem facing administrators — the need to find ever - increasing numbers of professors. Competent persons, who might lack the highest qualifications, could adequately teach courses to be followed by those entering professions.

QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1♥	2♣	?

What would you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AJ653 ♥72 ♦J85 ♣KQ9
2. ♠Q952 ♥Q83 ♦KJ964 ♣7
3. ♠KJ3 ♥Q74 ♦AQ52 ♣KJ8
4. ♠AJ94 ♥KQ62 ♦KJ853 ♣—

1. Double. This will probably produce the best result. At the point when North opens the bidding with a heart, we don't know whether or not our side has a game. If partner has just a minimum opening bid, game is unlikely. This is in line with the theory that it takes two opening bids (or their equivalent) to make a game— and we have less than an opening bid.

The situation does not change when East overcalls two clubs. If we were to bid two spades and it turned out that partner had minimum values, we might well be on the way towards a game that is not in the cards.

Faced with this uncertainty, it is better to reach for a practically sure profit by doubling two clubs. If North has a normal opening bid and accepts the business double, East will probably be defeated one or two tricks. A bid in the hand is worth two in the bush.

2. Two hearts. The only choice is between two diamonds and two hearts. The chief objection to a two diamond bid is that it forces partner to speak again in a hand where it might be better to stop at a low level.

Furthermore there is the danger that two diamonds will elicit a two heart bid from partner, in which case a pass by us would amount to suppression of heart support, while a raise to three hearts would show more values than we actually have.

3. Three notrump. For practical purposes, game is certain and we do not bother to double two clubs, even though the hand is stronger defensively than the one given in question one. The jump to three notrump furthermore alerts partner to the possibility of a slam. In this sequence, the leap to three notrump shows 14 to 16 high-card points, as well as balanced distribution.

4. Three clubs. This hand is likely to produce a slam, provided partner does not have wasted club strength. It is true we have only 14 high - card points, but that is not the criterion in distributional hands.

The immediate cuebid usually designates a void, though it may also show first-round control in the form of the ace. It implies good support for partner's suit and shows a pronounced interest in reaching a slam contract. The follow - up depends on partner's response to the cuebid.
