ISLAND DELEGATE TO STUDENT CONVENTION TELLS OF CONFERENCE

The following letter was received by Mr. R. C. Sidenius from Miss Elma Inman, delegate to the Volunteer Student Convention, Des Moines: Franklin Hotel, Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 31, 1919.

Dear Mr. Sidenius: After three days and a half of very pleasant travel we have arrived. Our Maritime delegation consists of 261. I think we have our Maritime yell so that the people know we live.

The Canadian delegation consists of 477 members. We make quite a successful attempt to let the "Yanks" know where we come from.

Our Canadian Conference opened yesterday and we had a wonderful time together. This afternoon the Student Volunteer Convention opened with seven thousand students from forty nations, present. It surely is wonderful to think why so many students are gathered in one place at this time.

We have had wonderful addresses from John R. Mott, Robt. E. Speer, Sherwood Eddy, Dr. S. Earl Taylor.

Such an assembly makes one feel very small but then one realizes that only by the work of individuals can the group achieve anything and there is so much to be done. How I wish some of the inspiration of this place could be in Charlottetown, but here again comes the personal call to get as much inspiration stored up as I can and carry it to "The Island".

We are having a perfectly wonderful time in all ways. Tomorrow our delegation is entertaining for lunch some foreign students. Next day we dine with the delegations from B. C. and California.

THE STEAMER NORTHLAND AT YARMOUTH

The steamer Northland, Captain Inglis, arrived in Yarmouth from Boston at 5.30 Saturday morning. With this trip she begins the round-trip service from Boston to Yarmouth and St. John, leaving Yarmouth to return to Boston on Tuesday evening, Saturday morning she had ninety-nine passengers, only three of which were for St. John. She also brought eighty-eight tons of freight which was evenly divided between the two ports.

There were twenty persons on board, five or six were experienced whalers, the others being men who shipped as crew, to obtain their passage.

NOX A COLD TABLETS

RATIONS FOR BROOD SOWS

If you had a good crop of healthy pigs last spring, then feed and handle the sows the same way you did last winter. If, however, you had trouble with the sows at farrowing time, if the pigs come weak, if the sows had difficulty in farrowing, had caked udders, following farrowing, did not milk well or produced hairless pigs the chances are there was something wrong with the way you fed and handled them.

Sows winter best when they are brought up to the beginning of cold weather in a moderately thin condition so that they can be allowed to gain a little through the winter months. The valves come in sooner more readily and are more certain to get pigs at the first service when they are a little thin in the fall and early winter at breeding time.

Give the brood sows comfortable, dry quarters, especially in which they sleep so that they will not be shivering all winter. Encourage them to take exercise, either by feeding them at a distance of several hundred feet from their sleeping quarters or by feeding alfalfa or clover hay which will keep them on their feet and working over the hay several hours each day. Use some method of keeping the chill off the water to encourage them to drink a great deal of water. Feed a ration that is bulky enough to keep them satisfied without causing them to fatten too much. For this purpose a mixture of 1-3 corn, 1-3 oats and 1-3 bran by weight will prove quite satisfactory, or a mixture of 1-3 barley, 1-3 oats and 1-3 shorts will do just as well. Where alfalfa hay or clover is used the grain ration be reduced down to encourage the sows to eat more of the hay. Where hay is used a more concentrated, heavier grain ration can be used such as corn or barley 60 per cent., shorts 40 per cent., or corn or barley 50 per cent., shorts 30 per cent., and tanage 10 per cent.

If you had a lot of hairless pigs on your farm last spring it will probably pay to feed potassium iodide to the sows this winter at the rate of five grains of potassium iodide to each 100 pounds of grain feed. Mix the potassium iodide right with the grain. This is claimed to be an effective measure in preventing the production of hairless pigs.

Dr. Tremain's Natural Hair Restorative, used as directed, is guaranteed to restore gray hair to its natural color or money refunded. Positively not dye and non-injurious. Price $1.00. For sale in Charlottetown at Reddin Bros.

SALT IS POISONOUS TO SWINE

A hog is killed by seven to eight ounces of salt. As much as that rarely is taken and a hog will not salt himself, look out! If allowed access to it. Neither will salt prove injurious when hogs help themselves to it once a week in a clean trough, roofed to that the salt will not become wet.

It is not a good plan to mix salt in the feed right along, nor is it necessary to do so. When given in that way the hog may get too much salt daily, and in time great irritation of the stomach and intestines is caused which may end in poisoning with all its symptoms. The are vomiting, intense thirst, convulsions and finally paralysis, stupor and death. If a comparatively small amount is taken and the hog suffers from less severe poisoning it may scour for a time and this may or may not give it a suitable treatment.

Brine, more often than common salt, kills hogs. Meat brine, or that from a herring keg proves deadly. Half a pint of such brine will kill a hog. It is not the salt alone that kills meat or fish brines, in old brine develops ptomaines and other poisons. Such ptomaines may also develop in any stale soup from a dirty barrel. Soup containing a tankage is thought to be especially dangerous when allowed to stand two weeks.

Beware too of hotel and restaurant slop, or any slop containing large quantities of soap or soap powder. Such slop is fatal to many hogs each year. A little soap in kitchen slop will not hurt a hog, and indeed is considered beneficial by some; but if the woman folks happen to pour the wash-water into the slop barrel, look out! Soap powder which is much used nowadays contains enough caustic to irritate the lining of the stomach and intestines so terribly that death frequently results.

Common salt, camouflaged with powdered wood-charcoal or soot, and very slightly impregnated with sulphate of iron (copperas) is no better than ordinary salt. Mixtures of salt and copperas, or sulphate of copper (bluestone), much used to prevent or destroy worms in hogs, often prove poisonous. They may not kill quickly, but they keep hogs thin; and the more dose used the worse the animals become until at last they give up the fight. Such a mixture is all right if given for a few days, under directions of a veterinarian, and especially if mixed in the feed. Slacked lime wood-ashes and wood charcoal are safe and beneficial. So is ground bone, if needed for swine fed too largely upon corn; many swine raisers believe in allowing their swine to eat coal but for most people that "black diamond" is too dear to be used as a condiment. Excluded coffee grounds from slops, as they have been found injurious. Mustard in large quantities is injurious to swine.

Thousands Have It and Don't Know It. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furled, coated, tongue, hot, water, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucus membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly germs in the fermenting, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bismarck Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach, while the Bismarck Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bismarck Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any gastric hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bismarck Magnesia is not laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bismarck Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure hydrated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.
