In Memoriam

MRS. ALEXANDER MacDONALD

There passed away at her late home in Dorchester, Mass., on June 6th, 1939, Euphemia Nicholson, widow of the late Alexander MacDonald, Brookfield, P. E. I., in her eighty third year.

Although in failing health for several years, she was able to be up and around till about two weeks before the end came.

Her husband predeceased her twenty-seven years ago, also one daughter Sadie May, Mrs. Douglas Younker, and two boys in early childhood.

There are left to mourn the loss, a kind and loving mother three sons and three daughters. The sons are Angus MacDonald, Mulhurst, Alberta; Alexander MacDonald, Dorchester, Mass.; Daniel N. MacDonald, Jamaica Plain, Mass. The daughters are: Mrs. Len Haskins, Concord, N. H.; Mrs. Geo M. MacLeod, Dorchester, Mass.; Mrs. J. Hector Whyte, Buctouche, N. B.

Mrs. MacDonald was one of a family of nine of whom only two are left, one brother, Daniel D. Nicholson, Hartsville, P. E. I., and a sister Mrs. Catherine Dulet, Manchester, N. H.

Funeral services were held at her home in Dorchester, Mass., conducted by Rev. Dr. Hector Ferguson of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, Boston, and Rev. Robert S. Stanisfield of the Blaney Memorial Baptist Church, Dorchester.

The remains were accompanied home by her son Alexander and daughter Katherine with whom she lived.

Services were held at Brookfield Church of which she was a member. The services were conducted in the church and at the grave, by the Pastor, Rev. Dr. A. O. Thompson.

The pall bearers were Messrs F. C. Dollar, Daniel J. McInnis, Donald S. Campbell, Brenton Dollar, Everett Johnston, Angus Gillis.

The remains were laid to rest in Brookfield Cemetery beside those of her husband and three deceased children.

MRS. MARGARET SMITH

On July 1st death brought to a peaceful close a life which in every respect was characteristic of the Scriptural ideal of a "valiant woman." Mrs. Margaret Smith, nee Trainor, who died on that day in Charlottetown, was born in Malplewood, Lot 29 in 1863. Her early years were spent in the same locality and there she was married to John Smith in 1885. Left a widow while still young, Mrs. Smith devoted her life to the training of her seven children, ranging in age from one to thirteen years. This ideal mother was an inspiration to these children and lived to see them become outstanding men and women, worthy of the mother who sacrificed so much for them.

Two of the sons became priests of God, Reverend Lawrence Smith of holy memory, who died in 1930, and Reverend Charles R. Smith, at present pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Oak Bluffs, Massachusetts. Her two daughters likewise devoted their lives to God's work; Sister Mary Laurentia as a Sister of Mercy in New Bedford, Massachusetts, and Sister Mary Edmund as a Sister of Providence in Kingston, Ontario. The remaining sons found their life-work in the professional field. They are Dr. G. Linus Smith of Charlottetown, Dr. John F. Smith of New York, and Dr. J. St. Clair Smith of Boston.

Looking back over the struggles and trials which their widowed mother must have endured in order to give them the foundation for such successful lives, these sons and daughters, in the words of Holy Scripture, "rise up and call her blessed."

However, Mrs. Smith did not confine her influence merely to her own family. All who came in contact with her went away feeling that they had met one who brought them closer to God and made them more appreciative of human nature. Her self-sacrificing, charitable life left its impress upon friends, neighbors and acquaintances and the hundreds who mourn her death realize how privileged they were in having had the friendship and counsel of this noble, inspiring woman.

May she rest in peace.

G. H. TAYLOR SIGN—A new sign has recently been erected in front of G. H. Taylor's on Sunnyside. The work was done in the shop of J. A. Doyle by an 82-year-old craftsman and is a particularly fine example of the sign painting art. Lettering is carved with gold leaf on a blue background, and the large diamond and sun dial and other ornamental work around the name is done in finest detail.

WILL ATTEND CELEBRATION—Additional invited guests to the Confederation celebration here this month who have signified their intention of being present include Premier A. A. Dysart of New Brunswick, Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, Mr. Th. Adelard Fontaine, CR., M.P., for St. Hyacinthe-Bagon, Quebec, Hon. P. C. Johnson, Moncton, and Mrs. (Senator) Wilson.

RESCUED FROM HARBOR—Kenneth Campbell of Charlottetown was in the Prince Edward Island Hospital last night recovering from the effects of a "ducking" in Hillsboro River yesterday. He tumbled into the waters of the river off Hillsboro Bridge while fully clothed and was rescued by a Mounted Police cutter approximately 200 yards from the shore. A strong swimmer he was able to keep himself afloat until help reached him. Mr. Campbell is a Great War veteran.

BRIDAL RECEPTION — On the return of Mr. Parker Canfield and his bride, formerly Miss Jean Garrett, Crapaud, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, from their honeymoon trip to N. S. a reception was given them in Crapaud July 3rd, at the bride's home, where the immediate relatives gathered to welcome them. A buffet luncheon was served and all did ample justice to the good things, tea being poured by Mrs. William MacQuarrie Hampton in her usual good manner. The evening was spent very pleasantly music being furnished by Chester Stordy on violin, Leah Martin, guitar and George Dawson, harmonica. A group of merry serenaders also arrived to wish the couple many years of wedded bliss.

Island Woman Who Saw Plans Laid For Dominion Will Attend Celebration

Vivid Memories Of Events Leading Up To Confederation Will Be Recalled By Mrs. Artemas Lord Of Souris.

Mrs. Artemas Lord of Souris, 94-year-old daughter of one of the "Fathers of Confederation" will be an outstanding "link with the past" when the Confederation Celebration is held here this month. Mrs. Lord, daughter of Col John Hamilton Gray is the last surviving attendant at the conference held in Charlottetown on September 1, 1864, which gave Prince Edward Island's capital city the proud title "Cradle of Confederation" and at the Quebec conference on October 10 in the same year when further plans were laid for a united Dominion of Canada.

Present plans call for Mrs. Lord in common with several other sons and daughters of the "Fathers of Confederation" to unveil plaques to the memory of their parents during the Confederation celebration here.

The daughter of one of the Island's most distinguished families, Mrs. Lord was until a few years ago a resident of Charlottetown. At present she is residing with her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Wright at Souris.

Mrs. Lord was one of the distinguished Islanders presented to Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth when they visited this Province last month.

Keen Interest

Ninety-four years young, Mrs. Lord attributes her healthy old age to "always having something more interesting to do than worry about myself". She takes a keen interest in world affairs and reads the latest of books to keep abreast of the times.

It was September 1, 1864, when representatives from Canada's five eastern provinces—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Ontario—sat around a table in the legislative building at Charlottetown to first consider a union. At the head of the table sat Col John Hamilton Gray, the Island's appointed delegate, as chairman. The other delegates, all of whom were later to win a place on the roll of honor of Confederation were Sir John A. Macdonald, representing Ontario or Upper Canada; Sir George Cartier, Quebec or Lower Canada; Sir Leonard Tilley, New Brunswick; and Sir Charles Tupper, Nova Scotia.

Won Fame

Col. Gray had already won fame as a distinguished soldier in India and in the first Boer War in South Africa, Years later two of Mrs. Lord's sons were to follow in the footsteps of their grandfather to serve in the second Boer War.

Shortly before Col. Gray sailed for India, he was married and his wife accompanied him. Four of his daughters were born in four corners of the earth, one in Asia, and Europe, one in South Africa and one in America. Mrs. Lord was born in 1845 in Fort Beaufort on the Orange River in South Africa. After his campaigning days were over, Col. Gray returned to Prince Edward Island, (where he had a beautiful home at "Inkerman") and was one of the Fathers of Confederation. His daughter attended with her father in 1864. She was then a vivacious young girl of nineteen, who danced and jested, walked and talked with the wise old Fathers of Confederation.

Colonel Gray was one of Prince Edward Island's delegates who were to discuss with the Canadians the importance of the new confederation idea.

IN 1864

In the summer of 1864, little Miss Gray had been visiting in Halifax, and it was just after her return that the Nova Scotia delegates arrived in Charlottetown, to confer with the Islanders and to pick them up so that they could all travel together to Quebec.

Among the delegates from Nova Scotia was Dr. Charles Tupper, and with him were Mrs. Tupper, and their pretty daughter, Emma. Dr. Tupper was attracted by his friend's lively daughter, and asked: "Col Gray, why don't you bring your daughter to Quebec?"

"Too late now," smiled Col Gray, looking at his great silver watch, "We have only 15 minutes before we start for the dock."

"Well, my dear," said Mrs. Gray, "if you'll take her, I'll get her ready before the boat sails."

Ready For Trip

There was such a flutter getting the young Miss ready for her long journey to the fashionable capital. All the pretty things made for her visit to Halifax were ready, and into the trunk they went. In short Miss Gray was ready in her stylish travelling costume of the vintage of 1864, in good time to step aboard for the trip up the St. Lawrence. "I can still see the brilliant scene when Quebec loomed into sight." Mrs. Lord recalls. "It was a never-to-be-forgotten picture—the grand old city—made a most interesting spectacle."

One of the first events was the famous "drawing room" held by Lord Monck, in the Parliament Buildings, where all the delegates of the British provinces met together. The little girl from Charlottetown was dismayed at first at the thought of the world of fashion, into which she was about to step. Among the pretty frocks she wore in Halifax, was nothing elaborate enough for such an event, but she was undaunted. In her trunk her mother had tucked away, some wonderful old lace of her grandmother's, for just such an emergency. Deft fingers stitched the delicate flowers, tier upon tier, over a simple white satin frock, and she had a stately court costume, in which to make her bow before the King's deputy.

Grand Ball

"Then on Friday night," went on Mrs. Lord, "there was a grand ball, and some of the girls were lovely, but I thought none surpassed Emma Tupper."

"Then there was a dinner at Spencerwood" where Lord Monck lived for the Tuppers, Mr. Haviland, Mrs. Alexander, the Popes, and father and me. We had some delightful outings near Quebec. I remember I spent one morning, reading Dr. Tupper's speech to Mrs. Tupper, who was ill with a cold."

"We went on afterwards to Montreal, and there father and I visited Sir George Cartier in his home on Notre Dame St., then we went on to Ottawa, Toronto and Niagara Falls."

It was a lot of travelling to do in those days, before the railways, but little Miss Gray came from a line of great travellers.

Today she lives surrounded with pieces of fine old furniture, with pictures and china and many things that have been collected in the far corners of the earth, by members of her family. Not the least of her precious possessions is a certain box filled with flowers of fine old lace, in which she made her bow to the last of the Colonial Governors.

Serene in her memories of the past, Mrs. Lord is, nevertheless, a brilliant conversationalist, and enjoys nothing more than discussing topics of the day with the many friends who seek her society.

Gallant Case To Go To Jury On Monday

Principal witness yesterday at the trial of the King vs. Arthur Amand Gallant, charged with receiving stolen securities was Dr. Ralph Smith, Halifax, Provincial pathologist. The hearing will resume Monday morning at 11 a.m. and the case will go to the jury sometime during the day, it was expected.

Dr. Smith's testimony concluded evidence for the Crown and the defence did not put any witnesses on the stand.

Attorney General Thane A. Campbell summed up the case for the crown before court adjourned. Defence counsel will address the jury when court resumes and following which presiding judge Chief Justice J. A. Matheson will charge the jury.

The witnesses to testify were: Corporal Cordwell and Constable William Swindell both of the Mounted Police.

Dr. Smith told the court he examined clippings of fingernails, (previously said by Corporal Cordwell to be from the prisoner) were stained green but there was not enough to say definitely the color was caused by malachite green. The $10 bill, which a Crown witness said had been cashed by the prisoner was stained with malachite green. Slight green stains were also found in bits of tobacco. Material found in a small metal whistle in the back yard of a house near where Gallant was arrested resembled that found in the overall pocket of the accused, the pathologist testified.

Dr. Smith was cross examined in detail by Mr. J. J. Johnston, counsel for the defence.

The case arose out the theft of bonds and securities from a safe in the office of D. J. Riley on December 20 last. On the 28th of the same month Mr. Riley paid $50 ransom for the return of the securities and bonds. The ransom money in ten-dollar bills had been sprinkled previously by Mounted Police with malachite green, powerful bluish green coloring matter. Gallant was arrested the same night when he was found with his hands stained bluish green, Police testified. Mr. Riley dropped the ransom money on the street on a whistled signal. A small metal whistle was found later in a yard on Queen Street.

MRS. H. M. AITKEN

Miss Sally Hughes Selected "Princess Of Charlottetown"

Title of "Princess Charlottetown" was conferred upon brunette Sally Hughes last night at the Prince Edward Theatre. Popular Miss Hughes will compete with princesses of incorporated towns of Prince Edward Island for the honor of being Queen of the Carnival to be staged during Confederation week, July 16-21.

Judges Mrs. A. B. Cosh and H. L. Palmer of Charlottetown and A. B. Salmon of Montreal selected Miss Hughes from a field of eight for her beauty, deportment, style and personality. She was given 263 points out of a possible 300.

Second place went to Connie Hyndman and third place to Anna Gordon MacKenzie.

Mayor E. A. Foster who presented Miss Hughes with a bouquet, said he did not envy the judges' task of selecting a princess from the eight "beautiful entries."

The Mayor said it would be impossible to find "eight more beautiful girls in the Maritime Provinces."

The girls were sponsored by service clubs and other organizations. The entrants and their sponsors were:

Anna Gordon MacKenzie—Charlottetown Kinsmen's Club.

Sally Hughes—Charlottetown Rotary Club.

Connie Large — Charlottetown Gyro Club.

Connie Hyndman—Hi-Y Grads Club.

Pat Ritchie—Charlottetown Y's Men's Club.

Doris Howatt—Belvedere Golf Club.

Mary Bradley—Parkdale Women's Institute.

Birdena Frizzel—West Royalty Institute.

Executive Meeting Of The Red Cross Held Yesterday

A meeting of the Executive of the Prince Edward Island Division of the Canadian Red Cross was held at the Society's Headquarters yesterday afternoon. The Vice-President, Mr. C. N. Bissett occupied the chair in the absence of the President, Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan. Other members present were: Mrs. J. J. Hornby, Mrs. J. H. McQuaid, Mrs. J. M. McFadyen, Miss Gladys Holman, Dr. H. D. Johnson, Dr. A. J. Murchison, Messrs. Wm. Moran, G. F. Hutcheson, R. H. Rogers and the Misses MacLean, Darrach and Arsenault.

Mr. Bissett welcomed Miss Gladys Holman, Vice-President for Prince County and the new member, Dr. A. J. Murchison.

On motion of Mr R. H. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Wm. Moran it was agreed that a letter of sympathy be sent the family of the late Mr. R. L. McClure, a valued member of the Executive who will be keenly missed.

It was reported that the Campaign Collections to date show that the total receipts amount to $2,519.28 which is an increase over the same date last year. Miss Holman brought the returns from the Summerside Red Cross Campaign amounting to $436.00 with her. The Abegweit Chapter of the I. O. D. E again very capably handled the collections in Summerside.

At the recent Crippled Children's Clinics, Dr. Acker examined 180 children and performed 18 operations and manipulations.

It was decided that the fourth Crippled Children's Summer Camp be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mill, Marshfield, where the children spent such a happy time last summer. It is hoped that the Camp will get underway by July 11th.

MINISTER DENNIS AND POLLENIZATION

Sir:—Other engagements prevented an earlier consideration of Hon. Mr. Dennis's letter on bees and production. Mr. J. E. Birch, the fine old reliable, correct in his purely local experience, yet not scientific for general application, calls these comments.

I claim that no one in this or the eastern provinces can speak with greater accuracy on this subject than myself, my writings in Canadian bee and agricultural journals having on several occasions been translated into three different languages for world-wide publication.

My friend, Mr. Birch will I feel sure admit that in all the realms of nature, reproduction is impossible without fertilization. This is an adamant natural law, applicable to all forms of life, animal and vegetable, in sea or on land. There is not an item of fruit advancing to maturity in that beautiful garden orchard of his, which has escaped this law.

Bees, while the best, are not the only means to fertilize. If it were so, unhappy would be our lot in this province. But this detracts nothing from the force of the Minister of Agriculture's position. There are winged insects, birds, such as the humming bird, honey feeders, and pollenizers. Even the high winds at blossoming season, will carry the male pollen from the stamina of the male blossom to the pistil of the female flower, without which there is no fruition.

In a closely planted garden, such as Mr. Birch speaks of, with trees of both sexes in close proximity, even male and female blossoms on the same tree, the wind alone could account for the abundant promise of harvest. But this is not all. His ash siftings, a splendid antidote for cut worms, might also eliminate the bumble bee locally, but bees travel three to three and a half miles in search of nectar and of the pollen to feed their young, whose visits to Mr Birch's Eden may have been clandestine, or at least unobserved.

The subject is too big to dispose of in a brief letter, I merely touch the fringe. The strength of Minister Dennis's argument centred on alsike clover, for which there is no pollenator to take the place of bees. The clovers are in a special class for nectar secretion. No small insects can reach them. The red clover is too deep in the corolla for even a bee to reach it. White clover, a most popular honey, is easily reached, by even an anaemic bee. Alsike is a feeding ground, the honey sack of which the proboscis of all bees can reach and empty. Hence its supreme importance as a fertilizer of alsike, so intelligently claimed by Mr. Dennis.

Minister Dennis says a start can be made for about $25. I made one on much less. With ingenuity, slight skill at carpentry, one could make a beginning on $10. A 2 lb package with queen, (about 5,000 bees) can be bought for about $3.50. A pound of foundation about 70c. Lumber to make a hive, and 8 Langstroth frames not more than a dollar. So there you are.

It pays. The business end of the bee is the drawback, but courage and study will overcome this, and once interested the amateur becomes professional, and an enthusiast besides.

I am Sir, etc.,
LEWIS P. TANTON.
